MOVE TO CALL LEGISLATURE IN SCHOOL CRISIS

'N. S. F. Check' Law to Be Amended.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The first real hope, since April 1, of a substantial pay day for teachers and other school employes—aside from the month's compensation provided by Mayor Cermak—arose yesterday in the prospect of a special session of the Illinois legislature.

Attorney Harry Cutler of the firm of Chapman & Cutler, security experts, was summoned to Springfield to discuss with Gov. Emmerson and legislators a plan to make educational tax anticipation warrants of the Chicago school board marketable by amendment of the "N. S. F. check law" at a special session. This law firm has declined to approve these educational warrants while the "N. S. F. check law" is operative.

Ask City for Suggestions.

The city's fiscal agents were also asked yesterday to prepare their suggestions on this subject, and were told, according to one department head, that the governor has definitely decided to issue the call.

It is expected that a special session would make the "N. S. F. check law" inapplicable to Chicago, and therefore make the educational warrants salable, if a market can be found. A rumor was current in the city hall that if the law is amended, eastern buyers can be found for warrants up to 40 or 45 per cent of the $49,000,000 educational tax levy.

In the event the law is amended and buyers found for the warrants, between $19,000,000 and $22,000,000 of tax warrants could be disposed of. The board has already issued to the city surplus funds, about $10,200,000 of these warrants, so that enough new cash would be obtained to pay two and one-quarter to two and one-half months' back salaries to all school employés.

Paid Up to April 1.

The teachers and other school employés have been paid to April 1 of this year. Many are in dire need. Some have been led to believe that a distribution of the more than $8,000,000 of tax money held by the county treasurer would provide several pay days for public employés. That hope was shattered yesterday by City Controller Szymczak, who said that the money must be used to pay off 1932 tax anticipation warrants.

County Treasurer McDonough announced that he plans to distribute a minimum of $7,000,000—and perhaps upwards of $8,000,000—next Monday to the 416 local governments in Cook county. This is the direct result of an audit he started on Aug. 5, with 32 picked men from four large banks, to ascertain how much money he could safely hand out.

Less Than $3,300,000.

Of this sum it was reported yesterday that the city and schools would get $4,000,000, but that was an error. The aggregate collected for both is less than $3,300,000.

"I will distribute every dollar the auditors advise," Treasurer McDonough announced yesterday for the fourth time. "I have made 36 remittances to the city in the 179 days of collections—an average payment every five days—and have paid a larger percentage of the collections, three months after penalty date, than any treasurer in 30 years.

Teachers Commend Him.

He was commended for this policy by several members of a delegation which called upon him yesterday. In the delegation were William S. Johnston of the firemen's association, Eugene O'Connor of the police sergeants' association, C. L. Vestal, head of the Men Teachers' union; Mrs. Marcella Nell of the Federation of Women High School Teachers, Mrs. L. Larned of the teachers' federation, Mrs. Vinita Popple of the Elementary Teachers' union, and Mrs. Kate Krauel of the Playground Teachers' union.

With McDonough's repeated statement of policy to pay out all the money the auditors recommended, the chief auditor of two of the large banks was asked how large a sum they would recommend that the treasurer turn over to the local governments.

"The audit," one of them replied, "will show of the cash collected to Aug. 1, exactly how much is due each of the 400 tax spending governments in the county. Except as a matter of mechanics, every dollar on hand at that time will be ready for distribution. As I understand it, all that the treasurer desires to know is the exact amount due each tax spending unit."

"I know of no reason why all of

CITIZENS WILL BACK SHERIFF IN STRIKE AREA

Showdown Expected in March Today.

Citizens Arm to Resist

Benton, Ill., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Citizens of Benton and surrounding towns, armed with shotguns, pistols, blackjacks, and some with machine guns, flocked to the Franklin county sheriff's office here tonight to volunteer their services in repelling the threatened invasion of striking miners from other parts of the state to discourage local miners from working under the $5 wage contract.

Despite the warning of armed resistance, leaders of the strikers at their headquarters in Gillespie, about 90 miles northwest of here, completed their plans to start the march on Franklin county tomorrow morning. They expected 25,000 striking miners of central and northern Illinois to join their automobile and truck caravan by the time it reaches the Franklin county line some time Thursday. They expected to camp tomorrow night at Dowell, only a few miles from the western boundary line of Franklin county.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Taylorville, Ill., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Determined upon a march to Franklin county to force cessation of work in the coal mines at Zeigler tomorrow, a vast horde of central Illinois miners was gathering in the Midland tract tonight. The march, announced as a peaceful picketing expedition, will include 30,000 miners who protest against the $5 daily working scale, leaders said tonight.

The advance guard from this area was assembling at Peoria at midnight and intended moving south to Springfield, thence to Staunton and on down to Belleville and into the middle of the Egyptian "black country" by noon tomorrow. Other groups will join it and the "showdown" will probably take place tomorrow afternoon, when the working miners who accept the $5 scale will come up from the pits.

500 Miners at Work.

Considerable resistance to the march is anticipated. The Zeigler miners themselves do not seem to relish interference. Reports from there indicated that about 500 of the 1,150 employed at the two Bell & Zoller mines were working today and that the remaining members of both unions in the territory had voted to go back to work tomorrow. It was said that the vote on this proposition was 447 to 93. This action would indicate that the majority of the men would be ready at the shaft houses when the whistles blow shortly after sunup.

Sheriff Browning Robinson of Franklin county is "dead set" against the invasion of the pickets, he told reporters. If 30,000 miners come to Egypt there will be 30,000 citizens ready to repel them, he said. Nevertheless, it was reported that only 250 special deputies had been recruited tonight in anticipation of the trouble. Citizens who feel the mines are a tremendous economic asset to the community are expected to swell that number.

Day Without Picketing.

Machine guns have taken a part in the turbulence in Franklin county in the last thirty-six hours. One miner, Dominick Lauranti, was slain, presumably by clubbing, and at least eight other persons were wounded. Today all was quiet and no picketing occurred. This was credited, in considerable measure, to knowledge that the pickets were moving this way.

At Taylorville the same force of 48 miners who worked yesterday in the face of pickets continued to hoist coal from Peabody mine No. 9. More of their fellow miners from this locality were on hand to offer mute protests against this defection from the cause of the old $6.10 wage, but there was no trouble.

Guard Officers on Duty.

Five National Guard officers, commanded by Capt. C. J. Meacham of Decatur, were on observation duty at the four Peabody mines this morning, and again when the men came up at 4:30 this afternoon, but the entrance and exit of the working men

GIRL AND GUNMAN HOLD UP STORE; BIND 3 VICTIMS

A young woman about 20 years old, with platinum blonde hair, and a well dressed young man stole $150 and two suits of clothes in a holdup of the Golde clothing store at 6222 South Halsted street last night.

Entering the shop, the man drew a gun. Then he handed the weapon to the girl, and ordered Stanley Kerr and Samuel Drower, employés, and Irving Goldman, 6031 South Peoria street, a customer, into the tailoring room upstairs.

Then the man took the gun while the girl bound their victims with neckties. As they left, the robbers warned Kerr, Drower and Goldman not to follow. "We've got six guys outside who'll start shooting if you shout for help," they said.

Physician Ends His Life; Worried Over Alimony

Apparently worried over alimony payments, Dr. A. J. He was prominent in activities of the Lithuanian colony. Detectives said that the physician had been conferring with his attorney, William C. Mitchell, shortly before he took poison.

Chaplin Seeks to Keep Sons Out of Films

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Echoing the divorce battle between Charles Chaplin and Lita Gray Chaplin, the screen comedian today made known through his attorney, Loyd Wright, his intention to oppose the right of his divorced wife to launch their two sons on a film career.

Within 48 hours Wright will file in Superior court a petition challenging Mrs. Chaplin's sole right to enter into a contract to place the children, Charles Spencer Jr., and Sidney Earl, in motion pictures.

The petition will be for either an injunction or a ruling to modify the divorce agreement of five years ago. An injunction would prevent Mrs. Chaplin from carrying out terms of her contract with Fox film studio to appear in a picture with the two boys.

Cites Clause in Property Settlement.

Wright and Chaplin claim there is a clause in the property settlement prohibiting Mrs. Chaplin from starting the children on a professional career without the comedian's consent. Mrs. Chaplin was given sole custody of the children with Chaplin having the right to see them at reasonable times, a right which he exercised yesterday, taking his sons on a tour through United Artists studio.

"Mr. Chaplin believes that the children's entrance into motion pictures at their tender ages will interfere with their normal development and take from them the pleasures enjoyed by any other child of their age," Wright stated.

Creates Trust Funds for Sons.

"He is anxious that they develop normally and then, when they are of age, they may choose their own profession, whether it be in motion pictures or any other following."

From official sources it was learned that Chaplin today deposited in a local bank certain sums in trust for his sons, from which they are to derive income for their support until they reach the age of 25 years, when the principal will revert to them. In the past Chaplin has paid $1,000 monthly for their support.

Rector of Alabama Church Mysteriously Disappears

Mobile, Ala., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—The Rev. Rupert G. Witt, rector of the Grace Episcopal church in Oakdale, a suburb of Mobile, and prominent in church circles is mysteriously missing from his home.

"GAMBLING BILL" OF WIDE SPACES PEEKS IN ON CITY

Sprightly and gay and 32 years old, William J. Gleason, who described himself as "Gambling Bill" from Lincoln, Neb., last night was locked up at the detective bureau because he was spending money too freely. Police gave him a receipt for $400 found in his pockets.

"I'm brimful of bourbon and I want to see the town," lamented "Gambling Bill" when he was put into a cell to sober up. He was brought to the bureau by Abraham Margolis, 4102 Roosevelt road, a taxicab driver, who feared that he would not get paid for a $2.50 meter bill and a broken window. Gleason, chuckling, flung him a $10 bill.

"I left Chicago 50 years ago to see the west," the aged prisoner told police. "I became a gambler in the days when the west was really wild. I was lucky and I've still got plenty of money left, and I came back to see the Chicago I knew in 1880."

Shoots at Another Man; Kills His Own Son

Belleville, Ill., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Richard Helms, 55, shot at another man during a quarrel today, but killed his own son, police said. Officers said the elder Helms fired at Wesley Rutledge, 30, in a dispute over a violin, just as the son, Charles Levi Helms, 29, unemployed iron molder, entered the room. The bullet struck young Helms in the heart. He was not involved in the quarrel. Richard Helms was arrested.

How the Court Reporters (9) Report Courts

Nine times $3,600 equals $32,400, an amount expended somewhat mysteriously in the Cook county Criminal court each year on which enlightenment was not forthcoming yesterday excepting that it goes to nine official court reporters.

Each of the nine court reporters is paid $3,600 a year, presumably to act for nine Criminal court judges, although only five judges act in that capacity throughout the year and only one, or occasionally two, sit during these dog days.

On top of this salary of $300 a month it was learned yesterday each stenographer is permitted to charge Cook county, through the state's attorney's office, 20 cents a hundred words for transcribing courtroom proceedings.

Judge May Suppress Record.

And a still stranger fact came to light. A judge may suppress any of the courtroom history which tends to do him no good, having the power, meanwhile, to order written whatever may suit his own purposes.

These facts became known as the result of requests for a transcript of part of the proceedings before Judge James J. Kelly in the case in which probation was granted to three shotgun bandits. Two of the liberated robbers had confessed four gun robberies.

Probation was proposed for the three gun robbers at a hearing on Aug. 3. Judge Kelly announced his decision granting probation on Aug. 12, and on Aug. 19 he summoned a newspaperman and threatened to send him to jail because of a published account of the proceedings on Aug. 12 which stated that a policeman had told the court of the bad records of the three robbers and protested against liberating them. Judge Kelly said no such protest had been made in his court on that day.

Refuses to Supply Transcript.

After the session in which the newspaperman was questioned an offer was made to pay for a transcript of the day's proceedings, but E. M. Allen, official court reporter, refused to supply it without an order from Judge Kelly, who had left court.

At the suggestion of a lawyer interested in the prosecution of the three bandits, inquiry was made yesterday concerning the possibility of getting the official court reporter's version of what was said in Judge Kelly's court on Aug. 3. This lawyer said the newspaperman's account of what had been said in court was substantially what was said on Aug. 3, although not repeated on Aug. 12.

But Judge Kelly did not hold court yesterday and this presumably public record could not be obtained for publication, even at private expense. Stenographer Allen had previously refused to state under whom he was employed, or to give the name of any superior officer he might have.

Paid For by Country.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller, who is acting state's attorney, said he had no jurisdiction. Whenever his office wants anything taken down by the $300 a month official reporter Cook county pays the reporter either 50 cents or 70 cents a page, he wasn't sure which.

It was admitted by all Criminal court attaches that it would be a simple matter for a judge to "impound" or destroy the notes taken by an official reporter on any matter the judge didn't care to have bandied about.

This system is said to be an innovation. A state law was passed in 1927 authorizing downstate Circuit judges to have official reporters [one to a judge], fixing the pay at $3,600 a year and allowing them to charge not more than 15 cents a page for transcribing their notes. The statute allows 20 cents a page in Cook county. Judge Harry Fisher is credited with having the legislature in 1931 appropriate for nine reporters to serve the Criminal court judges here. Then some home made civil service tests were prepared and nine stenographers were appointed official reporters. The law directory lists their names, as follows:

E. M. Allen, Gene P. Charters, Giles Madeline, G. J. Healy, Harriet Heinemann, Helen Kaylor, Margaret Meek, Hermann F. Post, and John A. Witt.

Have Private Offices.

Allen's address is given as Criminal court building. All the others are listed as having downtown offices and it was said there is no objection to their doing private work when not needed in the Criminal court. Yesterday Judge John Prystalski was the only judge sitting, and he was acting chief justice. He finished his court work by 1 o'clock. What work the nine reporters were doing all day could not be ascertained.

The court directory declares a complete record of all the matters coming before a Criminal court may be obtained "at rates fixed by statute."

'FIGHTING FOG,' RADIO REPORTS; THEN SILENCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Of three airplanes, carrying twelve persons, which took off today on flights from the United States to Europe, one had completed the firstlap safely, while the other two were long overdue at the airport here.

Lieut. Col. George Hutchinson and his crew of seven, including his wife and two small daughters, landed their huge Sikorsky amphibion at St. John's, N. B., the first leg of a leisurely flight to London.

Two Others Missing.

Thor Solberg and Carl Petersen, who left New York at 5:43 a. m. [Chicago daylight time] on a race to Norway, with Harbor Grace as their first stop, were overdue several hours and had not been heard from directly since their last radio report 13 hours after taking off. At 2:30 a. m., Newfoundland daylight time, they were approximately eighteen hours out of New York.

Neither had any word been received about Clyde Lee and John Bochkon, who left Barre, Vt., at 11:15 a. m. [Chicago daylight time], racing against Solberg and Petersen in a smaller and faster plane. Their plane carried no radio. They also are hours overdue on ordinary flying time.

Fear Forced Landing.

Anxiety over the fate of the two planes began at dusk and grew as rain began to fall. The field has been lighted with magnesium flares all night, but it was feared both planes probably were lost in fog, if they were not down in some out of the way place. It was pointed out a landing anywhere in this vicinity probably would be disastrous.

Radio reports from Petersen the first thirteen hours of the flight told of battling head winds, while the final message reported the plane lost in a fog and asking for a beacon at Harbor Grace.

Can't Go Down Now.

The message said:

"We have storm and fog now. We can't go down. We have gas for seven or eight hours so will circle around till it gets better. Please try to find out if Harbor Grace has any light beacons."

The last report of sighting the Solberg-Petersen plane came from Bay l'Argent at 8:50 Newfoundland time, which is only 75 miles from Harbor Grace. A huge yellow winged red ship, which describes their plane, was sighted. Amateur stations are attempting to reach the plane over short wave wireless.

Throughout the day reports of planes came from villages along the Newfoundland coast but none of them was certain of the identity of the planes sighted.

Hutchinsons May Delay.

The Hutchinson family landed at St. John's, N. B., at 4:05 p. m. [Chicago daylight time], having flown the 511 miles from New York in 5 hours and 58 minutes.

The party of eight will remain overnight at least and their takeoff for Labrador, scheduled for tomorrow in the event weather was fine, may be postponed due to the opposition of the Danish government. Denmark today refused permission for the family to fly over Greenland, their third day's destination, because of the difficulty of rescuing the party in the event of accident.

PLANES WELL PREPARED

New York, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Three planes carrying twelve persons, including a mother and her two small daughters, were headed for Europe today.

Two of the planes were in a neck and neck race for Oslo, Norway, with refueling stops at Harbor Grace. The other carried the flying Hutchinson family and four companions, off on a projected five day aerial jaunt to London by easy stages.

The first to take to the air were Thor Solberg and Carl Petersen, who lifted their big sesquiplane from Floyd Bennett field at 5:43 this morning, carrying a considerable freight of postcards and engraved resolutions of good will from patriotic Norwegian-Americans who are footing the bill. Petersen is a former Chicagoan, but moved to New York two years ago.

Second were the Hutchinsons—George R., his wife and their daughters, Kathryn, eight, and Janet Lee, six, accompanied by Peter Redpath, navigator; Joseph Ruff, engineer; C. J. Altillisch, radio operator, and Norman W. Alley, cameraman.

They soared up from Floyd Bennett field in their Sikorsky amphibion at 10:07, with St. John, N. B., their first stop.

Third to take off were Clyde A. Lee and John Bochkon, who took off for Oslo, by way of Harbor Grace, from Barre, Vt., at 11:15. Nearer their goal to start with, they had a smaller but faster plane than their competitors from Brooklyn and arranged to land at Harbor Grace this evening to make an even start in the race over 2,500 miles of the North Atlantic, Scotland and the North sea to Kjeller field, Oslo.

Run 4,200 Feet for Takeoff.

Solberg, a well-to-do Brooklyn picture frame manufacturer and aviator, was at the controls of the red and orange ship when it lumbered virtually the full length of the 4,200 foot runway and soared up into the dawn.

Petersen, a motion picture sound expert and former radio man with the Byrd exposition, watched over his radio set, the most elaborate ever carried on a long distance flight. He expected to establish contact with ground stations both here and in Norway during the flight and was equipped also to receive messages.

Of the other pair Lee, an American, is the senior pilot, though junior in years. Once a barnstormer with the late "Speed" Holman, he has been a commercial flyer in the west and in Mexico more recently. He was at the controls of the red Stimson, Green Mountain Boy, for the start.

Bochkon, a Norwegian, began his flying career in the Norwegian army in 1920 and since his arrival in this country seven years ago has been interested in commercial aviation as pilot and engineer. Neither is married.

Solberg and Petersen planned to take aboard a capacity load of 1,200 gallons of gasoline at Harbor Grace, nearly twice as much as they took from Floyd Bennett field, for the 2,500 mile flight to Oslo.

Ship Built for Rome Flight.

The big Bellanca was named the Enna Jettick in honor of F. L. Emerson, Auburn, N. Y., shoe manufacturer and aviation enthusiast, who is one of the financial backers. It was built some years ago for a proposed flight to Rome which never materialized. Equipped with a retractable landing gear which lowers wind resistance, it has a cruising speed of about ninety miles an hour and a top speed of about 130.

Bernt Balchen, the most famous of Norwegian aviators, helped his fellow countrymen in their preparations for the enterprise. Acting on his advice they took along plenty of provisions. They had aboard a gallon of coffee, five gallons of water, twenty-five assorted sandwiches, a package of zwieback, some soda pop and a few packages of chewing gum.

Waiting for Solberg in Oslo is his wife, Mrs. Ingrid Solberg, whom he married in Brooklyn about a year ago. Mrs. Petersen was at the field.

Solberg Motorcycle Racer.

Before taking up flying Solberg won considerable fame in Europe as a motorcycle racer. Petersen was widely known in his native land as a radio expert and has had large experience in the arctic and antarctic.

Of the Lee-Bochkon combination Lee is 24 years old and lives in Oshkosh; he claims eight years of flying experience. Brochkon is 28 and is from Brooklyn and has flown since he was 22.

They hope to cover the 3,150 miles from Harbor Grace to Kjeller field at Oslo in about thirty hours. Lee is pilot-commander and Bochkon is co-pilot.

The doors in the cabin of the plane were sealed in order that auxiliary gasoline tanks might be installed. Should the Green Mountain Boy be forced down Lee hopes that the gasoline cans, empty by then, will give the ship buoyancy at least long enough for the flyers to cut away the engine with a hacksaw.

Family in Uniform.

Those in the Hutchinson party were all dressed alike in brown sports coats, buff polo shirts and suede riding breeches. Even the dolls, Kathryn's Patsy Joan, and Janet's Patsy Lou, were tricked out in the uniform suits.

After their first 511 mile jump the flying family planned to rest for the night. Unless weather conditions are bad, the expedition plans to reach Labrador on the second day, Greenland on the third day, Iceland on the fourth day and London on the fifth day. The distance for the entire flight is estimated at 4,200 miles.

One of the purposes of the flight is to demonstrate the safety of trans-Atlantic flying over the air mail route which has been charted by the government.

The plane carries 350 gallons of gasoline and has a cruising radius of seven to seven and one-half hours at 110 miles an hour. It is powered with two Pratt-Whitney 420 horse power motors.

DENMARK DENIES AID.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Aug. 23.—George Hutchinson, who with his wife and two daughters, started a trans-Atlantic flight from Floyd Bennett airport, New York, today, was refused permission to fly over Greenland by the Danish government.

The Danish foreign office informed the American legation here that the government had refused the desired permission and declined to take the responsibility for the consequences of the risky flight. The extreme difficulty of effecting a rescue should an accident occur was pointed out.

CESSNA LEADS TRANSCONTINENT AIRPLANE DERBY

Lubbock, Tex., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Eldon Cessna, flyer and airplane designer of Wichita, Kas., increased his first place point score in the western air Derby today by leading the Los Angeles-Cleveland flyers into Lubbock.

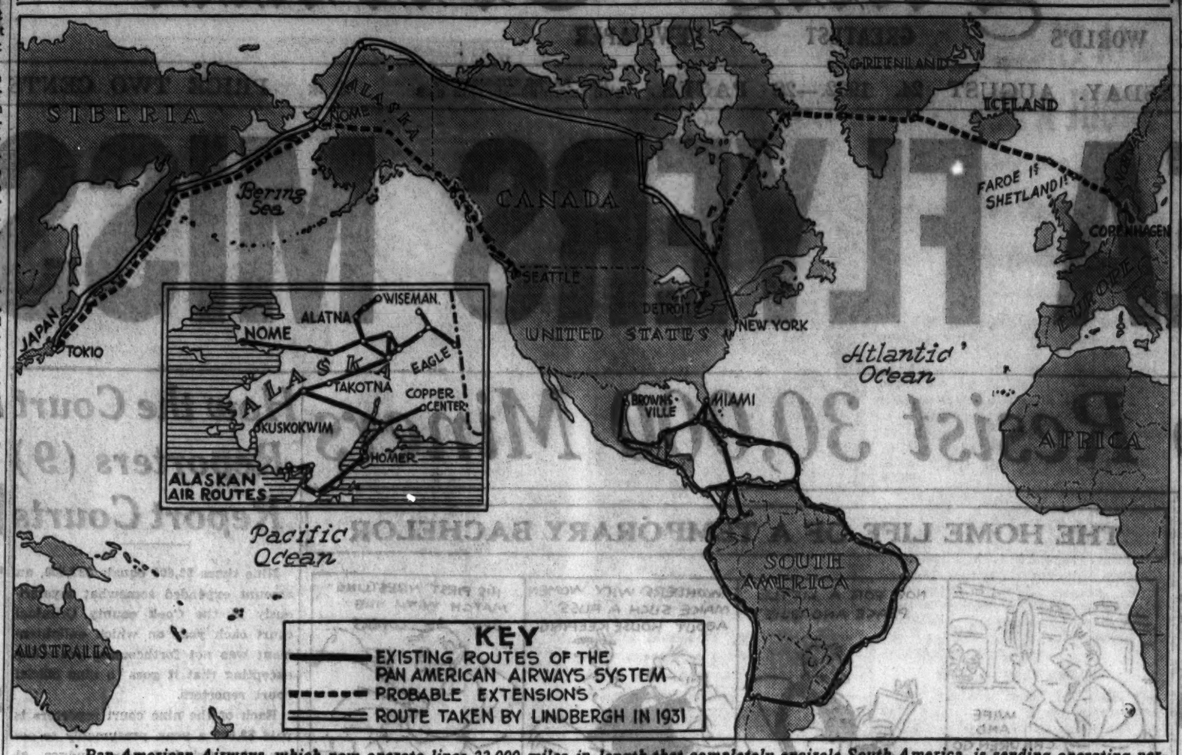
Cessna flew the 176 miles from Roswell, N. M., in one hour and 19 minutes. Close behind him came Roy Hunt of Norman, Okla., who also holds second place in the point standing. Art Carnahan of Bloomington, Ill., was the third to reach Lubbock, the night control point. Cessna had 752.73 points, Hunt 685, and Carnahan, 402.

Tuohy Leads in East.

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 23.—(AP)—J. H. Tuohy, Olean, N. Y., took the lead in the eastern section of the cross-country air Derby tonight by winning the Birmingham-Jackson lap, covering the 215 miles in slightly more than two hours.

Tuohy landed eight minutes ahead of Helen McCloskey, Pittsburgh, who paced Chappy Lennox, New Haven, Conn., and J. A. Fields, Bradford, Pa., by a few seconds.

PAN-AMERICAN AIRWAYS TO EXPAND ALASKA LINES



Pan-American Airways, which now operate lines 22,000 miles in length that completely encircle South America, is sending operating personnel to Alaska to take over and expand the Alaskan Airways system recently purchased from the Aviation corporation. Observers point out that the result of the expansion will be an air line from the United States to the orient, partially along the route blazed by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh a year ago. Col. Lindbergh blazed Central American routes for Pan-American. Franchises for a North Atlantic route to Europe are also held by Pan-American Airways for development in the near future.

System Important in Expansion Plans.

Officials of Pan-American Airways announced yesterday that employés are en route to Alaska to take over the Alaskan Airways system recently purchased by Pan American from the Aviation corporation. The Alaskan system has long been regarded as the key to a proposed air mail and passenger line from the United States to the orient.

Pan-American officials denied that they plan to inaugurate the North Pacific route to the orient, by way of Alaska, in 1935, at the same time their projected North Atlantic route to Europe is expected to be placed in operation, but did say that many improvements are to be made immediately in the Alaskan system. The same type of equipment in force on the 22,000 miles of Pan American lines which encircle South America will be installed, including two way radio communication on all planes and complete weather data.

System Is 2,500 Miles Long.

The Alaskan system, which was acquired in the name of the Pacific Alaska Airways, Inc., is 2,500 miles long, has air mail contracts and serves a territory of more than a half million square miles.

At the time of the purchase of Alaskan Airways observers in the domestic air transport field recalled the flight of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, an official of Pan-American Airways, to Japan by way of Alaska a year ago in which he penetrated the Arctic circle along the northern coast of Canada.

Mail Line to Alaska.

An air mail line between the United States and Alaska, along the west coast of Canada, was proposed to the postoffice department as entirely feasible, but was rejected on the ground that there is not enough mail traveling between Alaska and the United States to support the route. A mail line to the orient, however, would carry a much larger volume of mail.

Baby Calls Grandfather; He Finds Her Mother Slain

New York, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Charles Weeks of Brooklyn was passing the home of his son, Milton, when his 4 year old granddaughter, Dorothy, called to him from a window. He went in and on a couch in the living room found his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Catherine Weeks, lying dead, with a rolled piece of gauze twisted around her neck. Mrs. Weeks' husband is at a military camp and her two children, Dorothy and Charles, 2, could throw no light on their mother's death.

COL. LINDBERGH AND CAPT. MOLLISON TALK OVER OCEAN FLIGHTS

New York, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Capt. James A. Mollison, the first men to fly the Atlantic ocean solo eastward and westward, respectively, met for the first time today and had a quiet talk on ocean flying. The meeting took place in the apartment of Andrew F. Carter, oil company executive, before a dinner party for Capt. Mollison. Lindbergh did not stay for the dinner.

Capt. Mollison, who crossed the Atlantic at a cost of $65, and hopes that tail winds will make the return trip even cheaper, will not leave before Friday. He learned today that weather conditions for the flight are not good and won't be for a couple of days.

The flyer had lunch with Alfred E. Smith. The former governor asked many questions about the plane and was much impressed by its tinyness.

Wife Will Try Solo.

LONDON, Aug. 24 [Wednesday],—(AP)—Amy Johnson, wife of Capt. James A. Mollison, is planning to duplicate her husband's example by flying the Atlantic alone from east to west next month, the London Express said today. The British aviatrix was said to be practicing blind flying with the aspiration of being the first woman to complete a solo flight from Europe to the United States.

CLOSED BANK OFFICIALS FACE JURY PROBE

State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county announced yesterday that evidence against directors and officials of the Highwood State bank of Highwood, Ill., which closed July 28, will be presented to the grand jury when it meets in October.

Auditors have discovered that large withdrawals were made by directors just before the bank closed, Mr. Smith declared. J. J. Flannigan, retired business man of Highwood and a director of the bank, withdrew $5,000, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Olander withdrew more than $1,000 during the last week the bank was open. Flannigan and Olander were the largest stockholders in the bank, which closed with liabilities of $200,000.

"The records show that the bank was insolvent for months before it was closed," said the prosecutor.

WOMAN LEAPS TO DEATH FROM SPEEDING PLANE

Despondent Over Her Failure to Find Work.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—[Special.] — Miss Marjorie Fletcher, a pretty school teacher of Forestville, N. Y., celebrated her 32d birthday today by leaping 1,800 feet to her death from a specially chartered airplane.

Her body landed in a wooded tract three miles from Annapolis, and was still unrecovered tonight. Parties of searchers have been scouring the region for hours.

Plunges 1,800 Feet.

During the afternoon, Miss Fletcher went to the Washington-Hoover airport, and engaged an open cockpit plane for a round trip to Annapolis. She wished to take a pleasure trip, she told the pilot, Roger Scott.

"This is my birthday," she added, "and I thought I'd take a plane ride."

Scott helped her into the front cockpit, and took his position in the rear pit. They flew toward the Maryland capital. She gave no indication of what she was about to do. The plane was riding smoothly, about 1,800 feet up.

"Suddenly she climbed out of the cockpit," said Scott. "She didn't even look around at me, but leaped over the side. She moved so quickly that I had no opportunity to try to stop her. I watched her fall, and saw her land apparently in a clump of bushes."

Former School Teacher.

Scott landed his plane on a field near the spot of the fall, made a brief search, and then returned to the airport. He flew back again with a searching party. In his plane he found Miss Fletcher's purse containing $34 and the name and address of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. McConoughy, of Washington, with whom she had been living. They told police that the young school teacher had been despondent over unemployment.

Miss Fletcher was the only daughter of Clayton Fletcher, well known Chautauqua county farmer, and was at one time a teacher in the Forestville high school. She was graduated from Oberlin college, where her only brother, Robert, is a teacher. Miss Fletcher gave up school work to attend her sick mother. Mrs. Fletcher died last January. Two months ago, Miss Fletcher went to live with the McConoughys.

Blame Novice Pilot for Crash.

Failure of a novice pilot to disconnect a set of dual controls was held responsible by the commerce department today for the plane crash at Hybla Valley, Va., last night in which three young Washingtonians were killed. An official investigation of the accident was completed late today by the department.

Those killed were James F. Howell, the pilot, who had only twenty hours of solo flying to his credit; Miss Ann White, a registered nurse, and Frederick W. Ehrenfield, librarian of the United States Court of Customs and Patent Appeals. Howell was clerk of the District Supreme court.

PREPARE TO CALL LEGISLATURE AND PAY UP TEACHERS

Governor Studies Change in 'N. S. F. Check' Law.

the money on hand on Aug. 1, should should not be distributed when the audit is completed," said the other expert. "That is something radically different from distributing money without a thorough audit.

"If a check is made on the trend and amount of daily payments over an extended period, so that the treasurer may have a reliable estimate of the probable amount he will receive in the next month or so, it may be practicable for Mr. McDonough to distribute half or possibly two-thirds of the amount he has collected between Aug. 1 and the date of distribution, which the treasurer now thinks will be next Monday."

The seven or eight millions to be distributed will be the equivalent of about one week's pay for all employés of the larger governments.

Distribution of Funds.

The treasurer has more than $8,000,000 of tax money on hand, and many public employés have been led to believe that they will get back salaries for a month or two, if the treasurer would distribute this cash. Of the eight million the combined share of the city and schools would be about $3,200,000.

"If you turn over that amount of cash to the city next Monday," Sergt. O'Connor told McDonough yesterday, "we want an agreement that it will be used to pay back salaries."

"It is beyond my power to make such an agreement," replied McDonough. "My only duty is to collect the taxes and to turn over the money to the 400-odd governments. It is their task to decide what shall be done with the money when they get it. In your case you may ask the city controller what he will do with the money turned over to him."

So the delegation went to City Controller Szymczak.

"We ask that the money be used to pay back salaries," requested Sergt. O'Connor. "We ask for a guarantee that this will be done."

Must Pay Off Warrants.

"Under the law the tax money must be used to pay off the tax anticipation warrants issued against the 1930 taxes," replied Szymczak. "It must go for paying that indebtedness. The payment of these warrants should enhance the credit of the city and the schools, so that they can borrow on 1932 tax anticipation warrants."

The city has been able to sell its tax warrants, but the school board has not. The city has arranged to borrow enough to have another pay day about Sept. 1, but no such arrangement has been made for the teachers and school employés.

"But when can the teachers expect their next pay day?" asked Mrs. Marcella Nell.

"We will give every assistance and coöperation we can," said Controller Szymczak, "and I am doing everything I can to sell warrants of the school board."

"Do you think the teachers will get pay before school opens?" asked Mrs. Nell.

"I hope so," replied the controller. "The city in its aggregate of funds cannot take all the school warrants. It should take only those it can resell later. The employés of the vehicle tax bureau have not been paid for some time and we have enough cash to give them a pay day in that fund."

Wants Them to Wait.

"Let them wait," interposed Sergt. O'Connor, "let them wait. Why should we starve while they are paid? The distress among the police is terrific. Hundreds of them haven't a nickel to their name. That condition makes bolsheviks out of them, so that they may be willing to take a gun and go out and stick up people."

"Why can't the city's aggregate of funds buy school tax warrants?" asked Mrs. Nell.

"It is overinvested at present by $17,000,000," replied the controller.

"What do you mean by 'overinvested'?"

"There is $17,000,000 more invested than should have been," said the controller.

"How do you decide how much of the aggregate of funds should be invested?" continued Mrs. Nell.

"By the needs of the city," said the controller. "It should not invest funds when it needs those funds for contract, pay roll, and other obligations."

"What was the result of your effort to sell tax warrants in the east?" asked Sergt. O'Connor.

"I made some important contacts," said the controller, "from which I hope that something will develop later."

Controller Szymczak said that he felt certain that the payment of tax anticipation warrants for 1930 would improve the city's credit.

Offer Collection Plan.

The All City Publicity committee of the Chicago teachers, which was appointed at a massmeeting of teachers last spring, announced yesterday they have submitted a proposal to County Treasurer McDonough for the collection of delinquent 1930 school taxes. The offer is to collect school taxes only, and the teachers are to do the collecting after being sworn in as deputy collectors. It is to be a door to door canvass lasting four days, in which the sponsors hope to enlist the services of 10,000 teachers, according to the announcement.

Miss Mary T. Leitch of the Hyde Park High school heads the committee which has retained Aaron Sapiro, described as "prominent New York and Chicago attorney who wrote the country's coöperative marketing laws." McDonough said last night he wished to study the proposal before commenting upon it.

DISMISS CHARGES AGAINST THREE IN GIANT STILL CASE

Ruling Bewilders Small Fry Operators.

A ruling under the prohibition act yesterday gained a dismissal for Charles J. Chapin, head of the Chapin River Terminal warehouse, 2631 Arthington street, and two employés, on charges of possessing a 100,000 gallon still, one of the largest ever discovered in the middle west.

Prohibition agents entered the warehouse two weeks ago and found vats, condensers and tanks filled with copper tubing which they estimated capable of producing, when a still was erected, 100,000 gallons of alcohol a day. Investigating further, they found several carloads of corn sugar in sacks. On railroad switch tracks in the warehouse which covers an entire block, they found several box cars loaded with corn sugar.

Face U. S. Commissioner.

Mr. Chapin, Clarence Johnson, manager of the warehouse, and Charles Westbrook, an employé, were arrested and charged with possession of equipment designed and intended for use in manufacturing intoxicating liquor. They were arraigned yesterday before U. S. Commissioner Edwin K. Walker.

Chapin contended that his company occupied only the first two floors of the warehouse. He rented the top four floors to an unknown person, he declared. His attorney, William Goldstein, argued that the still had not been erected and that none could say positively what it was intended to produce.

"The still might have manufactured perfume or corn sirup of extracts of various kinds," the lawyer argued. "There is no proof that it was an alcohol still."

Bewilder the Small Jury.

Assistant U. S. District Attorney Daniel Anderson argued that the manufacture of 100,000 gallons of perfume daily was inconceivable. He was overruled, however. A group of liquor law violators, arraigned on such charges as possession of a gallon of moonshine or sale of five pints of gin, listened in simple-minded bewilderment as Commissioner Walker ruled that there was no evidence that the equipment was intended to manufacture alcohol, and freed Chapin and the two others.

Federal officials discovered yesterday that the famous old Standard brewery, Roosevelt road and Campbell avenue, owned by Terry Druggan and Frank Lake in the days when they were "beer barons," had been looted by residents in the neighborhood until it is now only a brick shell.

Government Bids It In.

The government has been attempting to dispose of the brewery, and put it up for sale some time ago, but the bids were so low that the government itself bid it in and kept it. The problem of disposal has now been solved, for the structure is practically worthless in its present condition, it was said.

Marquette police found about fifty men and boys hauling away wood from the brewery in trucks and small wagons. They entered to find all the valuable copper piping and the huge vats gone. The brewery which helped to pay for the gold door knobs on the mansion of Druggan and Lake was no more.

The brewery was confiscated by the government to help pay the income taxes of Druggan and Lake, who are now serving terms in Leavenworth penitentiary for income tax fraud.

Children Awarded to Mother Refuse to Leave Father

CHILDREN'S SOBS UPSET COURT AND REVERSE A JUDGE

Girl and Boy Refuse to Go with Mother.

A 9 year old girl and her 5 year old brother threw the courtroom of Superior Judge Ross C. Hall and part of the county building into turmoil yesterday by defying a court order placing them in custody of their mother. The children secured reversal of the order after the judge confessed he was upset by the children's protests. They left happily with their father.

The domestic drama opened when the judge ordered Mrs. Margaret Smrz, 28 years old, 2357 South Kedzie avenue, to take Eileen, her blonde daughter, and Rudolph Jr. from her husband, a truck driver who lives at 2145 South Sawyer avenue. Mrs. Smrz is seeking a divorce on charges of cruelty. Her attorney, Victor Frohlich, said the father had refused to surrender the children.

Cling to Their Father.

The children were led from the courtroom crying. In the corridor the boy wrapped his arms about his father's legs and refused to move. The daughter clung to his arm. Both wailed. The mother was in tears. Other courtrooms emptied. Bystanders offered advice.

The father consented to take the children to the street and talk with them. The children continued crying in the elevator. Employés left offices in the building to learn the cause of the disturbance.

A throng swelled about the family in the lobby of the county building. The children refused to leave their father, meeting each argument with a fresh burst of crying. A bailiff suggested all return to the courtroom.

In the courtroom the children screamed as their mother and father argued, attorneys wrangled and Mrs. Smrz's mother, Mrs. Margaret Westratsky, shouted that her daughter was not worthy to have the children. Attorney Richard Klein, representing the father, and Attorney Frohlich were near blows. At every lull Mrs. Westratsky shouted that fortune tellers had told her the children would be better off with their father.

Judge Leaves Bench.

The judge left the bench, announcing he would be unable to make a decision in such disorder. He ordered the children brought into his chambers. Screams and crying could be heard through the door. The judge came out 15 minutes later, perspiring.

"The girl is in hysterics, the boy is in hysterics and I'm near hysterics," he said. "Let their father have them and bring them back tomorrow afternoon when there will be less confusion."

MILLS CONFERS WITH BANKERS; MAY CALL LIBERTY 4¼ BONDS

New York, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Ogden L. Mills, secretary of the treasury, conferred with a number of New York bankers today at the Federal Reserve bank of New York, presumably discussing new financing for the government.

The government on Sept. 15 will have to borrow $712,000,000 solely for refunding purposes, and additional amounts, it was stated, will be required to finance the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Those at the conference today were said to have included Gov. George L. Harrison of the New York reserve bank, Eugene Meyer, governor of the federal reserve board, and R. C. Leffingwell of J. P. Morgan & Co.

One question said to have been discussed was whether it would be advisable for the government to exercise its right to call for payment the outstanding $536,000,000 of Liberty first 4¼ bonds.

Should the government decide to call these relatively high interest rate bonds, it would be obliged to give notice on Sept. 15. If it elects not to retire them, the government would not, under the loan contract, have another opportunity to do so before July 15, 1933.

Yiddles Has His Trouble; Good Old Craft Is Ended

Dave "Yiddles" Miller, a lugubrious little man, arrested 2,000 odd times since he began a career as a pickpocket in Chicago in 1908, addressed members of the detective bureau force at an informal showup last night and bitterly informed them that the pickpocket business was no more.

Miller is almost a historic figure in police records. He has had hundreds of short sentences and his arrest once a week as a suspected pickpocket has become a routine. It was he who, tried as a pay roll robber in the Criminal court seven years ago, won his freedom from a jury with the following brief and pungent address:

"If it was a poke, gentlemen, that I was charged with taking, I say yes. I am guilty. But look at me. You can't make a Jesse James out of me."

Mr. Miller's Sad Story.

Miller has always taken his arrests calmly. But he was indignant last night.

"I was picked up at 13th street and Newberry avenue," he said to his captors. "You know what I was doing there? I was watching seven pickpockets, the best in the business, standing in a bread line!

"There hasn't been any business for pickpockets in Chicago for three years," Miller continued. "I'm 57 years old and I'm through. I picked out the wrong line. Seven years ago there was not a better business in the world. There were 200 of us working in Chicago and many a day every one of us would make $400 or $500.

"Good Men All Dead."

"But now that is all changed. You can't make enough to pay for a writ. The good men are all dead and the young ones don't get enough practice to learn how to empty a pocket skillfully."

Miller's only enjoyment in late years, he said, has been attending the wakes of policemen friends. Veterans of the force corroborated this assertion, saying that Miller had not missed a policeman's wake in years.

The little pickpocket was booked as a vagrant and will be arraigned today.

BERLIN TOLD BY CERMAK CHICAGO IS RID OF CRIME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 23.—Mayor Cermak of Chicago, in a speech at the American club, where he was a guest of honor at luncheon, today told Germany about the Century of Progress at Chicago next year. He also declared that crime has practically been eliminated in Chicago and that the city is now as clean as a great city can be expected to be. Speaking of the similarity between Chicago and Berlin, the mayor declared:

Chicago a Beautiful City.

"In Europe you hear there is lots of shooting in Chicago. In America we hear of rioting in Berlin. I have seen only peace and quiet since I got here and it would be the same if you visited Chicago. You would find a beautiful and quiet city."

Urging Germany to participate in the world's fair next year, Mayor Cermak said that the shelves of America are becoming bare and that the exhibition will be an excellent opportunity for Germany to show what she has to sell.

In the afternoon the mayor was a guest of the Carl Schurz association. Anton Erkelens, greeting him, said:

Get Taste of Night Life.

"Chicago more than any other city in the world stands for vigor and hope. Soon, thanks to Chicago's energy in pushing the construction of a lake to ocean waterway, it will be possible to sail from Hamburg, in the heart of Europe, to Chicago, in the heart of America."

This evening the mayor and his party sampled Berlin's night life. Tomorrow the chief of police will conduct Mr. Cermak on a tour of the underworld.

PARIS, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Attorneys for Paul Gorguloff, assassin of President Paul Doumer, filed an appeal with the ministry of justice today stating that the Russian's mental state, never very stable, has grown worse in prison.

BLAME $10 BOOZE DEBT IN SLAYING OF GUN VICTIM

A $10 booze debt was believed by police last night to be the motive for the slaying of Herman Brin, 35 years old, of 1801 South Wabash avenue, who was found shot at 18th street and Michigan avenue early yesterday.

Investigation by Sergt. John Connolly of the South State street station, revealed that a husky stranger, known only as Frank, visited Brin at his home, 1349 Newberry avenue, last Thursday. He asked Brin to pay a $10 debt on the purchase of two cans of alcohol. Brin replied that he would settle up when he was ready, whereupon the stranger threatened: "I'll shoot your legs off the next time I see you." Police said that this man probably killed Brin.

A feminine angle was injected into the case also. Less than an hour before being slain, Brin called at his home accompanied by a young woman.

EAST CHICAGO'S CITY ENGINEER KILLED BY TRAIN

Louis H. Klown, 55 years old, East Chicago city engineer, was killed yesterday afternon when his automobile was demolished by a South Shore line electric train on a crossing in East Chicago. Klown was driving to Hammond to meet his wife.

Two automobile fatalities in Cook county yesterday increased the 1932 toll to 746. The victims:

Mrs. Margaret Anderson, 56 years old, 4305 North Francisco avenue. Died at the county hospital from injuries incurred on Sunday evening when the car in which she was riding collided with another car at California avenue and Harrison street.

Arthur Kahmann, 36 years old, of 2717 Iowa street. Died last night in the Bethany hospital. He was injured Sunday when he was struck by an automobile while he was repairing a tire of his own car in front of 3456 5th avenue.

Ruth Mortensen, 3 years old, 7232 St. Lawrence avenue, and Frances Johnson, 4, of 8823 Loomis street, and Ruth's father, Frank Mortensen, 40, were seriously burned last night when the gas tank of Mortensen's car caught fire as he was filling it at 7255 South Chicago avenue. The three were taken to the Jackson Park hospital, where it was said that Ruth might die.

JOHN D. REPORTED PLANNING TRIP TO VISIT DAUGHTER

Except for a rumor emanating from the east that John D. Rockefeller Sr. might decide to come to Chicago, conditions about the sick room of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick in the Drake hotel remained unchanged yesterday.

Before leaving for his summer home at Pocantico Hills, New York, on Monday, John D. Rockefeller Jr. was asked about the possibility of his father making the trip to visit Mrs. McCormick, but replied that it would be too much for the magnate's strength, as he is now in his 94th year. There seemed to be only a slight probability that the nonagenarian might undertake the journey, although the patient was reported to have expressed a desire to see him.

Mrs. McCormick's physicians last night reported her situation as good as it has been for the last few days, following her relapse of Saturday night and subsequent recovery on Sunday.

CHICAGO WOMAN AND SON HURT IN NEBRASKA CRASH

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Mrs. Ella Sheppard, 70, 6254 Blackstone avenue, Chicago, and her son, Reginald E. Sheppard, 46, 6456 Minerva avenue, Chicago, were injured seriously this afternoon when their automobile turned over in loose gravel on the highway north of here.

Sheppard's wife, who was driving, escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

Mrs. Sheppard and her son were taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital.

The physician said the mother suffered serious chest injuries, possible rib fractures, and an injury to her spine.

ALL ABOUT THE BIG MARINE BATTLE IN LINCOLN PK. LAGOON

Harry Carlson of 1952 Morse avenue, a star athlete, was rowing leisurely in the calm waters of the Lincoln park lagoon at dusk last evening when his single seater racing scull began rocking. The rocking was caused by the passing of a motor launch operated by Hubert Schnuch, 33 years old, of 2114 Sedgwick street.

"Avast there," bellowed Carlson. "You're rocking my boat. You're exceeding the 4 miles an hour limit. Slow down."

Schnuch replied briefly and then opened the throttle of his motor. The result was a heavy backwash which almost swamped the racing scull.

Carlson reached over and grasped the stern of the launch to argue the matter but Schnuch brought down an oar upon Carlson's head, knocking the latter into the water. When he rose to the surface, Schnuch was at his dock.

Carlson swam after him and Schnuch, almost fully clothed, dived into the lagoon and swam to the opposite dock. In another minute he was running westward across the park but Carlson soon nabbed him.

Policeman Orrin Kindlund, of the park force, took Schnuch to the station where Carlson charged him with assault and battery. Schnuch, who is a student of languages, will appear at th Chicago avenue court at 10 o'clock this morning.

COUNTY POLICE HALT ONSLAUGHT ON BRIDGE JOB

Willow Springs and county highway police yesterday were patrolling the vicinity of a bridge construction job on route 51, across the sanitary and Illinois and Michigan canals and the Des Plaines river, where labor clashes have occurred intermittently since Friday.

The most serious trouble took place Saturday morning, when a crowd of union men appeared on the scene and attempted to chase the nonunion workmen, numbering about 50, off the job. Stones were thrown and there were numerous fist fights.

The union men, some of whom were identified as participants in the recent disorders at the Marseilles dam construction job, charge that the workmen were imported from other states. Officials of the McClintic-Marshall company, a subsidiary of the Bethlehem Steel company, which is building the bridge, denied this. Lieut. Edward Weber of the highway police said that no more assemblies would be permitted and that the police were sufficiently strong to prevent trouble.

HORNER PLEDGES TO CUT EXPENSES IN KEWANEE TALK

Kewanee, Ill., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—"When I am governor I intend to cut down every dead limb and every rotten twig on the pay roll tree," Judge Henry Horner told a luncheon audience here today preparatory to leaving for Princeton, Peoria, and Springfield. He will speak at the Democratic day at the state fair tomorrow.

"This may not be good politics, but I am sure it is good statesmanship," Judge Horner said. "My opponent likes to be pointed to as the builder of good roads. Gov. Dunne in 1913 really laid the foundation for Illinois' good roads and every Republican after him has taken credit for it. We are paying $27,000,000 a year now for hard road maintenance.

"I can't understand what all of this money goes for. I think half of the state maintenance men plant thistles for the other half to cut down."

In Mississippi Primary Collier Trails, as He Asked

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 23.—(AP)—On partial returns from today's Democratic primary in the new seventh district, Rep. Russell Ellzey was leading Rep. J. Will Collier, chairman of the house ways and means committee, by nearly 5,000 votes. Collier asked Democrats not to vote for him. He wishes to run for reëlection from the state-at-large in November, believing the redistricting law was illegal.

Returns from 87 out of 280 precincts gave: Collier, 1,527, and Ellzey, 6,301.

HIT HER WITH DINNER PLATE, SAYS BARONESS

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Baron V. von Kocsien, former technical director for a motion picture studio, departed from the dignified behavior of royalty and "went Hollywood," his wife, Baroness Elsie D. von Kocsien, told Superior Judge Haas here today in seeking a divorce. The baroness stated that her husband hit her with a dinner plate and also threw himself in front of their automobile and commanded her to run over him. The baron was quoted as saying:

"I pay you for your smiles. When I come home from work, I do not wish to see a moody face, whether from sorrow or sickness."

Judge Haas, who also married the couple in January, 1927, informed the baroness he would grant her a divorce if her husband, reported to be in Germany, would write to the effect that resumption of marital relations would be impossible.

SMITH REYNOLDS' BROTHER ARRIVES AT FAMILY HOME

Winston-Salem, N. C., Aug. 23.—(AP)—R. J. [Dick] Reynolds, elder brother of Smith Reynolds, young tobacco heir who was shot to death at the family estate here July 6, arrived in Winston-Salem late today.

Coyner announced the arrival but refused to say where Reynolds was spending the night, declaring that he was badly in need of rest. When his brother was killed he was aboard his yacht off the coast of Africa.

Coyner declined to comment upon what action, if any, young Reynolds would take in the mysterious death of his brother, Z. Smith Reynolds, for which Ab Walker and Libby Holman Reynolds are under indictment on murder charges.

GOV. ROOSEVELT QUIZZES BLOCK IN WALKER CASE

Broker Defense Witness at Mayor's Trial.

BY TOM PETTEY.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Paul Block, the publisher who made $246,000 for Mayor James J. Walker in the stock market, was a star witness for the New York executive at today's hearing of the Seabury removal charges before Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt. Mr. Block spent most of the afternoon defending his "beneficent friendship" with his playboy pal of the piping days of prosperity.

It was not an entirely pleasant afternoon for the bald, suave, little publisher, however, for before the day was done Governor Roosevelt took the questioning in hand and brought forth illuminating testimony regarding $140,000 that Mr. Block had put into a tile manufacturing concern in which Senator John J. Hastings, another of the Walker group, owned a large interest.

It was brought out that none of the tile ever was sold to the city. It was also shown that if the plans to manufacture the tile had not been dropped the city would have been interested in the product.

Rail President Testifies.

Six other witnesses testified in behalf of Mayor Walker. The first was Lenor F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson and a member of the taxicab control board.

The white bearded Mr. Loree was on the stand only a few minutes and corroborated testimony given by members of the taxi board at yesterday's session.

Samuel Ungerleider, the broker who figured prominently in transactions by the mayor's missing financial man, Robert T. Sherwood was a witness late in the day.

The session held on until almost 7 p. m. Four representatives of independent taxicab owners testified in rapid succession as dinner hour slipped past. They are Arthur M. Davis, Jacob Levy, Joseph Sucland, and Herman L. Slure. They testified they knew of no favoritism being shown to the big taxi companies.

The hearing will be resumed at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow. Gov. Roosevelt said he would hold a night session tomorrow.

One of the high spots of the Block testimony concerned an effort on the part of John J. Curtin, the mayor's chief counsel, to get the story of the "$7,500 check drawn to an unnamed person" into the records.

Identified Only by Stub.

The check, which Mr. Seabury says he never has been able to locate was identified only by a stub. A photostatic copy of the check was published several days ago in a New York newspaper, revealing that it had been made out to an actress with whom the mayor's name had been associated in the past.

Mr. Block was unable to give any information regarding the missing check except from hearsay and Gov. Roosevelt refused to permit hearsay evidence to go into the record.

After the hearing Mr. Block told questioners that he was reasonably sure he had once seen the check in the Seabury files and that an editor of a New York tabloid other than the paper in which the picture of the check was printed had told him the check had been offered to him for publication for $300.

Mr. Curtin in his method of approaching the subject inferred that Mr. Seabury was in some way responsible for the check being made available to the newspaper. Mr. Seabury announced calmly that he never had been able to find that particular bit of evidence and the governor closed the discussion.

Never Asked a Favor.

Going over his story of an 18-year-old friendship with the mayor, Mr. Block testified he "never had in mind to ask Jimmy a favor" and that he "did everything through friendship."

When Gov. Roosevelt began questioning him about his connection with "Dr. Robert M. Beyer," the inventor of a synthetic tile in which the city became interested, the following interrogation ensued.

Q.—Mr. Block, in the examination by Mr. Curtin, you said that you had never had any business connections with the city, but then afterwards you testified that the Beyer company, of which you are a part owner, had actually gone to the city to try to get its tile approved. How do you reconcile those two. A.—Well, in the first place, I did not know they had gone to any one associated with the city, or any department of the city, and when I was told of it, I said they—I could not permit them to do business with any one who sells tiles to the city. That may be all the answer you desire, but may I also say this, that they never made tile.

Made Samples, He Says.

Q.—They made tile sufficiently to have a sample approved by the city? A.—O, they made samples, yes, they made samples.

Q.—They did not do it on a large scale? A.—They never—just made samples, they never did anything and yet he is a great chemist.

MR. CURTIN—I referred to business transactions with the city in my question, I may say I do not regard that as a business transaction.

GOV. ROOSEVELT—I should judge that is to come, that is my job.

MR. CURTIN—Exactly.

Q.—Now, when was it that Senator Hastings introduced you to Professor Beyer? A.—Well, I could not give you the date, but I should imagine it was a month or two before I invested some money in it.

Q.—That was the latter part of 1927? A.—I should imagine so.

Q.—How much did you put——? A.—I can't answer that, judge; our books will show. It seems to me it was $25,000.

Q.—What was the capitalization of the company at that time? A.—Frankly, I know nothing about it; I turned it over to my brother and he made the deal and I don't recall that and I really would hardly understand it if I had been told.

Q.—How much of an interest in the company; what share of the total capitalization did you eventually control?

A.—I think 50 per cent.

Q.—Fifty per cent? A.—Fifty per cent.

Q.—And that was represented by approximately $140,000? A.—I think that's the amount I put in.

Learns About Hastings.

Q.—And did you know who the other stockholders were? A.—I learned later that Mr. Hastings was one.

Q.—You didn't even know who the other owners of the company were? A.—O, I don't think there were any others. I think it was just Dr. Beyer and myself, and later I heard Mr. Hastings had an interest. I think he got something from Dr. Beyer.

Q.—Was it a general thing for you to invest $140,000 in the company that you didn't know where the ownership lay? A.—Well, the ownership—I owned fifty per cent of the stock with my first payment.

Q.—And not knowing who the other people were who owned it? A.—I took it for granted it was Dr. Beyer.

Q.—Did he put up any money? A.—No, I don't think so; he had invested, or spent it, experimenting for a long time.

Quizzed About Hastings.

Q.—Did Senator Hastings put up any money for the stock? A.—I know nothing about Senator Hastings' connection with it.

Q.—Mr. Hastings speaks of selling his stock? A.—I never knew about his selling stock until I read that in the testimony.

Q.—He said he received $50,000 for his stock interest. Do you know how he got that? A.—I have no idea.

Q.—When you were putting up $140,000 what was it you understood that this company was going to do? A.—Synthetic rubber. I remember that was one of the important things and I understand he has succeeded in making it now.

Q.—Is the company still going, do you know? A.—O, yes, and my son visits him every once in a while at his laboratory; he keeps men employed; he seems to be getting along nicely.

Not Manufacturing.

Q.—Has he got an actual manufacturing basis yet? A.—I don't know that he has ever manufactured anything yet, but he deals with the Du Pont company and he told my son that he had just returned from visiting one of the Mellons of Pittsburgh, I don't know what he has.

Q.—Suppose you had certificates of stock, didn't you? A.—I did; yes, sir.

Q.—You indorsed them at the time that you got your money back? A.—I am quite sure I did.

Gets Investment Back.

Q.—How much money did you get back. A.—You see, I said I thought I invested about $140,000. That is really a guess, although I think it is a pretty good guess. I got back every dollar I invested which, I think, is something like that figure, and six per cent interest from the day I put it in.

Q.—Mr. Block, now did you know about Senator Hastings' making an affidavit, as I remember it, he and Dr. Beyers owned two-thirds of the stock in this company when you actually only owned a half of it? A.—I remember reading that in the paper now that you call my attention to it.

Q.—Did you know it at the time? A.—I did not.

Q.—[By Conboy]—The senator says that you refused to join with him in their consent for the mortgage by which they obtained about $350,000. A.—That is correct, Mr. Conboy.

Questioned About Mortgage.

Q.—Was that the mortgage money that was used to finance that building? A.—I can't answer that. I refused to go on the bond, I think, or something.

Q.—You refused to sign the consent as a stockholder? A.—That is it.

Q.—To the making of the mortgage? A.—Well, I ——

Q.—And you owned a half of the stock, and the other half said that they owned two-thirds in order to comply with the necessary statutory requirements? A.—I read that in the newspaper.

GOV. ROOSEVELT—Wait a minute. How did you think they could get the property?

MR. CONBOY—How could they get the mortgage?

GOV. ROOSEVELT—How could they get the mortgage without your consent? A.—Well, frankly, I am not very familiar with those things, and I didn't—I don't know.

Testifies He Refused.

GOV. ROOSEVELT—Didn't Senator Hastings ask you to join with them in order that they could have two-thirds of the stock to get this mortgage? A.—I think he did and I refused.

Q.—Well, then, how did you think they could get it? A.—I didn't even know they got it. I wasn't familiar with it at all.

MR. CURTIN—The next thing that happened, you were bought out, is that it? A.—I was bought out.

Samuel Ungerleider also was taken over the coals by Gov. Roosevelt. The witness told of being connected with two brokerage firms, Samuel Ungerleider & Co. and the Ungerleider Financial corporation.

The broker was questioned closely concerning his financial dealings with Sherwood and the governor appeared especially interested in the manner in which stock deals were put through without collateral behind them. Mr. Curtin brought up the matter of the Sisto bonds.

Gov. Roosevelt brought out from Mr. Ungerleider that there were fifteen persons with the "privilege of buying Ungerleider Financial corporation stock with the possibility of incurring no loss in it." Sherwood was one of these fifteen favored persons. The names of the others were not disclosed. The governor characterized it as anything except a gamble.

Says Sisto Sought Loan.

Q.—Now, will you explain to his excellency at the outset what, if you know, was the relationship in any business transactions between the Ungerleider Financial corporation and J. A. Sisto? A.—J. A. Sisto applied for a loan and the Ungerleider Financial corporation advanced that money.

Q.—Now, how much was that loan, and, if you can, fix the time of it. A.—I think the loan was made somewheres about August of 1929.

Q.—And the amount of the loan?

A.—I think it was under two million dollars.

Q.—Now, in that loan transaction you received, I take it, or at least the Ungerleider Financial corporation received, some collateral; is that correct? A.—They received various collaterals.

Q.—Various collaterals? Have you a list of that anywhere now that you can look at and let's see it?

Governor "Still in Dark."

GOV. ROOSEVELT—O, well, I am still in the dark as to what the collateral was in connection with the original transaction, and you say you cannot furnish that? A.—Yes, I can do that, I can go to the Atlas Utilities, who are in control of the Ungerleider Financial and ask them to give me a transcript of that loan.

Q.—All right, but you haven't that here today? A.—No, I was under the impression that all of that was in Mr. Seabury's possession, because I obtained all of it for him.

In reply to a question regarding contracts for the purchase and sale of stocks in transactions with Mr. Sisto and Sherwood, Mr. Ungerleider said:

"If you sell a stock and you tell a man that you will take it back from him that word is a good contract."

"Aren't you supposed to put that down in writing?" asked Gov. Roosevelt.

"No, sir," responded the witness.

MR. CONBOY—How can you tell what the extent of your obligation is? A.—Well, you don't give them to that extent that it is going in any way to embarrass you. After all, here is a 25 million dollar company, and the amount of all these puts amounted to $250,000, so you can see it was a very small item.

GOV. ROOSEVELT—Wait a minute. Samual Ungerleider & Co. gave this out, did they not? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—That wasn't any $25,000,000 company. It was the Samuel Ungerleider Finance corporation that was a $25,000,000 company. A.—Samuel Ungerleider & Co. sold the $25,000,000 issue.

Q.—Did they sell it all? A.—Sold more. It was over-written, over-subscribed.

No Need to Balance.

Q.—Just on this one transaction of $50,000, how could you balance your books? A.—There was no occasion to balance.

Q.—You might have been out of pocket? A.—No.

Q.—Or in pocket? A.—No. May I just explain that further? When Mr. Sherwood subscribed for 1,000 shares of stock or any of these people on that list we would deliver the stock to them and he would pay us the money, and we would get the money and deliver the stock, which was all there was to that transaction.

Q.—What did you do with the money? A.—Turned it into the corporation.

Q.—You didn't put it in escrow? A.—No. Less our commission for selling it.

Q.—Then you were liable for $52,000? A.—The firm of Samuel Ungerleider & Co. were liable.

Q.—And you don't set up that as a liability on your books? A.—No sir.

GOV. ROOSEVELT.—Most extraordinary business proposition I ever heard of.

JIMMY DOOLITTLE.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Wichita, Kas., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Unable to release his faulty retractable landing gear, Maj. James H. [Jimmy] Doolittle, noted speed pilot, staked his life on a "skid" landing here today and won.

Doolittle had taken his rebuilt Laird biplane up for a series of tests preparatory to an assault on his own Bendix race speed record and west-east transcontinental flight mark of 11 hours and 11 minutes, established a year ago.

Soaring over the test field, he dropped a note:

"Something wrong landing gear. I can get 3½ turns both ways. If you have any suggestions, write them on the side of a plane and come up. Otherwise I will run out of gas and stall in."

Hastily scribbled letters on the side of ship piloted by Preston Kirk, advised Doolittle to "zoom to the right—zoom to the left—power dive." These maneuvers failing, Doolittle released the landing gear as much as possible, roared away from the crowd and set the plane down.

Unscratched, he crawled from the cockpit and emerged from the cloud of dust to survey the damage.

The propeller blades were bent, one wing strut was twisted, and the cowling on the under side of the motor was damaged.

Doolittle was in the air nearly two hours. He had planned a 15 minute test.

AL SMITH TO EDIT OUTLOOK MAGAZINE BEECHER FOUNDED

New York, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Alfred E. Smith announced today that he had become the editor of the Outlook, rechristened New Outlook, and that, carrying on the traditions of the late Theodore Roosevelt, he will strive to make it "a platform for the free and liberal expression of progressive thought on the economic, civic and spiritual problems of the day" when it resumes publication Oct. 1.

Mr. Smith declined to be pinned down on the question of what the political complexion of the magazine would be, confining himself to a written statement of generalities.

"In assuming the editorship of New Outlook," the statement said in part, "it is my hope that I will be able to assist in the recreation of a great American medium for the free expression of the ideas and policies of leaders of world opinion.

"Under the great leader, Theodore Roosevelt, the Outlook attained prestige that few, if any, American publication has ever equaled.

"I hope to make New Outlook a place for the expression and discussion of a program for the present generation and its problems."

The Outlook, which suspended publication last spring, was recently purchased by Frank Tichenor, publisher of the Spur, Aero Digest and other magazines. Its managing editor is Francis Walton, who resigned as aviation editor of the Herald-Tribune to assume his new post.

The Outlook was founded by Henry Ward Beecher in 1869 and has included among its editors Lyman Abbott as well as Theodore Roosevelt. Four years ago it was combined with the Independent, which was founded by H. C. Bowen as an anti-slavery organ.

$500,000 ESTATE LEFT IN WILL OF HENRY FRIEND

The will of the late Henry Friend, pioneer State street merchant, who died aboard the steamship Bremen while accompanying Mayor Cermak to Germany, was filed and approved in the Probate court yesterday. Mr. Friend, who was 73 years old, left an estate valued at $500,000.

Mrs. Emma Friend, the widow, was made the beneficiary of a life trust of most of her husband's property. At her death the income will be divided among a son and two daughters, Milton Friend and Mrs. Ethel Pacyna and Mrs. Bertha Levy. Two sisters, Mrs. Ida Edelman and Mrs. Sophie Covitz were given $10,000 each and a third sister, Mrs. Goldie Harris, was given $5,000.

Each of Mr. Friend's three grandchildren will share the income from a $25,000 trust fund, and each of his sister's children will receive $1,000. The Michael Reese hospital and the Mount Sinai hospital were given $5,000 each and $5,000 was left to the First Roumanian Congregation in memory of Mr. Friend's parents.

30,000 MINERS MASS TO MARCH ON ZEIGLER AREA

Showdown Is Expected in Field Today.

was not troublesome. Several hundred grim faced miners, several carrying American flags, lined the roadside at the mine but did not so much as offer a word of criticism when the cars carrying the workers moved slowly through their ranks to the shaft house.

Taylorville is thankful to its own miners for this absence of hostility. The citizens have held that if the men wish to work, that is their constitutional right, and they should not be interfered with.

Expects More Men at Work.

W. C. Argust, general manager of the Peabody mines here, continued to be optimistic over the probability of more men coming to work tomorrow. The miners say that most of their number is downstate to join the pickets. About 1,500 are employed here. A large portion of them are expected to join the strikers at Staunton at daylight tomorrow.

Sheriff Robinson has made no request for troops, Adj. Gen. Carlos E. Black said over the telephone from Springfield tonight. The general is hopeful that since picketing was carried on quietly here there will be no need of militia at Benton. Not many persons familiar with the situation are that optimistic.

Troops Are Available.

If armed forces are necessary, however, plenty are stationed at nearby points. Three rifle companies, I, K, and L, are quartered at Salem, Cairo, and Lawrenceville. A machine gun company is located at Paris and a howitzer and trench mortar unit has its armory at Mount Vernon, Gov. Emmerson's home town.

In the event troops are called, they would be commanded by Lieut. Col. Robert W. Davis of the 130th infantry, who lives at Carbondale.

A gasoline filling station at Pawnee, near here, was bombed this afternoon, but only a slight connection between the crime and the mine war could be traced. Its owner, John Groh, presided at a miners' meeting several days ago, but authorities could not determine if this was at the bottom of the explosion. No one was injured, but the pumps and service house were wrecked.

Operating Mines Listed.

Mr. Argust was informed this afternoon that these mines were in operation in southern Illinois today: Peabody mines No. 18 and 19, West Frankfort; No. 14 and 15, Duquoin; No. 25, Lawrenceville, and No. 43 at Harrisburg. Also Bell & Zoller mines No. 1 and 2 at Zeigler, Ogara No. 2 at Harrisburg, C. W. & F. No. 1 and 2 at Orient; Consolidated No. 7 and Old Ben No. 12, 15, 18, and 8 at Christopher, Johnston City and West Frankfort; the Franklin County Coal company mine at Royalton, the Bobbie Dick at West Frankfort, the United Electric strip mine at Pinckneyville and the Greenrich and Odin mines at Centralia.

Practically all of these except the Zeigler mines were operating with majority crews, Argust said.

Plan to Bar Picketers.

West Frankfort, Ill., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Determined that invading strike agitators will not be permitted to enter Franklin county, county and city officials were busy today with preparations to continue their announced policy of making it possible for "every Franklin county miner who wants to work to have that privilege."

State's Attorney Marion M. Hart and Sheriff Browning Robinson said that the picketers "are not coming into Franklin county," that "ample provisions are being made to keep them out."

Sam Caddy, representative of the International union, United Mine Workers of America said: "Franklin county miners and citizens can and will take care of their own problems, along with the accredited representatives of the United Mine Workers of America."

PRESIDENT TO SPEAK AT LEAST THREE TIMES DURING THE CAMPAIGN

New York, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—President Hoover will deliver at least three addresses in his campaign for reelection, according to an announcement made today at the headquarters of the Republican national committee by Senator Felix Herbert of Rhode Island, eastern campaign manager.

It is regarded as highly probable that one of Mr. Hoover's speeches would be delivered at a meeting in New York City and one of the remaining two at a meeting somewhere in the middle west. The plans do not include an address in his home state, California.

Former President Coolidge's part in the campaign to reelect his successor for a second term remains indefinite, although he has promised Everett Sander, chairman of the Republican national committee, that he would give active aid.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Secretary of War Hurley, who has been selected by Republican campaign chieftains to reply to Gov. Roosevelt's Columbus speech, left tonight for Providence, R. I., where tomorrow night he will carry out the assignment at a party rally. The speech will be broadcast by 24 stations on the National Broadcasting company's chain from 7:15 to 8 p. m., eastern standard time.

TWO BRIDES, 19, BLAME LIQUOR FOR MARRIAGES

Two 19 year old brides filed suits in the Superior court yesterday asking that their marriages be annulled because they were under the influence of liquor when the ceremonies were performed.

Mrs. Suzan B. Bourne, 2242 Vincennes avenue, charged that her husband, George, a senior student at University of Illinois, had plied her with liquor during the automobile ride to Crown Point, Ind., the evening of their marriage, last May 29. She returned home and her husband went to Frankfort, Mich., where is he employed, the bill asserted.

Mrs. Agnes Blake of Niles charged that she lost the free exercise of her will as a result of drinking when she married Walter Blake, 22 years old, at Niles last June 8. She charged that the drinks were forced upon her by her husband and asserted that she would not otherwise have married him.

Roosevelt Calls 2 Chicago Aides for a Conference

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York has summoned two Chicago supporters, Mrs. George Bass and A. F. Lorenzen, to Albany for a conference on the political situation in the middle west. They will leave this afternoon and will have their first interview with the governor tomorrow afternoon, returning early next week. Mrs. Bass, an old friend of the Roosevelt family, was prominent in preconvention activities on behalf of Gov. Roosevelt. Mr. Lorenzen was one of his earliest backers in Illinois.

Destruction lurks in the suds of cheapened soap flakes

That's why Chicago's best appointed homes admit no other laundry soap or flakes but Kirk's American Family —standard for more than 90 years!

Today, a lovely frock—gay as a butterfly. Tomorrow, a drab, dull remnant of its former beauty. And all because of just one encounter with the free lye and other harsh ingredients so often found in cheapened soap flakes!

But why endanger the life of precious washables... especially when it is quite as easy and far more economical to insure for them a long, full season of springtime freshness... simply by insisting that they be laundered with no other soap but American Family Flakes.

"We are so accustomed to plopping frocks and woolens and everything into these gentle suds," says Mrs. William H. Mitchell, "that even our prized silk comforters* go in and come out again as bright and soft as new.

"Until you have used American Family Flakes for years, as I have, you simply cannot realize what freedom you can have—freedom to indulge your love for dainty, colorful fabrics, and freedom from many household cares."

Mrs. Mitchell's high regard for American Family is shared by thousands of Chicago women. They know from experience that it is absolutely safe, and they use it not only for silks and laces but for all the heavier things that go into the family wash... not only for dainty china and glassware but for woodwork, tile and linoleum.

If you would save hours of time and many precious dollars, use only American Family—for every household-cleaning task. Created especially for the hard water of this Great Lakes region, it makes double the suds, and it's the double-suds that makes the difference... spares the hands and gives you months of extra wear from all things washable.

check was printed had told him the check had been offered to him for publication for $300.

Mr. Curtin in his method of approaching the subject inferred that Mr. Seabury was in some way responsible for the check being made available to the newspaper. Mr. Seabury announced calmly that he never had been able to find that particular bit of evidence and the governor closed the discussion.

Never Asked a Favor.

Going over his story of an 18-year-old friendship with the mayor, Mr. Block testified he "never had in mind to ask Jimmy a favor" and that he "did everything through friendship."

When Gov. Roosevelt began questioning him about his connection with "Dr. Robert M. Beyer," the inventor of a synthetic tile in which the city became interested, the following interrogation ensued.

Q.—Mr. Block, in the examination by Mr. Curtin, you said that you had never had any business connections with the city, but then afterwards you testified that the Beyer company, of which you are a part owner, had actually gone to the city to try to get its tile approved. How do you reconcile those two. A.—Well, in the first place, I did not know they had gone to any one associated with the city, or any department of the city, and when I was told of it, I said they—I could not permit them to do business with any one who sells tiles to the city. That may be all the answer you desire, but may I also say this, that they never made tile.

Made Samples, He Says.

Q.—They made tile sufficiently to have a sample approved by the city? A.—O, they made samples, yes, they made samples.

Q.—They did not do it on a large scale? A.—They never—just made samples, they never did anything and yet he is a great chemist.

MR. CURTIN—I referred to business transactions with the city in my question. I may say I do not regard that as a business transaction.

GOV. ROOSEVELT—I should judge that is to come, that is my job.

MR. CURTIN—Exactly.

Q.—Now, when was it that Senator Hastings introduced you to Professor Beyer? A.—Well, I could not give you the date, but I should imagine it was a month or two before I invested some money in it.

Q.—That was the latter part of 1927? A.—I should imagine so.

Q.—How much did you put——? A.—I can't answer that, judge; our books will show. It seems to me it was $25,000.

Q.—What was the capitalization of the company at that time? A.—Frankly, I know nothing about it; I turned it over to my brother and he made the deal and I don't recall that and I really would hardly understand it if I had been told.

Q.—How much of an interest in the company; what share of the total capitalization did you eventually control?

No, I don't think so, he had invested or spent it, experimenting for a long time.

Quizzed About Hastings.

Q.—Did Senator Hastings put up any money for the stock? A.—I know nothing about Senator Hastings' connection with it.

Q.—Mr. Hastings speaks of selling his stock? A.—I never knew about his selling stock until I read that in the testimony.

Q.—He said he received $50,000 for his stock interest. Do you know how he got that? A.—I have no idea.

Q.—When you were putting up it as anything except a gamble.

Says Sisto Sought Loan.

Q.—Now, will you explain to his excellency at the outset what, if you know, was the relationship in any business transactions between the Ungerleider Financial corporation and J. A. Sisto? A.—J. A. Sisto applied for a loan and the Ungerleider Financial corporation advanced that money.

Q.—Now, how much was that loan, and, if you can, fix the time of it. A.—I think the loan was made somewheres about August of 1929.

Q.—And the amount of the loan?

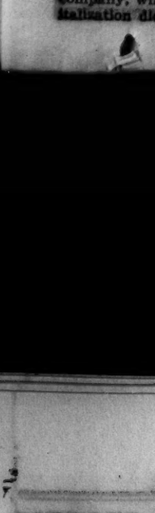
HITLER BATTLES TO SAVE HIS MEN FROM GUILLOTINE

Death Sentences Stir New German Crisis.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 23.—Adolf Hitler, National Socialist leader, and Chancellor Franz von Papen's government of aristocrats and militarists clashed today over the death sentences passed yesterday on five Hitlerites at Beuthen in Upper Silesia. The five men were convicted of killing a communist by a special anti-terror speed court, created under the emergency decree of Aug. 9 to stamp out political violence.



ADOLF HITLER.
[Assoc. Press Photo.]

Hitler styled the five men "martyrs." He telegraphed them from his "brown house" headquarters at Munich that "from now on the freedom of each of you is a question of our honor. It is our duty to battle the government which made this monstrous blood sentence possible."

Threatens to Wipe Out Rule.

Then he added the following pledge:

"Heaven may send us torture upon torture, but the National Socialist movement will soon be able to finish this guillotine government led by Von Papen."

The junker government lost no time in swinging into action with some bristling statements of its own.

"We will not tolerate any party which refuses to respect the laws and decisions of courts," an official statement said. "The government will investigate the possibility of pardoning the sentenced men, but it will not allow itself to be terrorized by threats. The law must be respected. The government will know how to enforce it. Any effort to whip up political hatreds into a new frenzy will be reached."

Various Hitlerite leaders sang out open threats of reprisal during the day, and once again fears that Germany is on the brink of a civil war swept the republic.

Will Fight for Men.

In his message to the five men who are facing execution on the guillotine the small but mighty Nazi chief reported that he felt bound to them by a "limitless fidelity."

"My comrades, you now understand why I refused to enter a Von Papen government. Herr von Papen, your bloody objectivity does not exist for me! Your name has now been entered

Wedding Bells for Wales? Prince to Visit Sweden Soon

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 23.—One of those recurrent rumors intriguing to every royal matchmaker cropped up again in Europe tonight. It involves the man described as the world's most eligible bachelor, the prince of Wales, and Princess Ingrid of Sweden, who has more than once been mentioned as a possible bride for the heir to the British throne but never so strongly as now.

The story originated from the unannounced intention of the prince to pay his first visit to Stockholm, and even sets the time of the engagement as this fall.

Seek to Suppress News.

As "commercial ambassador" for the British empire, the prince will open a British exhibition at Copenhagen on Sept. 24. He will also attend the wedding of Prince Gustaf, eldest son of Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf of Sweden, and Princess Sibylle of Saxe-Coburg at Coburg on Oct. 20.

What has not been let out yet is to publish the fact that the British prince will visit there until it is officially announced by the royal family.

The request went further by recognizing for the first time the rumors linking Gustaf Adolf's only daughter, Ingrid, and Wales. Swedish newspapers were asked and again agreed not to publish a line reviving the rumors of a marriage joining the two royal families at any time during the prince's stay.

Never before has either house let it become known that it was cognizant of such reports nor has it done anything to dignify the gossip by attempts at suppression.

Prince 38; Princess 22.

Circles close to the Swedish royal house declare that the prince of Wales will return to Stockholm in a fortnight after the wedding at Coburg and that the engagement of Ingrid will be officially announced next November.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

It met the anniversary with statistics of triumph. Born on the 23d of August, 1912, it was placed in the United States government's department of commerce and labor and given $25,640 of the taxpayers' money as its yearly allowance. This year's federal appropriation was $395,500, or something like fifteen times as much as its infant annuity.

In personnel, too, the bureau has developed. In the early days it was an informal little group associated with its first chief, the late Julia C. Lathrop of Chicago. Today the budget lists 138 aids to its present chief, Grace Abbott.

Nor is this all that brings rejoicing to the birthday. The mail bags are getting fatter every year; both the outgoing and incoming mail bags.

Huge Increase in Mail.

First, as to the outgoing mail. Yearly increases in its bulk are recorded in Miss Abbott's most recent report for the fiscal year 1931.

One of the most popular of these bulletins is that entitled "Are You Training Your Child to be Happy?" The complete list of pamphlets includes a brochure on "Breast Feeding," and a study of "The Leisure Time Activities of Rural Children in Selected Areas of West Virginia."

Second, there has been a great increase in the intake of mail. In 1926, the bureau received only 108,000 letters. Five years later, in 1931, that figure was boosted to 169,000. And today, Katharine F. Lenroot, assistant to Miss Abbott, delivering a radio birthday speech, reported that the bureau now receives about 500 letters a day, or 182,500 letters a year.

Gunpowder for Baby's Eyes.

Then she read, as typical of the letters received, a note from a mother wanting to know if it would be all right to feed her baby gunpowder, to cure the styes on her eyes. The mother said she'd promised to ask a doctor about it, "if some one who knew" didn't think the gunpowder diet quite the right treatment.

Then, offering the children's bureau felicitations on its twentieth birthday as a federal agency, she added:

"Twenty years ago this mother would probably have given her baby gunpowder. But at this time she says she would be afraid to take the advice of the gunpowder advocates unless she heard from some one who knew."

COSTS CURTAILED, SCHOOLS TO OPEN IN THE SUBURBS

Officials of boards of education in Evanston, Kenilworth, Winnetka and Glencoe announced yesterday that their schools would open on Sept. 12. It was stated that reductions in expenditures have been made necessary because of reduced revenue from taxation.

The three elementary schools in Glencoe will get along with only 32 teachers. There are drastic curtailments in the departments of art, music and physical and manual training. The teachers have voluntarily taken a 10 per cent cut in salary. Gordon Mackenzie, acting superintendent, says there is enough money in the treasury to take care of the first month's pay roll of $11,000. Tax warrants must be sold for future pay.

In Winnetka the school board will need to sell more warrants to make up the opening month's pay roll of $27,000 for 100 teachers. Nearly 1,500 pupils attend the four schools in this suburb.

Superintendent Elmer Nygaard of the Kenilworth school said that $25,000 is the goal set for the sale of warrants before the opening day. This would permit operation until December. School district No. 75 in Evanston needs $35,000 for the first month's pay roll, all of which is not yet in the treasury, according to Superintendent J. R. Skiles. District No. 76 in Evanston also will reopen. An announcement several days ago stated that the Evanston Township High school had weathered the danger of closing.

400 MOTORISTS FACE COURT IN LICENSE DRIVE

Plan Campaign on Open Cut-Outs.

BY HAL FOUST.

Four hundred motorists were arraigned in the Traffic court yesterday, in a police campaign against drivers without 1932 city and state licenses. Judge Samuel H. Trude dismissed the charges against 320 who displayed receipt for licenses purchased since their arrests. The others were given continuances on their pleas that they would have funds to pay the fees within a few days.

JUDGE TRUDE.

A concrete breaking and sand blasting machine of the Chris Paschen company was stopped by police yesterday morning as it passed Odgen avenue and Washington boulevard. The machine carried 1931 city and state vehicle tags. The company is owned by Chris Paschen, former building commissioner, who was found guilty recently of income tax fraud.

The driver, Eugene Summers, 41 years old, colored, 4411 Langley avenue, was arrested on a charge of operating a vehicle without this year's plates.

Police Commissioner Allman last night took cognizance of the fact that a large number of automobiles are being operated in Chicago with cutouts open or with inefficient mufflers. These noisy engines are a violation of the city traffic code and also subject the owners to prosecution under state law through the statutes covering nuisances.

"The public should not have to tolerate unnecessary motor noises whether they're due to faulty mechanism or the willful act of a smart aleck driver," said the commissioner. "There are going to be some arrests, and mufflers and cutouts will receive attention during our general drive against traffic violators that starts the first of next month."

Blasts from Tractor.

Over the week-end a tractor drawing a trailer in Madison street was noted with an exhaust blast like shots from a machine gun, fairly shaking the neighborhood. A mud incrusted license plate on the trailer bore an Iowa number 3159 issued to Garritt Sant Hul of Rock Rapids, Ia.

A complaint was also received of a roaring muffler on a coupe in Washington boulevard. The license, 1-064-025, was issued to Miss Catherine A. Flint, 842 South Gunderson avenue, Oak Park. Her father, George C. Flint, said the car was not being driven with an open cutout but that a shaft had worn loose on the valve that closes the cutout. He added that he was going to have it fixed.

ANNAPOLIS BARS 17 BOYS FOR DUPLICATE ANSWERS IN EXAMS

This was made known today at the navy department. The examination took place last April at Columbia, Mo.

After an inquiry, the navy held the young men to have been guilty of collusion in answering the questions and barred them from further attempt to enter the academy.

Secretary Adams approved this decision and the senators and representatives who appointed the candidates were informed of the action. Their names were not made public.

Russia Passes Out Three More Death Sentences

MOSCOW, Aug. 23.—(AP)—The death sentence is becoming more frequent in soviet Russia and the newspapers are demanding rigid enforcement of a recent decree classifying as capital offenses railroad robberies and violence against collective farms. A Crimean court sentenced a man to death today for wrecking a thrasher. In another court near Moscow two workers were sentenced to be shot after they confessed derailing a train to rob the passengers.

In his message to the five men who are facing execution on the guillotine the small but mighty Nazi chief reported that he felt bound to them by a "limitless fidelity."

In a supplementary statement addressed to all his followers Hitler declared proudly:

"My comrades, you now understand why I refused to enter a Von Papen government. Herr von Papen, your bloody objectivity does not exist for me! Your name has now been entered in German history stained with the blood of patriotic fighters. There will be no quiet in Germany until the Beuthen judgment has been annulled."

Cabinet's Attitude Stiffens.

Hitler's decision to champion the cause of the condemned men has served to stiffen the government in its attitude on the case, it was pointed out by one government spokesman. It will now be impossible for the government to back down, he said, since this would be construed as retreat before pressure by Hitler.

With the reichstag scheduled to convene on Aug. 30 any political peace in the interim seemed unlikely as a result of the present unrest and agitation. Capt. Ernst Roehm, chief of Hitler's "storm troops," left for Berlin today to protest officially against the death sentences.

A possibility exists that Hitler's wrath may be soothed without action by the government. Since the crime of which the five men were found guilty was committed less than two hours after the emergency decree became effective, it was indicated by officials of the Prussian ministry of justice that the defendants are entitled to a new trial if they were ignorant of the decree.

Three Reds Sentenced.

Meanwhile a court at Koenigsberg, sentenced three communists today to from two to five months for carrying weapons.

Political circles in Berlin were excited tonight over reports that Von Papen's cabinet had worked out plans to dissolve the reichstag, which is scheduled to convene Aug. 30, in order to cling to power regardless of a vote of no confidence which is regarded as a certainty.

German-Americans Protest.

BERLIN, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Paul Lange, leader of German-American Nazis, sent a cablegram to President von Hindenburg today protesting against the death sentences imposed on five Nazis convicted of a political murder. The cablegram came from New York. Lange said he represented 5,000 American members of the party.

The story originated from the unannounced intention of the prince to pay his first visit to Stockholm, and even sets the time of the engagement as this fall.

Seek to Suppress News.

As "commercial ambassador" for the British empire, the prince will open a British exhibition at Copenhagen on Sept. 24. He will also attend the wedding of Prince Gustaf, eldest son of Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf of Sweden, and Princess Sibylle of Saxe-Coburg at Coburg on Oct. 20.

What has not been let out yet is that the prince of Wales is going to Stockholm in between those two dates and is planning to travel from Sweden to Coburg with the Swedish royal family.

All editors of the principal Swedish dailies were summoned today to the palace of the Swedish crown prince, where they were asked and agreed not to publish the fact that the British prince will visit there until it is officially announced by the royal family.

The request went further by recognizing for the first time the rumors linking Gustaf Adolf's only daughter, Ingrid, and Wales. Swedish newspapers were asked and again agreed not to publish a line reviving the rumors of a marriage joining the two royal families at any time during the prince's stay.

Never before has either house let it become known that it was cognizant of such reports nor has it done anything to dignify the gossip by attempts at suppression.

Prince 38; Princess 22.

Circles close to the Swedish royal house declare that the prince of Wales will return to Stockholm in a fortnight after the wedding at Coburg and that the engagement of Ingrid will be officially announced next November.

The prince of Wales at present is on a vacation on the Riviera. He recently inspected the British Mediterranean fleet in company with his youngest brother, Prince George.

The prince of Wales was 38 years old last June. Ingrid, a pretty blonde, is 22. She is distantly related to the prince and is a frequent visitor in London, where she is often the guest of the British royal family. She is also one of the most eligible of the princesses in Europe, of whom there are only a few left.

COURT ANNULS GIRL'S MARRIAGE ON FATHER'S PLEA

The secret marriage last June 4 of Miss Suzanne Holstein, 18 years old, daughter of Walter C. Holstein of Milwaukee, to Charles D. Haven Jr., 23 years old, also of Milwaukee, was annulled yesterday afternoon by Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady at Waukegan.

The petition for an annulment was filed by Miss Holstein's father and an immediate hearing was granted by Judge Dady. Miss Holstein testified that she and young Haven eloped to Waukegan last June 4, obtained a license, and were married at Libertyville by Justice of the Peace Charles T. Hoskins. She and her husband returned to their homes that night and did not live together, she said.

The petition stated that Miss Holstein was under age when the marriage took place and did not have the consent of her parents. Haven misrepresented his income to her, the petition declared, and he is unable to support himself.

Several Slain as Jobless Miners Fight Polish Police

KATOWICZ, Poland, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Several men were reported killed and many wounded today in a bitter fight between jobless miners and the police near here. Police sought to prevent the miners from digging coal in a group of closed pits and sealed the mines after driving out the interlopers. The clashes were understood to be continuing, with the miners using pickaxes against police weapons.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

It met the anniversary with statistics of triumph. Born on the 23d of August, 1912, it was placed in the United States government's department of commerce and labor and given $25,640 of the taxpayers' money as its yearly allowance. This year's federal appropriation was $395,500, or something like fifteen times as much as its infant annuity.

In personnel, too, the bureau has developed. In the early days it was an informal little group associated with its first chief, the late Julia C. Lathrop of Chicago. Today the budget lists 138 aids to its present chief, Grace Abbott.

Nor is this all that brings rejoicing to the birthday. The mail bags are getting fatter every year; both the outgoing and incoming mail bags.

Huge Increase in Mail.

First, as to the outgoing mail. Yearly increases in its bulk are recorded in Miss Abbott's most recent report for the fiscal year 1931.

One of the most popular of these bulletins is that entitled "Are You Training Your Child to be Happy?" The complete list of pamphlets includes a brochure on "Breast Feeding," and a study of "The Leisure Time Activities of Rural Children in Selected Areas of West Virginia."

Second, there has been a great increase in the intake of mail. In 1926, the bureau received only 108,000 letters. Five years later, in 1931, that figure was boosted to 169,000. And today, Katharine F. Lenroot, assistant to Miss Abbott, delivering a radio birthday speech, reported that the bureau now receives about 500 letters a day, or 182,500 letters a year.

Gunpowder for Baby's Eyes.

Then she read, as typical of the letters received, a note from a mother wanting to know if it would be all right to feed her baby gunpowder, to cure the styes on her eyes. The mother said she'd promised to ask a doctor about it, "if some one who knew" didn't think the gunpowder diet quite the right treatment.

Then, offering the children's bureau felicitations on its twentieth birthday as a federal agency, she added:

"Twenty years ago this mother would probably have given her baby gunpowder. But at this time she says she would be afraid to take the advice of the gunpowder advocates unless she heard from some one who knew."

That change, Miss Lenroot suggested, is due to the growth of the children's bureau, which, in two decades, has multiplied its annual budget fifteen times.

The modern mother, writing to a federal bureau before she feeds her baby gunpowder, "really represents progress," Miss Lenroot concluded, "and it is something to be thankful for on this twentieth anniversary of ours."

COSTS CURTAILED, SCHOOLS TO OPEN IN THE SUBURBS

Officials of boards of education in Evanston, Kenilworth, Winnetka and Glencoe announced yesterday that their schools would open on Sept. 12. It was stated that reductions in expenditures have been made necessary because of reduced revenue from taxation.

The three elementary schools in Glencoe will get along with only 32 teachers. There are drastic curtailments in the departments of art, music and physical and manual training. The teachers have voluntarily taken a 10 per cent cut in salary. Gordon Mackenzie, acting superintendent, says there is enough money in the treasury to take care of the first month's pay roll of $11,000. Tax warrants must be sold for future pay.

In Winnetka the school board will need to sell more warrants to make up the opening month's pay roll of $27,000 for 100 teachers. Nearly 1,500 pupils attend the four schools in this suburb.

Superintendent Elmer Nygaard of the Kenilworth school said that $25,000 is the goal set for the sale of warrants before the opening day. This would permit operation until December. School district No. 75 in Evanston needs $38,000 for the first month's pay roll, all of which is not yet in the treasury, according to Superintendent J. R. Skiles. District No. 76 in Evanston also will reopen. An announcement several days ago stated that the Evanston Township High school had weathered the danger of closing.

400 MOTORISTS FACE COURT IN LICENSE DRIVE

Plan Campaign on Open Cut-Outs.

BY HAL FOUST.

Four hundred motorists were arraigned in the Traffic court yesterday, in a police campaign against drivers without 1932 city and state licenses. Judge Samuel H. Trude dismissed the charges against 320 who displayed receipt for licenses purchased since their arrests. The others were given continuances on their pleas that they would have funds to pay the fees within a few days.

JUDGE TRUDE.

A concrete breaking and sand blasting machine of the Chris Paschen company was stopped by police yesterday morning as it passed Odgen avenue and Washington boulevard. The machine carried 1931 city and state vehicle tags. The company is owned by Chris Paschen, former building commissioner, who was found guilty recently of income tax fraud.

The driver, Eugene Summers, 41 years old, colored, 4411 Langley avenue, was arrested on a charge of operating a vehicle without this year's plates.

Police Commissioner Allman last night took cognizance of the fact that a large number of automobiles are being operated in Chicago with cutouts open or with inefficient mufflers. These noisy engines are a violation of the city traffic code and also subject the owners to prosecution under state law through the statutes covering nuisances.

"The public should not have to tolerate unnecessary motor noises whether they're due to faulty mechanism or the willful act of a smart aleck driver," said the commissioner. "There are going to be some arrests, and mufflers and cutouts will receive attention during our general drive against traffic violators that starts the first of next month."

Blasts from Tractor.

Over the week-end a tractor drawing a trailer in Madison street was noted with an exhaust blast like shots from a machine gun, fairly shaking the neighborhood. A mud incrusted license plate on the trailer bore an Iowa number 3159 issued to Garritt Sant Hul of Rock Rapids, Ia.

A complaint was also received of a roaring muffler on a coupe in Washington boulevard. The license, 1-064-025, was issued to Miss Catherine A. Flint, 842 South Gunderson avenue, Oak Park. Her father, George C. Flint, said the car was not being driven with an open cutout but that a shaft had worn loose on the valve that closes the cutout. He added that he was going to have it fixed.

ANNAPOLIS BARS 17 BOYS FOR DUPLICATE ANSWERS IN EXAMS

This was made known today at the navy department. The examination took place last April at Columbia, Mo.

After an inquiry, the navy held the young men to have been guilty of collusion in answering the questions and barred them from further attempt to enter the academy.

Secretary Adams approved this decision and the senators and representatives who appointed the candidates were informed of the action. Their names were not made public.

Russia Passes Out Three More Death Sentences

MOSCOW, Aug. 23.—(AP)—The death sentence is becoming more frequent in soviet Russia and the newspapers are demanding rigid enforcement of a recent decree classifying as capital offenses railroad robberies and violence against collective farms. A Crimean court sentenced a man to death today for wrecking a thrasher. In another court near Moscow two workers were sentenced to be shot after they confessed derailing a train to rob the passengers.

LIST 106 CASES OF UNCLE SAM IN BUSINESS

4 Groups Protest Federal Competition.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Farmers, doctors, manufacturers and railroad interests were four groups who laid before the Shannon congressional committee today their experiences with the government as a competitor in business. The burden of their arguments was that bureaucracy and the growing armies of pay rollers seem bent on steering the country towards socialization of industries and of some of the professions.

Indiana grain dealers, towards the close of the day, put in testimony that the federal farm board, aiming at a food dictatorship, is spending tax money like a soused sailor in rural counties in an effort that is driving private taxpaying grain interests into bankruptcy.

Prison Made Goods a Factor.

Manufacturers in Illinois presented a brief giving specific lines in which competition by the government is reducing their business, cutting into the normal revenues, reducing their pay rolls and number of employés, meanwhile piling up the tax burden. One item of complaint is the growth of prison industries.

Penitentiaries and prisons, being filled to overflowing since the advent of Volsteadism, government, it was argued, is now seeking to put the bootleggers, shiners and hi-jackers and others in the prison population to work turning out goods in rivalry with private employment. It was charged government is seeking to invade with prison labor a market of 700 million dollars annually in the purchase of supplies by public institutions of political subdivisions.

Doctors Find U. S. Competitor.

Doctors from the Indiana State Medical association, flanked by Legionnaires, put in arguments against "most flagrant inroads" against the medical profession and hospitals by the federal government in the laws admitting to government hospitals the nonservice connected disabilities of the veteran.

"The government has got into the practice of medicine," remarked Dr. George T. Geisler of South Bend; "if it keeps on going it will take over the whole damn business. I see socialized medicine coming so fast it would make you dizzy."

Onslaughts upon the operations of the federal barge lines were renewed by the railroad interests. They elaborated the arguments of Bruce Dwinell of Chicago yesterday in behalf of the Association of Railway Executives that the government should get rid of its barge lines on the Warrior, Mississippi, and Illinois rivers as an unfair competitor of rails.

Donnelly Submits Complaint.

Such were the high lights of the arguments unwound before the three members of the congressional committee here, Joseph B. Shannon, Kansas City, chairman; Samuel B. Pettingill, South Bend, and Robert F. Rich, Woolrich, Pa.

Intrusions of government into manufacturing in Illinois and Indiana were laid before the committee by James L. Donnelly of the Illinois Manufacturers' association. They covered a wide range.

Tentmakers reported injury by the competition of the federal tent factory, which sells pup tents at less than cost, and by the competition of army stores which sell tents to Boy Scouts, having bought surplus government stocks at reduced prices. It was also charged that government has been making skimpy tents and selling them as army goods.

Cite 106 Invasions.

Envelope manufacturers, 35 in Illinois, complained of competition in the envelopes sold by the government all over the United States. A Dayton, O., contractor is said to turn out 13 millions envelopes a day, and postal employés retail them all over the country, with no taxes, carrying or freight to pay. As an instance of government waste, public reports were pointed to showing that in the last 10 years the government printing office at Washington has printed 24 million copies of useless or obsolete pamphlets at a cost of a million dollars, good only for the junkman.

The Chicago Malleable Castings company stated that 250 of its workers were thrown out of work in their plant through government competition in foundries.

More than 150 Illinois concerns reported the government is competing with them in its manufacture of paints and varnishes at Norfolk, Mare Island, and other naval yards. Radio coal, brushes, uniforms and leather goods, furniture, card indexes, shirts, and furniture were among the 106 lines cited in the governmental invasion of private business.

Tells of Farm Board Operations.

The protest against the federal farm board's operations came from Oscar L. Barr of Bicknell, Ind., president of the Indiana Grain Dealers' association.

Illustrative of methods followed by the federal farm board in rural counties, Mr. Barr spoke of Knox county. Here the government established a portable grain loader in competition with tax paying grain handlers on properties which cost $500,000 with a capacity of 500,000 bushels, enough to store the entire wheat crop of Knox county.

Finally Went into Hog Business.

The farm board, through its subsidiaries, Barr said, bought up the wheat, by paying a higher price than was given on the leading markets, enabled to do so by use of government funds, then they shipped the grain out. This caused a shortage in the largest mill in the county, and a lot of grain had then to be shipped back into the county.

As representative of the Kentucky-Indiana-Ohio milk producers' association of Southern Ohio, Robert S. Marx, told how the government subsidized with $1,900,000 loan the cooperative pure milk association in Cincinnati. With the federal funds, Marx said the co-op enlarged its field of activities, bought up four ice cream plants in Ohio and Kentucky, and went into the wholesale and retail field with milk, butter and commission eggs. It wound up with a big hog farm at Hamilton, O.

Doctors Register Protest.

"This," said Mr. Marx, "is an outstanding example of expanding a business with federal funds at 3.5 per cent which would cost 6 per cent at the bank, and it is not a real cooperative, but it is financed to compete with real cooperatives."

In its hospitalization expansion the government is giving 75 per cent of its hospital beds to veterans with nonservice connected disabilities, so Dr. Joseph Wernstein of Terre Haute, president elect of the Indiana State Medical association, a veteran himself, declared.

"At least 50 per cent of those cases," he said, "are able to pay in full or port for their care. This means the physician and civilian hospital are deprived of this income."

LADY LOUISE MOUNTBATTEN

To Go Alone

LONDON, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Lady Louis Mountbatten and the marchioness of Milford Haven, both relatives of the royal family, are leaving England next week on an adventurous trip into the Persian desert. They will take with them neither companions, servants nor luggage.

The trip may occupy many weeks and the means of transportation they will use will include trains, ships, airplanes, horses, mules, camels and their own feet.

"We want to get away from people, towns and hotels," said the marchioness. She is 36 years old and her companion is 31.

The two travelers intend to depend wholly on their own resources and to enjoy unrelieved "roughing it."

"We shall take with us only the clothes we stand up in and one change, as well as a light tent and two sleeping bags," said the marchioness. "Of course we shall probably engage guides from time to time but we are determined to be as self-sufficient as possible. If you don't hear from us after three months you will know the bandits have got us."

TOWBOAT SINKS AT BROOKPORT.

2 GOVERNMENTAL AGENCIES ACT TO SLASH EXPENSES

Mitchell Bars Free Phone Calls to Employes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Two governmental agencies today instituted economies. The bureau of the census, under the department of commerce, notified all newspapers now receiving its press releases that this service will be discontinued unless the newspaper specifically filled out a form asking for them, or for a part of them; the department of justice ordered all employes to pay for personal telephone calls.

Must Request Service.

The letter from the census bureau reads in part as follows:

"As a matter of economy, which is so important these days, we wish to avoid sending releases in which you are not interested or for which you have no use. Therefore we shall appreciate it if you will let us know whether you desire to be continued on our mailing list for all or a part of the press releases sent out by this bureau."

Enclosed with the letter is a form to be filled out and returned to the director of publicity of the census bureau. Failure to respond "within a reasonable time" will automatically remove the newspaper from the list of those receiving the publicity sheets.

Order Applies to All.

Over in the department of justice, Attorney General Mitchell issued several economy orders among them one forbidding the present use of department telephones for personal calls even though they are local calls. This order applies to everybody in the department including the attorney general. It also sends newspaper men covering the building, into the corridors to the pay telephones.

MERGER URGED FOR WASTEFUL TAXING BODIES

County Board Resolution Asks Assembly Action.

W. J. LA BUY.

County Commissioner Walter J. La Buy yesterday introduced a county board resolution recommending that a special session of the legislature be called to merge all Chicago parks under management of one district as a means of reducing governmental expenditures. He also advocated drastic retrenchment to reduce the tax burden.

In the resolution Commissioner La Buy pointed to 21 separate park districts, each with tax levying powers and also 17 large parks, 72 small parks, 37 playgrounds, 4 beaches, and 4 natatoriums maintained by the city itself. Such an overlapping of expenditure, he said, is without parallel in the country, and merger of these parks would save millions annually.

Asks Quick Action.

The commissioner said he believed the merger of the parks would lead to other consolidations so as to reduce the 417 separate tax leving bodies in the county to a minimum. He asked immediate action by the board so that a referendum, following legislative action, could be submitted to the voters at the election of Nov. 8. The resolution was referred to the finance committee.

The resolution cited the financial tangle of local governments as demanding an immediate change in administrations and economies, so that credit might be restored. It suggests a 50 per cent reduction of real estate assessments by distribution of the tax burden and economies. The resolution cites a sales tax as a possible means of revenue.

Commissioner La Buy listed indebtedness of major local governments as:

Outstanding tax warrants	$198,118,622
Unpaid bills	89,645,678
Unpaid salaries	33,347,452
Defaults on bonds and interest	11,903,107
Total	$335,014,758

The resolution points out that the taxpayers are burdened with interest charges of $3,500 a day or $12,000,000 annually exclusive of bonded indebtedness. Unpaid salaries and outstanding debts were listed as follows:

	Unpaid salaries.	Debts.
City	$ 9,000,000	$17,379,347
County	2,700,000	7,868,000
Forest preserves	70,000	1,390,441
Sanitary district	750,000	15,458,873
Schools	20,835,937	34,495,544
Lincoln park	173,483	548,748
West park	2,817,532	3,992,163
South park		8,505,646
Totals	$36,347,452	$89,645,673

Ontstanding tax anticipation warrants were estimated at $108,188,522 including $30,000,000 each issued by the city and school board and $23,000,000 issued by the county.

Chaos in Tax Collections.

Commisioner La Buy described the tax collection situation as chaotic. He cited records to show that 17 per cent of 1928 taxes, 31 per cent of 1929 taxes and 47 per cent of the 1930 taxes are uncollected. If credit were restored, he said, bonds bearing interest at 3½ to 4 per cent might be issued to cover the outstanding obligations rather than tax warrants bearing interest at 6 per cent.

"To continue to operate on borrowed money can only result in higher and higher taxes," he said. "Such a system will only aggravate our financial problems. The present crisis demands the adoption of every rational measure of economy in order to reduce the tax burden. Consolidation of duplicating taxing bodies and retrenchment are rational measures."

Mr. La Buy asked the board to consider the proposal of a state sales tax as a relief measure. Such a tax, he said, should come only after consolidation and retrenchment. If these were carried rigorously the tax might not be necessary, he concluded.

EVEN STATE FAIR POLITICS LOSES TO DEPRESSION

Both Democrats and G. O. P. Affected.

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Apparently the depression has hit politics in its ordinary manifestations at the state fair here.

Tomorrow is Democratic day, which at least three times out of four, bucks a handicap in the form of a Republican administration, but even the Jeffersonites this year say that it is too early in the season to start out with a real bang, and they, although expected to be present in large numbers, say the real start of the campaign won't be attempted until some time next month.

And there is damper on Republican day, the day following, due to the illness of Gov. Louis L. Emmerson. The governor is still a sick man. There is no doubt about that. Soon after his return from Camp Grant he was afflicted with extreme nausea that had all the earmarks of ptomaine, although there has been no official diagnosis to that effect published.

He is still confined to the executive mansion, and those who have seen him say he will be unable to assume his rule as the central figure of "Governor's Day," as Thursday is listed officially. It is said today he may receive the distinguished participants in the motor parade to the fair grounds the day after tomorrow, but that he will not receive the party leaders of the state, as has been the custom for many years. He is not expected to go out to the grounds.

Gov. Emmerson had thought he would be well enough to dig into business by tomorrow at the least, and in that behalf he has sent word to almost a score of leaders in the two chambers of the general assembly to meet him here tomorrow to discuss possibility of a special session of the legislature on unemployment relief.

HURLEY AID OUT FOR GOVERNOR OF NEW YORK

New York, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—With the indorsement of the Republican organization in Nassau, his home county, Assistant Secretary of War F. Trubee Davison, tonight announced that he would be a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination at the Republican state convention next month.

The announcement followed formal notification to him that the executive committee of Nassau county Republican committee had adopted a resolution pronouncing him the candidate of the Nassau county Republicans for governor. Of all the Republican gubernatorial aspirants in the field, Mr. Davison is the first to enter the lists with the solid backing of the party organization.

HOOVER REPEATS VIEWS ON LIQUOR TO DRY LEADER

Writes Dr. Poling, Head of "Allied Forces."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—President Hoover tossed the prohibition issue into the spotlight again today with a new demand for changes in the 18th amendment which would knock out the evils of present day national prohibition and force the states to handle the liquor problem themselves.

In a letter to Dr. Daniel A. Poling, chairman of the Allied Forces, one of the largest of the national dry organizations, the President reiterated the views made in his speech of Aug. 11 accepting the Republican presidential nomination. At that time the President called for a new deal in prohibition, urging that wet states be permitted to have liquor but not the saloon.

Revive State's Control.

"We are on common ground in a desire to rid this civilization of the evils of the liquor traffic," the President wrote. "We may not all agree on method, but I have come to the belief that we must through constructive and not destructive changes, revive the energies of the states to deal with the new evils, with federal constitutional guarantees against the return of the old evils."

Considerable significance was attached to the President's action due to the circumstances that Vice President Charles Curtis, his running mate, came out against prohibition repeal last Saturday when he delivered his acceptance speech.

In making the communication public Mr. Poling took occasion to come out stronger than ever for President Hoover's reelection, asserting that members of the allied forces throughout the nation will be found fighting for the Republican President. He predicted that the dry vote of the country would "largely effect election results in many states."

Group Votes for Hoover.

The President's letter was in reply to a telegram sent by Mr. Poling to President Hoover on Aug. 15. At that time the dry leader characterized the Hoover acceptance as "clear cut and courageous," adding that "I march with you." Today Poling said that his organization, by an overwhelming national vote, had decided to support President Hoover.

Up to date most of the professional dry organizations have supported the President. The Anti-Saloon league, the W. C. T. U., and the board of temperance, prohibition, and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church have assailed both President Hoover and Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic presidential nominee, for their stands on prohibition. Some of these organizations, however, have come out for Curtis.

2,000 DEMOCRATS LEAVE TODAY FOR STATE FAIR FETE

A number of Cook county leaders of the Democratic party left yesterday as the advance guard of over 2,000 Chicago Democrats who will attend the Democratic day ceremonies at the Illinois state fair today. Special trains on the Illinois Central and Chicago and Alton railroads will leave this morning for Springfield carrying the delegations.

Thousands of Democrats from all parts of the state are expected to be present. Speakers will include Judge Henry Horner, the party's nominee for governor, and William H. Dieterich, nominee for United States senator.

DOUBTS TOLD BY LEGISLATORS ON TAX SESSION

Go to Capital Today for Conference.

Members of the legislature from Chicago, who have been invited by Gov. Emmerson to a conference in his office today on the advisability of calling a special session on unemployment relief, reported yesterday before leaving for Springfield that they have no fixed program in mind for raising money.

"If it has been finally decided that the Illinois Emergency Relief commission will get no more money from the Federal Reconstruction Finance corporation," said Michael L. Igoe, house minority leader, "then there is nothing else for Illinois to do but attempt to raise money for relief. I am not familiar with the entire situation, but it appears as though we will have to do as before, sell tax anticipation warrants."

Schnackenberg Has Doubts.

Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg said that his mind was open on whether there should be a special session and, if there is, what program should be adopted.

"I don't know," he said, "whether or not there is any possibility of raising more money in Illinois."

When the relief commission was granted a loan of 6 million dollars recently its representatives were told by the R. F. C. that the state should try to raise money for relief purposes through new sources of revenue.

One proposal is to increase the gasoline tax from 3 to 5 cents in order to float a 20 million dollar bond issue for unemployment relief.

Hayes Fights Proposal.

"Such a measure would come as a shock to motorists of Illinois," said Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club. "To attempt to impose any additional taxes upon the already overburdened motorists would shake their confidence in their legislative representatives.

"Illinois motorists pay a license fee, a gasoline tax to the state, a federal tax on gasoline, a federal tax on tires and tubes, a federal tax on parts, a federal tax on new cars, a personal property tax, and, in many municipalities, a city wheel tax. The motorist is taxed an amount equal to 30 per cent of the valuation of his property, which is an exorbitant rate of taxation."

INDIANA MAN SHOOTS SON BY MISTAKE.

Wabash, Ind., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Walter Sayre, Lincolnville, shot at what he thought was a squirrel today. Instead, he riddled the leg of his young son, Donald, who had climbed up into the tree.

ANOTHER SMITH STALWART JOINS ROOSEVELT CAMP

Senator D. I. Walsh Is in Line; Al Reticent.

New York, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Another of "Al" Smith's pre-convention supporters, Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, threw himself actively behind Gov. Roosevelt's presidential campaign today.

Walsh conferred with James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, for about six hours and announced himself eager "to do anything you think will help bring us victory."

At the same time he said "disappointment" in New England over "the failure of the convention to nominate former Gov. Smith" is "gradually disappearing."

Smith Won't Be at Rally.

Less than a mile down the street Al Smith himself answered with a vigorous "no" a question as to whether he would attend the outdoor reception to Roosevelt at Seagirt, N. J., Saturday.

He also waved aside questions as to whether he intended to do any speaking for the Roosevelt-Garner ticket. He has not in any way amplified a statement he gave out after his return from Chicago in which he declared he would support the party, which he said, "naturally means its candidates."

Leaders at Democratic headquarters had expressed a hope Smith would indicate an active support of Roosevelt, whom he fought bitterly at Chicago, by attending the New Jersey rally.

Walsh to Go into Maine.

Senator Walsh said he hoped to see the 1928 nominee either before he leaves the city this time or when he returns in September.

Walsh will take part in the Maine state campaign and will return to national headquarters after Labor day to aid in the New England campaign as a member of the campaign advisory committee.

Farley said reports from Maine convinced him, "We'll make some good gains up there in the state election."

Mayor James Curley, of Boston, came to headquarters to map out his stumping tour of the west and listen to a pre-view of a "talkie" he has made on the "Forgotten Man."

From the "Forgotten Man."

The "Forgotten Man" became a contributor to the Roosevelt-Garner campaign during the day. Several letters bearing that signature and enclosing dollar bills were received at the Democratic headquarters.

A four-way broadcast over a nation-wide hookup was announced by the compaign leaders.

At 8 p. m. Thursday Gov. Roosevelt will deliver what was called "an important message to the American people." He will be followed by Farley, speaking from New York; Evans Woollen, chairman of the compaign finance committee, speaking from Indianapolis, and former Gov. Harry F. Byrd, chairman of the executive campaign finance committee, speaking from New York.

Tammany Whacks Roosevelt.

New York, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Tammany Hall, under the guidance of Mayor Walker, struck two blows at Gov. Roosevelt today. It denied renomination as the party candidate to Assemblyman Langdon W. Post, who heads a "young men for Roosevelt movement," and pushed into upstate territory in an attempt to insure control of the next state convention that will nominate a candidate for governor. In Mr. Post's place Tammany designated Sylvia C. La Chappelle, a lawyer.

Assemblyman Post, now in St. Louis campaigning for Gov. Roosevelt, voted for the bill giving power to the Hofstadter committee to grant immunity to witnesses. His district leader is Charles L. Kohler, Mayor Walker's director of the budget.

In Upstate Territory, Too.

The upstate territory Tammany moved into was Binghamton, where the leader is David F. Lee, who was Gov. Roosevelt's floor leader in the New York state delegation at the Chicago convention. Tammany was credited today with having inspired the filing of a list of delegates to the state convention in opposition to those filed by Mr. Lee. The move into Binghamton was seen as a definite step to carry out Tammany's reported intention to present James J. Walker as a candidate for governor should he be removed from his present office by Gov. Roosevelt.

GARNER TO BEGIN HIS EASTERN SPEAKING TOUR ABOUT SEPT. 10

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Word has reached here that Speaker John N. Garner will begin an eastward journey about Sept. 10 from his Uvalde, Tex., home to open his campaign as Democratic vice presidential nominee.

Tentative plans call for the Texan to make his first speech in his home state, either in Dallas or Beaumont en route, with a second one probably in Atlanta or some other southern city.

Garner is expected in New York about Sept. 12. It is almost definitely settled that he will deliver a speech in New Hampshire.

The speaker plans only a few set speeches, but it is understood he will deliver many short talks from the back end of his train in New England and the middle west.

Managers of the campaign want as many people of the country as possible to see and hear the Texan personally.

JUDGE QUIZZES BAIN DEFENSE AS TRIAL NEARS END

Court May Give Decision on Banker's Fate Today

The twelve Bain banks were solvent when they crashed last summer, and are still solvent, Attorney Francis X. Busch assured Judge John M. O'Connor yesterday in his final argument for the defense in the Bain conspiracy case.

JUDGE O'CONNOR.

The final defense argument, which followed a fervid plea for conviction by Harold M. Keele, assistant to Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber, took a turn unusual in court room procedure when Judge O'Connor repeatedly interrupted Attorney Busch with questions. The defense plea, in fact, was less a speech than it was a series of answers to a vigorous cross-examination by the judge.

Judge O'Connor is sitting without a jury to hear the charges of conspiracy against John Bain, south park commissioner and head of the closed bank chain, his sons, Robert A. and John H. Bain, and his son-in-law, W. Merle Fisher. While Judge O'Connor has refused to commit himself, there was a strong feeling in the courtroom that he may give his finding in the case today, as soon as prosecution and defense have concluded their arguments in rebuttal and surrebuttal.

Bain Co ifined to Bed.

It is virtually certain, however, that John Bain will not be present to hear any ruling on his guilt or innocence. He is confined to his bed at home with a bronchial congestion, which, according to Attorney Busch, is serious.

In his final argument, which consumed little more than half a day of the day and a half alloted to him, Attorney Busch made his most vigorous plea in defense of his contention that the Bain bank chain is solvent. He cited two decisions of the Supreme court, holding that in determining the solvency of a bank, it is permissible to subtract the total of capital, surplus and undivided profits from liabilities before comparing them with assets.

Upon this basis, he presented numerous tables and statistics in support of his contention that the banks' assets exceed their liabilities by $863,-038. He also contended that John Bain personally is solvent, but it developed that by this contention he meant that Bain is not penniless, as the prosecutors asserted, but will be able eventually to pay about 30 cents on the dollar on his personal debts of $1,995,000.

Recalls Brandeis Opinion.

"I want your honor to take official cognizance of the fact that there is an economic depression," Attorney Busch stated. "I want to read you a quotation from an opinion by Justice Brandeis of the United States Supreme court, which has been called the most conservative of all tribunals: 'The people of the United States are confronted by an emergency more severe than war. There is unprecendented unemployment, catastrophic in effect. The stability of the capitalistic system is threatened.'

"The fact that the receiver in charge of the banks has realized as much as he has during a year such as the last is a great credit to his ability and sincerity."

Questioned by Judge.

Attorney Busch then introduced the first of a number of tables classifying the assets of the bank. From that point on his argument took the form of a dialogue with Judge O'Connor.

JUDGE O'CONNOR—You claim that all the banks are solvent?

MR. BUSCH—Absolutely. They are solvent because they are all stopped with at least a $300,000 cushion. The least of these banks has $200,000 in capital stock and a $100,000 surplus.

JUDGE O'CONNOR—Well, some of them were not. One was started with a lot of notes.

MR. BUSCH—No, each one of them had this cushion of capital and surplus. The cash was there.

Attorney Busch then read a list of debtors and their collateral. Prosecutor Raber interrupted to say that the prosecution had not contended that any of the debts on that list were worthless.

"Well, those we've found worthless, we've found worthless," said Attorney Busch. "I want to show that Bain bank stock up as collateral on these loans had a value on June 8 but none on June 10. (The banks closed on June 9, 1931.)

JUDGE O'CONNOR — Well, how long do you expect the receiver to wait for items to be liquidated?

Cites State Auditor's Report.

MR. BUSCH—There's no evidence that the receiver is going to quit. This matter of reasonable time for liquida-

MISS PHYLLIS CHAPMAN.

Miss Phyllis Chapman, 20 year old hostess at the Center and Howe night club, was held in a cell yesterday at the Hudson avenue police station. She had accepted an invitation the night before to go riding with Fred Sparks, 20 years old, of 919 North Lawndale avenue, a customer of the club. When Sparks drove into the filling station at North Clark and La Salle streets he was identified by William L. May, 4900 Blackstone avenue, as the bandit who held him up last Sunday morning. May called police, who held Sparks and Miss Chapman. Police called witnesses of twenty filling station holdups to view Sparks.

tion is one for proof. I want to show you two tables of loans and discounts, taken from the state auditor's report of June 9. The first shows total liabilities and assets, the second shows the same with the exception that the capital, surplus, and undivided profits have been removed.

JUDGE O'CONNOR—How does it appear from the auditor's report?

MR. BUSCH—You can take every item that the auditor has marked as worthless and deduct it from this cushion of capital surplus and undivided profits and the banks are still solvent by $863,038. I've thrown out as bad all the Bain bank stocks and all the assets put in the banks by W. Merle Fisher and the young Bains.

JUDGE O'CONNOR—What about Mulholland? [Frank A. Mulholland, a defendant granted a separate trial, owes the banks in excess of $500,000.]

MR. BUSCH—He's solvent.

JUDGE O'CONNOR [smiling]—The receiver will be very much surprised. Your figures must be based on big appraisals.

MR. BUSCH—O, no.

JUDGE O'CONNOR—Well, the receiver has judgments against both these men [John Bain and Mulholland]. He can't get a cent out of them.

MR. BUSCH—This case must be treated from the record, Mr. Raber has stood up here for so many days shouting stuff that it has become a substitute for proof.

JUDGE O'CONNOR—But John Bain said repeatedly that he had no assets, and so did all the others of his family.

MR. BUSCH—I've thrown out all the Bain banks' stocks as being of no value, and I've thrown out all the other assets of other members of the family.

JUDGE O'CONNOR—But Bain bank stocks didn't have any value. Nobody would buy them but Bain and he didn't because he had no money.

MR. BUSCH—But I put in evidence that these stocks were quoted right up to the final day. When a man reads in the paper that he owns stock of a certain value he ought to be worth that, oughtn't he?

JUDGE O'CONNOR—[Smiling.] Well, it's your idea that this stuff was worthless, but that the Bains didn't know it—is that it?

MR. BUSCH—Yes.

Attorney Busch then stated that by the state's own valuations, John Bain owns $204,000 in stocks of enterprises other than his own, $50,374 in mortgages and $472,000 in real estate, a total of $726,374.

JUDGE O'CONNOR—In fixing the value of real estate, Mr. Busch, do you think the court is bound to take the values set up by the so-called experts who testified here?

MR. BUSCH—Why, yes. I think you are bound by the evidence.

Call Valuations "Absurd."

JUDGE O'CONNOR—I think that the figures put on these properties and south side corners are just absurd. Even that value of farm land at $400 an acre. That's equally absurd. Your witnesses set even higher values.

MR. BUSCH—That's because they recognized the potential value of the land.

JUDGE O'CONNOR—Most of that value is simply fictitious. Of course, there's another side of this case that I've been bothered about from the beginning—the fact that these are abnormal times—but I do know that business property should be valued on an income basis, and that these properties never in 40 years could pay for themselves.

"The values as I have listed them in these tables should be taken into consideration when your honor is asked to make a finding," said Attorney Busch as he reached the conclusion of his plea.

"A table I have here shows that at closing the Bain banks had liabilities of $12,843,000, and that the receiver has collected, in these trying times, a total of $2,792,321, or 21 per cent of all the assets.

"Many of the loans still in these banks do not come due until 1933, 1934, or 1935, and the liquidation must continue to that time. When your honor knows these facts, he surely can't agree with the state's attorney, who said these banks were crammed with rotten stuff."

Reviews Banking Deals.

Assistant Prosecutor Keele prefaced his final demand for punishment of the Bains and Fisher with a review of a number of their banking transactions, among them the sale of $1,500,-000 in bonds to the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company on Dec. 30, 1930, and the repurchase of the same securities, at a loss, on Jan. 2, 1931.

With the proceeds of the bond sale, Bain bank loans at the Continental bank were redeemed temporarily, and the loans were reinstated to repurchase the bonds three days later. In the interim the quarterly statements of the Bain banks were issued, and Mr. Keele charged that the sale and repurchase constituted "window dressing" to conceal from depositors the facts that the Bain chain had heavy obligations to other banks.

"The men in that crew," said Mr. Keele later, referring to what he had previously called "the Bain wrecking gang," "stand relatively for what the Ohio gang stood for in Washington a few years ago."

The prosecution, he asserted, can prove that all of the Bain banks were insolvent at the time they were closed. He cited the report of the state auditor, introduced by the defense, which placed worthless assets and loans in the Chicago Lawn State bank at $1,-129,610 at the time of closing, whereas capital, surplus and undivided profits were only $890,000.

Furthermore, he charged the defendants had guilty knowledge of the insolvency of the banks as long as two years before they were closed.

Refers to Bain Testimony.

"On the witness stand," said Mr. Keele, as he drew near his conclusion, "John Bain was evasive. He tried to be just one of the directors, one of the crew. But when he found himself convicted, he took the blame to save his sons.

"But his sons are not to be excused because they are the sons of their father. They were his lieutenants and executed his orders. Merle Fisher was John Bain's first lieutenant. He sat in all the clearing house conferences, and when Bain was absent he was John Bain.

"John Bain was a confidence man. He was worse than a robber or murderer.

"There's never been a crash of banks in which the institutions were so gutted. This is a most heinous offense, and punishment should be meted accordingly. John Bain, his sons, and his son-in-law should be punished to the full extent of the law."

Mr. Busch's plea ended the final argument for the defense. The state will close today.

'RIVER TESTERS' MAY LOSE CANAL DISTRICT JOBS

Abolishment of Posts Is Considered by Bowler.

Thomas J. Bowler, president of the sanitary district, announced yesterday that he would confer with Edward J. Kelly, chief engineer, on the feasibility of abolishing the staff of "water samplers," who are carried on the district pay roll at $175 a month. The matter will be considered as soon as Mr. Kelly returns from vacation, Mr. Bowler said.

Three Democratic precinct captains, who have been sampling the Des Plaines river water at Riverside were called on the carpet by Mr. Bowler to explain the charges of laxity and neglect of duty arising at Riverside. Their immediate superior, Dr. Floyd W. Mohlman, was present.

Deny Drinking on Job.

"All three men stated emphatically that there had been absolutely no drinking on this work and that each of them had been attending strictly to his duties," said a memorandum signed by Mr. Bowler. "Dr. Mohlman stated that he had kept as close watch on the work as was possible, considering its isolated location, and stated that these men were conscientious in performing their duties."

Mr. Bowler went into the matter of two flasks and an empty demijohn, which a reporter found in a cupboard in the water sampling laboratory on a visit there. The precinct captains asserted that there were no flasks within the place, that they did not use the cupboard, and that if any flasks were found the dregs at the bottom must have been a solution of iodine.

About Half Pint Flasks.

"Comment might be made that the half pint flasks in which the samples are collected and conditioned with iodine do give the appearance and color of whisky in the glass bottle, and this might have given the reporter a wrong impression," the memorandum stated. [The reporter had not mentioned whisky, but he had sniffed each bottle and the scent was not of iodine.]

"The work is continued only during the hot summer months when the temperature is high and the low flow of the river tends to create a nuisance to the surrounding communities," the memorandum continued. The "hot summer months," it was explained, are from the last of May to the last of October.

"This sampling work has been going on for years, and was not started under this administration," President Bowler added.

SHE could easily cut down on those embarrassing runs. Other girls do. They wash their stockings the Lux way. Lux keeps the live quality—the elasticity—in stockings, so they wear twice as long. The silk threads give, but do not break.

The LUX way to keep stockings new

Wash this 2-minute way:

1. One teaspoon of Lux for each pair.
2. Add lukewarm water to Lux, squeeze suds through stockings, rinse well.

AUSTRIA ACCEPTS LEAGUE'S LOAN; AVERTS CRISIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The Austrian parliament today finally accepted the $43,000,000 loan from the league of nations in accordance with the league's agreement, and went on vacation. The vote was 82 to 80. The loan is expected to stave off any new financial crisis in Austria until December.

The Austrian bundesrat had rejected the offer on the ground that it would cause Austria to lose her independence for another twenty years. The bill was returned to parliament as the constitution calls for two acceptances.

Gets One More Vote.

While the loan was accepted at the first session on Aug. 17 with only a one vote majority, the government doubled its margin today because of the death of Johann Schober, former chancellor and foreign minister, who had opposed the loan.

Schober was an ardent supporter of the plan for Austria's union with Germany, and his party was unanimously opposed to the league loan because it forbids an Austro-German accord. The Socialists also voted against it. The death of the famous statesman brought one more vote to the government, because he held a mandate from the national economic party which had a fusion ticket with the Pan-Germans at the last elections.

Gottlieb Gravenhofer of the Economic party, Schober's successor, took his oath as deputy a few minutes before the final vote was taken by the president of the parliament, Karl Renner. Gravenhofer voted for the government.

Referendum Move Rejected.

The Pan-Germans, realizing that the loan agreement would be accepted, quickly introduced a motion for a referendum. It was rejected, 82 to 80.

An hour after parliament closed its session a funeral ceremony for Schober was held. The coffin was placed in front of the parliament, where President William Miklas and Chancellor Engelbert Dollfus spoke warmly of the services Schober had rendered his country.

Members of a student organization acted as guards of honor and stood alongside the bier. Thousands of people lined the Ringstrasse when the funeral procession passed. Mass was read at the Votive church. The body will be transported to Perg, in Upper Austria, Schober's birthplace, for burial.

WRONG TAX BILL SHOWN IN SUIT; JUDGE ANGERED

Circuit Judge Craig Hood yesterday examined a 1930 personal property tax bill which the Crowe Nameplate Manufacturing company, 1749 Grace street, represented as having been paid. He discovered that the bill, stamped paid, was issued aganist the Crowname Plate company, a different concern, and that the address of the Crowname Plate company had been erased and that of the Crowe Nameplate company inserted.

"This is the most abominable subterfuge I ever saw attempted on a court," declared the judge. "The persons responsible should go to jail. It is a barefaced and palpable attempt for illicit gain. If it weren't so perfectly silly I would demand grand jury action. I think that the county's attorneys should take this matter to the proper tribunal."

The bill was presented by an official of the Crowe Nameplate company when the suit for nonpayment of $2,711 in 1930 personal property taxes was called. Because officials of the company protested that they had paid the Crowname Plate company's bill of $619 Judge Hood deducted this amount when he entered judgment against the Crowe Nameplate company. Earlier in the day the judge entered twelve judgments totaling $40,000 against other tax defendants.

Wife of Baking Company Head Charges Cruelty

Mrs. Minerva de Benedetti yesterday filed suit in the Superior court for a divorce from Achille de Benedetti, head of the Torino Bakery company, 320 Kensington street. She charged cruelty. She said she started her husband on the way to his financial success in 1919 when she persuaded him to open the bakery. The company now has a $10,000 a month business, she asserted. She charged that her husband had refused to allow her to move from their $15 a month flat.

A pathfinder on many of the commercial air routes operated by Great Britain, Wing Commander Carnegie is inspecting night flying operations in the United States for their application in Europe. The United line alone flies more than 6,000,000 miles at night each year, eight times as much as is flown in all of Europe.

A dance for air minded persons will be held in the Blue Bird hangar at Chicago airport next Saturday night.

BELIEVE MISSING BANKER A VICTIM OF LOST MEMORY

The Secret Six withdrew from the search for William A. Ernsting, missing banker of Bensenville, yesterday, and Alexander Jamie, chief investigator, expressed the opinion that Mr. Ernsting was the victim of amnesia rather than kidnapers.

No word had been received at the home, 170 Mason street, Bensenville, of the whereabouts of Mr. Ernsting, who disappeared in Chicago Saturday morning after consulting with two attorneys. His wife, Edna, and other relatives at first were certain that Mr. Ernsting had been kidnaped, but wavered in this belief yesterday when no ransom demands were made. However, Mrs. Ernsting said her husband was in good health and had never before suffered the loss of his memory.

Examination of Mr. Ernsting's accounts at the First State Bank of Bensenville, of which he is vice president, showed them to be in good order.

Midcity Has Not Drawn Upon Its Advance.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—The publicity given loans to banks and other financial institutions by yesterday's report of the Reconstruction Finance corporation will tend to strengthen the confidence of depositors, Chairman Henry B. Steagall [Dem., Ala.] of the house banking committee declared today.

Coincidentally with this expression of opinion attention was drawn to the fact that a considerable number of banks have applied for loans and have had the loans approved, thus being listed in the report, but have not actually drawn the money.

Mid-City Does Not Draw.

Officials of the Mid-City Trust and Savings bank of Chicago, whose application for a loan of $320,000 was authorized by the corporation, asserted today that they had not drawn upon the loan.

The Mid-City bank found that it would not need the authorized loan, its financial position being stronger, and so did not avail itself of this money. This case was pointed out as an example of the danger of announcements of loans by the house banking committee's clerk without a careful check-up of whether the loans had really been made.

Another case was that of the Bank of America National Trust and Savings association of San Francisco. A. P. Giannini for this bank denies that his bank received the $3,800,000 listed by the house clerk as awarded to it.

Still another case was the State Life Insurance company of Indianapolis, which denies it received $400,000 listed as awarded to it.

Total of 505 Millions.

Since the creation of the finance corporation more than 505 millions have actually been disbursed to banks and trust companies, while loans of more than 118 millions have been authorized but not disbursed.

Commenting on yesterday's report, which showed that loans totaling nearly 48 millions had been authorized by the corporation from July 21 to 31, Mr. Steagall said:

"Many banks that have let it be known that they have borrowed from the Reconstruction Finance corporation have reëstablished themselves in the public confidence."

Cites Action of Dawes.

He recited the reported loan of 80 millions to Charles G. Dawes' Central Republic Bank and Trust company of Chicago, saying that Gen. Dawes had "rushed into print" to tell of the loan so that any dissatisfied depositor might come in and get his money.

ORDERS INQUIRY TO BAR RELIEF TO WAGE EARNERS

Park Employe Revealed on Aid List.

Joseph L. Moss, director of the Cook county bureau of public welfare, yesterday issued an order that all relief cases on the books of his organization must be investigated frequently by the case workers to determine when members of the families obtain employment. The order was issued after an investigation which disclosed that one family was receiving aid while the husband had part time employment.

"My previous order for frequent investigations of the families receiving relief aid must be enforced," Mr. Moss said. "We are convinced that there are a number of families whose members obtain partial employment, but do not report that to us. Our case workers are burdened with 200 to 300 cases each, but that burden will not be allowed to interfere with constant follow ups on all cases."

Relief for Destitute Only.

Mr. Moss added that relief is intended to be given only to families that are destitute, and not to be given as additional revenue when the family already has an income. He said that the family of W. J. Weadley of 6410 North New England avenue, who was found to have a part time job at the fieldhouse of Norwood Park, has been removed from the relief rolls.

Investigation by a reporter disclosed that Weadley, who has been receiving aid from the Irving Park relief station weekly since last November, has been employed part time by the Norwood Park board of commissioners at a salary of $5 a day since last January. The commissioners said his monthly salary had ranged between $40 and $70. Weadley received an average of $4.03 a week from the relief station.

When the reporter visited the comfortably furnished Weadley home, Weadley was not there, but Mrs. Weadley admitted readily that her husband was employed part time by the park board. She said she felt ill, probably because of playing too much tennis. Her two children, 3 and 6 years old, are cared for by an elderly couple living with them, Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Johnson. Johnson also does odd work around the house.

"Why didn't you tell the relief agency when your husband was employed by the park board?" Mrs. Weadley was asked.

"We had a lot of electric light and gas bills unpaid, and were behind in the rent, so we thought we needed every cent we could get our hands on to pay our debts," she said.

The butcher at the Imwark meat market, around the corner at 6457 Imlay avenue, remarked that the Weadleys had owed him $45 since last September, although they had found the money to put a new screen on their back porch. There was no appearance of poverty at the Weadley home.

LEGION LIKELY TO VOTE FOR IMMEDIATE BONUS AT NATIONAL MEETING

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—A check up today indicated that the American Legion is likely to reverse its convention stand of last year and come out flatly for immediate payment of the bonus at its national convention in Portland, Ore., next month. Thirty-three state conventions already have been held. Their total voting strength 893. Of these states 25 with a voting strength of 787 voted to send delegations to the Portland convention with instructions to vote in favor of immediate payment. Last year's total voting strength was 1,415. This year's total voting strength is expected to be about that figure. On the basis of these figures the states already committed in favor of the immediate payment plan have a sufficient voting strength to put the organization on record as approving the proposal.

The cost of immediate payment of the bonus would be in excess of 2 billion dollars.

$10,000 BARN BURNS.

Bloomington, Ill., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—The large horse barn on the C. M. Traverit farm, near Danvers, Ill., burned, causing a $10,000 loss. The tenant, William Wellenreiter, lost $2,000, when 75 tons of hay burned.

OFFICER OF LOAN ASS'N GIVES UP AS EMBEZZLER

Zdislaw Albrecht, 47 years old, secretary of the Albrecht-Wichowski Building and Loan association of Gary, surrendered in Crown Point yesterday on a charge of embezzling $181,066 from the concern. Unable to furnish bond of $10,000, he was lodged in the Lake county jail.

Albrecht gave himself up shortly after Edgar E. Phillips, a state bank examiner, discovered the defalcations. He appeared at the office of Robert Estill, Lake county prosecutor, and said: "I want to tell everything and get it off my mind."

According to Estill, Albrecht confessed stealing money from the concern by manipulation of records for the last four years. Albrecht used the money to pay off mortgages and interest on 28 pieces of property which he owned in Gary. Despite his use of the money, he lost several parcels of property recently, he told the prosecutor.

The warrant for Albrecht's arrest was signed by Walter Zaparucka, president of the association. The offices of the concern were closed.

Albrecht and his wife, Lottie, and their daughter had been living for the last month at 5706 South Marshfield avenue, Chicago. The suspicion of the stockholders was aroused at this move and the investigation was begun.

The examiners found that Albrecht's report of Aug. 1 listed $176,616 due to clients. They charged that in reality the amount due was $337,682.

A few hours after Albrecht surrendered another alleged Gary embezzler was arrested. He was D. D. Melin, 38 years old, property manager of the Commercial Trust company of Gary, which has been in a process of liquidation for the last 18 months. Melin confessed to stealing between $3,500 and $5,000 from the concern, according to Estill. He was locked up in the county jail.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

A LAZY EDITOR NOT TOO IMPROBABLE.

John B. Chapple of Wisconsin, himself a successful editor, speaking before the press committee of the American Legion, gave warning that eternal vigilance is the price not only of the liberty but of the usefulness of the press. He advised that the veteran who is either a publisher or an editor now has greater opportunity and need to serve his country than during the days in the trenches.

A venal press, which is bound to defeat its own purpose, is less a menace to the public welfare than a compliant and sluggish one. Mr. Chapple spoke with discernment in saying American institutions have little to fear from a free press, even if it be a strong opposition force which criticizes the form of government itself.

"It is only," he said, "when such criticism is disguised, dishonest and under cover, when it creeps into the news columns rather than confines itself to the editorial page, that it may prove destructive and dangerous by distorting the picture of the news of the day.

"Destructive forces in our political life have seized upon this temporary period to breed fear and distrust and to shake the faith in the fundamentals of our order. They have made every effort to influence or mislead honest independent American newspapers into disseminating propaganda disguised as news. They condemn bitterly those newspapers that maintain their balanced American ideals and are not victimized by destructive propaganda.

"As editors our duty during this crisis is to make certain that our sources of news and our handling it are such that our public receives an accurate picture of the facts and then to interpret the events of the day so that Americans may decisively take their stand to uphold the principles which have made this the greatest nation on earth."

THE TRIBUNE is well familiar with the condemnation of which Mr. Chapple speaks and which comes from its determination to seek its own news sources and maintain its balance rather than accept the probable bias of gratuitous information from interested if not prejudiced sources. THE TRIBUNE has been of slight comfort to the special pleaders.

Editors in America on the whole have been quick to recognize the pernicious flood of propaganda with which their offices are flooded. Much of it comes with only a little disguise and, compared with its tremendous quantity, much reaches waste baskets or when published is identified with the source by which it is originated.

The era of propaganda, however, has an evil even greater than that described by the Wisconsin editor. It has created the grave danger of editorial laziness. So much material is laid before the newspapers and so much of it is interesting and well prepared as well as apparently innocuous that there is a constant temptation to print it rather than dig for news.

That provides the chance for the complete suppression of unfavorable news or for the minimizing or coloring of incidents not favorable to the source from which the material comes. Unless there is an independent reporter continuously digging it will be an unnatural official or department head who voluntarily points out for publication a development in his office that reacts discreditably to him.

No one knows better than the editors what tremendous and constant pressure is upon them to make use of their white space for other than the presentation of news unprejudiced by special interest or particular purpose. They have been alert and careful and spent their money to do their own reporting rather than risk the subtle and improper influence of the special spokesman.

Mr. Chapple has described an editor's duty well. We add to it only that editorial laziness is more likely than editorial corruptness to prevent the full discharge of duty to the subscriber. The one, because it is more probable, is a graver danger than the other.

LA SALLE STREET AS A MODEL.

The traffic control system on North La Salle street works well. The lights are so synchronized that automobiles can move along, without a stop, from the river to Lincoln park. As the system has been markedly successful on La Salle street it is difficult to see why the same engineers, whoever they may be, who worked out that scheme are not intrusted with the task of devising a similar arrangement for Michigan avenue.

PERSONAL PROPERTY.

The downtown hotels of Chicago have been divided into eight classifications for purposes of personal property assessment. In the highest classification are two hotels whose furnishings are valued at $175 a room. At the bottom are a group of twenty or more houses at $10 a room.

The schedules were worked out in conference with the Hotel Owners' association. It is said that the total bill on all the hotels will be larger than in previous years, but that the hotel men are satisfied because the inequalities have been ironed out. Competing hotels for the first time in memory are to be placed on a plane of equality so far as personal property taxation is concerned.

That is a substantial achievement to the credit of Mr. J. L. Jacobs, the assessor. He has shown a willingness to be impartial in applying the law and a desire to be scrupulously fair as between competitors in the same line of business. On that showing, it is to be hoped that other trade associations will coöperate with him as the hotel owners have done. That should make it possible to lay down universal rules for assessing the property of competing business institutions and thereby remove the widespread fear that competitors will take an unfair advantage of the information to be found in the assessment rolls. Once that fear is removed, business men will show a greater willingness to file schedules. If the trade associations will coöperate one of the principal complaints against the personal property tax administration of this county will have been disposed of, the complaint based upon favoritism to some and excessive taxation of others in the same line of business.

Of course, the other and more fundamental complaint against high taxation forced by extravagant government will remain, but that is a matter with which Mr. Jacobs cannot be charged. Until government costs come down real estate owners cannot expect too much as a result of the efforts to place personal property on the books, or even from the reduction in real estate valuations all over the city. The money which the governments are spending must be met from taxation. The taxpayer will have no more in his bank account at the end of the year if what he saves in real estate taxation is taken from him in increased personal property taxes.

Mr. Jacobs is charged with the task of spreading the burden equally and he is making commendable progress. It is not within his power to reduce the total burden. That is the duty of the elected officials of government and such appointive officials as the members of the school and park boards. It is upon them that attention needs to be focused if genuine tax relief is to be obtained.

Editorial of the Day

[New York Times.]

Apparently the chief aim of Gov. Roosevelt at Columbus on Saturday was to convince his party and the country that he is prepared to take the offensive in this campaign. His speech, at least the first part of it, was bold and aggressive. He at once carried the war into the enemy's camp. In a direct and dashing way he attacked the Republican record during the last four or five years, not omitting to ride full tilt at President Hoover himself. If the main design was to show that Gov. Roosevelt is a real chip of the family block, and may be counted upon to display the vigor and audacity of a former New York governor of the same name, it must be admitted that the address was a great success. It will doubtless hearten Democrats by making them believe that they have a gallant national leader who knows not fear. Even Republicans can hardly refuse admiration to the untested knight in the tourney who spurred straight against Front de Boeuf with leveled spear.

It was skillfully aimed at a joint in the Republican harness. To recall Republican pledges in 1928 and to set them over against the ghastly contrast of performance is effective politically and morally, because it is the kind of oratory which merely reminds American citizens of what they all do know. It may seem like slaying the slain to recite again the long and melancholy list of Mr. Hoover's mistaken judgments and frustrated assurances, but if the thing had to be done again, Gov. Roosevelt did it with devastating effect. The execution done in this way by the governor's Columbus address ought to make the President and the Republican party anxious never again to hear or to use the word "promises." Mr. Roosevelt's assault was directed at the most vulnerable point of the Republican armor. Defense at that part of the line is no longer possible, though a formidable front may be drawn up elsewhere later. At present, as one surveys the state of things after this first encounter, the Roosevelt charge appears to have been driven home. The time and the occasion called for a fighting speech from the governor, and he certainly made one, with a destructive energy that is certain to delight and animate his party.

The governor himself admitted that it is not enough for him to smite his opponents hip and thigh. Exposing their record and repudiating their plans and purposes has to be supplemented by a definite and constructive Democratic program. This Mr. Roosevelt proceeded in part to outline. He enumerated some of the "remedies" which he himself and his party are under obligation to propose. In this part of his speech the governor was not so happy or convincing. This is not because his suggested policies are bad. Some of them are very good. A few of them have already been applied in various degrees. But almost none of them goes to the needs of the hour. The governor's suggested cure for the evils of speculation, of inflated security issues, of loose banking methods, of improvident use of credit and money, might have been a good one in 1928 or 1929 and may be a good one in 1935 or 1936; but it scarcely corresponds to the symptoms and diseases of today. We do not now so much need control of big business as we do the restoration of even little business. The control of issues of new securities is not at the moment so much afflicting us as is the drop in value of securities long outstanding. Severe government regulation of banks is less urgent just now than means of preventing bank failures. Thus it would seem that the governor's nine point program is not really an answer to the question what he would do here and now if he were President.

Doubtless he is reserving that subject for future addresses. The country will be looking to him for his ideas about the way to cut down unemployment and meanwhile to assure necessary relief; how to restore financial and industrial confidence; how to lay the taxes and make the economies necessary to balance the federal budget; how to ward off such a raid on the treasury as the American Legion is now visibly preparing to make. These are living and urgent matters on which Gov. Roosevelt will be expected to speak his mind. If he is able to do it with as much directness and verve as he displayed on Saturday in the offensive which he led with so fine an air against the Republican ranks, he will prove himself such a presidential campaigner as we have not seen in years.

WHAT SELLS NEWSPAPERS?

NEWSPAPER circulation, reflecting reader interest and confidence, is based primarily on all around quality. This quality consists of authentic news presentment, special writers of recognized authority or individuality, honest editorial policy, cartoons, pictures, features, and various departments of sports, markets, theaters, movies, etc.

After this recital perhaps it is gratuitous to remind that THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has far greater circulation than any of its competitors not only in Chicago but in that tributary of the middle west now commonly designated as Chicagoland. This fact drives home, however, our point of all around quality.

Circulation earned on this basis, however, is fixed or constant. What, then, sells extra papers to those who perhaps do not read a metropolitan newspaper regularly? Being of the sports department, the present Wake-Line claims that sports events produce more readers than events of any other department, both regular readers and additional readers.

Seeking to prove our point, we asked Louis Rose, circulation manager, for figures of additional papers sold as a result of the presidential election of 1928 and of the second Tunney-Dempsey prize fight of 1927. A presidential election comes every four years—a title pugilistic bout at least once a year.

Of the issue following President Hoover's election 373,707 more TRIBUNES were distributed than on the day preceding. This gain was 252,266 in the city and 121,441 outside the city.

Of the issue containing the result of Gene Tunney's victory over Jack Dempsey 267,994 more TRIBUNES were distributed than on the day previous. The division was 174,188 more in the city and 93,806 outside the city. Thus a prize fight, simply a news event without value to the social or economic life of the nation, sold about 70 per cent as many extra papers as a national election with its choice of a man to guide, in large measure, national destiny for four years.

More recently, when the Cubs changed managers, with Charley Grimm succeeding Rogers Hornsby, 35,000 additional papers were sold. Throughout nearly the entire year there are fixed sports events to command reader attention. There is hardly any American family of which some member is not interested in one or more branches of athletics.

Now there are, of course, great national and international happenings, such as floods, cyclones, intrigues, etc. They usually come suddenly, so they cannot be anticipated with "Order from your newsdealer now." Radio broadcasts and headlines of papers on news stands, of course, stimulate sales, but such happenings are hardly comparable to the fixed events of sports and politics, which we chose for our comparison.

Those of us in sports reporting, therefore, recognize our responsibility—there are no keener critics than sports followers—to readers and reader interest. That's what we wished to bring out before leaving this sanctum for our usual quarters.

A COUNTRY LAD.

I saw him going down a gold-brown lane—
While birds about me sang on leafy knoll—
That tawny lad who carried battered can,

And whistling 'neath its battered brim he went,
While, following bare heels, a mongrel pup
Snatched fondly at his trousers, frayed and rent.

I hope the catch comprised a goodly string
For him who went his carefree, trustful way;
He left a trail of love along the lane—
And may he be a President some day!

HOT WEATHER HOUSING.

IN THE tropics the native lives in a house consisting of a thatched roof and the posts needed to sustain it.

The floor is of earth and there are no side walls. The bed consists of a hammock swung from the posts. The wind can blow unrestrained through the house and over and under the occupants as they sleep in their hammocks. The disadvantages of such a habitation are lack of privacy and the fact that insects, snakes, and animals have free access. There is no smoke in the house to drive out mosquitoes and flies but, as something of an offset, there is not much hiding room for insects.

The advantage is coolness. When the native acquires relative riches and rank he may build a civilized man's house for himself and, in doing so, he will add greatly to his discomfort due to heat.

White men who have lived long in the tropics build their houses with slatted side walls. In some houses, the slant of the slats can be adjusted so as to give almost unimpeded flow of air or, in the other direction, so as to close all openings in the wall. Such houses have much of the advantages of the native wall-less huts, but they permit privacy, and insects do not have unlimited entry.

In most temperate climates where the summer is long and hot, houses are equipped with lattice doors. These leave a large opening below the summer door and also a larger one above it. The lattice work makes privacy possible but does not wholly exclude air. In these regions the houses are never built over cellars. The air circulates under the house and thus the floors are kept cool. In most instances the house would be cooler if it had a well ventilated cellar. To keep the first floor cool the windows of the cellar should be kept wide open. In very hot weather the occupants could keep cool by retiring to the cellar, the openings having been closed.

In Yuma, Arizona, the hotels and at least some of the houses have double roofs. The top roof is placed two or three feet above the second one. There are no side walls between these roofs. No hot air is trapped under the roof in these houses. Hot air trapped under the roof is a prolific source of discomfort in most of our homes. In some instances this can be remedied by providing windows in the under the roof space and keeping these open in hot weather.

A visitor to Havana, Cuba, is impressed by the high ceilings in living rooms. Old fashioned southern homes had high ceilings. This is an effort to get away from the evil effects of hot air trapped at the top of the room. Somewhat the same results can be had in rooms with lower ceilings by putting ventilators near the ceilings, or by using fans to blow the hot air away.

1. Are inflammatory rheumatism and arthritis related?
2. Does the former bring on the latter?
3. Does massage help in both cases?
4. What diet is good for inflammatory rheumatism?

REPLY.

1. They are. Inflammatory rheumatism is one of the best known forms of arthritis.
2. A form of chronic arthritis may follow acute rheumatic fever, but that is not a striking succession. As a rule persons who have recurring attacks of acute rheumatic fever have no more than the average prevalence of arthritis of other kinds.
3. It has a place in promoting convalescence after rheumatic fever, and may be of service in other forms of arthritis. In most forms of chronic arthritis it is best to use the joints. However, in arthritis of the spine it is often best to fix up the joints.
4. The alkalinity of the body is lowered in the acute attack. There is not much desire for food in the fever stage. The patient should have what is known as the fever diet. This consists of milk, light soups, fruit juices, and light vegetables. During convalescence there is always evidence of considerable anemia. During this period the diet should contain a good deal of meat, including liver, bone marrow, and tripe, and plenty of vegetables.

1. You probably have a mild arthritis in your knees.
2. No.
3. There is not much chance that you will.
4. Neither procedure could be expected to accomplish anything.

TRY TO FORGET IT.

In fact, unless I touch it I wouldn't know it was there. What could it be?

REPLY.

It is probably a lipoma or fatty tumor. These are often discovered unexpectedly. If you could manage to forget the tumor, even to forget that you had discovered it, you would be doing yourself a good turn.

MORTGAGE PAYMENTS.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Two years ago I had a mortgage taken on my home, said mortgage being held by a bank which closed recently. Three days before the bank closed I paid the interest on this mortgage, for which I have a receipt from the bank. I am now notified by the bank that I will have to again make this payment to the party to whom they turned over this mortgage. Is it compulsory for me to again make this payment, as I have always made the payments to the bank and have never done business with the third party they mention?

R. S.

The mere fact that the wording says "payable at" a specified place does not mean that the holder would be bound by a payment made to the broker in absence of the notes. It is, however, often the case that a payment which would be unauthorized as far as the wording is concerned can be sustained on previous dealings between the parties; for example, if the maker has met previous payments by depositing the money in advance of the deposit of the notes and the holder has acquiesced in this practice, then the holder would be regarded as authorizing such deposits so that he would be bound thereby. This is the holding in 249 Ill., App. 474; 197 Ill., App. 520, and 253 Ill., App. 614.

BERLIN.—The merchant submarine Deutschland arrived at the mouth of the Weser, according to the Overseas News Agency. The Deutschland started on its return trip from Baltimore on Aug. 1 and escaped the cordon of allied ships which were watching for it. The craft reached Baltimore on July 9 after crossing the Atlantic in safety despite the allied blockade, and its voyage was hailed as epoch marking in merchant shipping.

LONDON.—The Greeks are preparing to resist in force the advance of the Bulgarians towards Seres and Kavala. Before the pressure of King Ferdinand's troops the Greeks have fallen back, but they do not purpose to permit a Bulgarian advance to the Aegean sea without disputing it. Followers of former Premier Venizelos are leading a movement to force King Constantine's hand and bring about a Greek alliance with the entente powers.

LONDON.—A further advance by the British in the region of Thiepval is recorded in the British official communication which says that 200 yards of a German trench have been captured there. The silencing of German artillery at three different points also is reported.

PARIS.—The war office says that north and south of the Somme artillery fighting continued all day, being particularly severe in the sector of Belloy and Estrees.

PETROGRAD.—Russian forces operating near the Jablonitza pass have captured two heights north of Roverla mountain, which lies just south of the Hungarian border. The Germans resumed the offensive south of Brody where the Russians are attempting to approach Lemberg from the northeast. The war office says the Germans were repulsed.

ROME.—The Italians are making a strong and successful thrust at the Austrian lines in the Alpine region on the extreme northern front. They have also carried strong Austrian positions in the Tofana area in the Dolomites and in the Travenanzes valley. Several thousand Italian-Americans were in the army that entered Goritz and are storming the Austrian defenses south and east of the captured city.

WASHINGTON. — Negotiations between President Wilson and the railroad executives concerning a settlement of the wage controversy which threatens to plunge the country into a general strike were enlivened by the receipt at the White House of what is virtually an ultimatum from the union leaders. Brotherhood Presidents Garretson, Lee, Carter, and Stone sent word to Mr. Wilson claiming that they must have the answer of the railroads within the next 48 hours. Unless a favorable reply be forthcoming from the carriers, they said, it will be difficult to restrain the 640 district chairmen from precipitating the strike.

CHICAGO.—It was announced that Theodore Roosevelt will campaign in Illinois and the west for Hughes and Fairbanks and that Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana will make the speech in the Auditorium on Oct. 5 starting the Republican campaign in Illinois.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. — In the women's western golf championship Miss Elaine V. Rosenthal of Ravisloe defeated Mrs. Ernest Beifeld of Ravisloe, 7 and 6; Miss Laurie Kaiser of Flossmoor defeated Miss Louise Fergus of Glenview, 8 and 6, and Miss Vera Gardiner of Glen Oak defeated Miss Elizabeth Allen of Rock Island, 3 and 2. Tomorrow Miss Rosenthal will meet Mrs. Frank C. Letts Jr. of the Cincinnati Golf club and Miss Kaiser will play Miss Gardiner.

UNSIGHLY ADVERTISING.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—While busily engaged in planning an advertising campaign for one of our clients, a friend called my attention to the remarkable letter, dated Aug. 9, written by Mrs. Howard C. Phillips.

Mrs. Phillips' article is remarkable inasmuch as it is so ridiculous. Her statements are easily disproved. Does she or do you know of any highways in this section of the country where safety is endangered by outdoor advertising displays? I certainly do not, and my hobby is to fly along the highways in my spare time.

From the standpoint of beauty her remarks are equally unintelligent. Through my position I have been in touch with some of the really fine artists in the country who have prepared designs for us to be displayed on poster panels as well as color work for magazines. Is there any comparison between these beautiful lithographed reproductions on the outdoor panels or the hand painted bulletins and the everyday black and white mess of advertisements one sees in the newspapers? Doesn't Mrs. Phillips ever see the advertisements in THE TRIBUNE?

As to the growing antagonism, I should really call it growing disgust. We in the advertising agency business know the propaganda for what it is—unfair competition. Certainly it does not seem to hurt the outdoor advertising business whatsoever, judging from the comparative volumes of advertising we are authorized to place in the various mediums. Perhaps the advertisers themselves have also become aware of what it is all about.

This is really written because I get rather tired of seeing one-sided pitter-patter on this subject and it will, therefore, be an experiment to see if THE TRIBUNE has enough good old American sportsmanship and fairness to publish my reply.

MR. HOOVER'S INTELLECT.

FRANK L. MATHER.

THE RIGHTS OF DUB GOLFERS.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Obviously the rule of the superintendent of Lincoln park regarding novices at the new Waveland avenue golf course is being misunderstood. His business is to protect and preserve the property in his care and he would be neglecting his duty if he allowed people to wantonly destroy it. There are very few that are willing to buy or borrow three golf clubs and, with no idea of the game or rules of the game, step up to the first tee and make a spectacle and laughing stock of themselves; but, unfortunately, there are a few, hence this regulation.

The allegation that a player is followed from the first tee by a policeman to ascertain the player's ability and fitness to play is absolutely untrue; however, when players start out digging up the valuable turf with a dozen or so strokes, and replacing none, and it is plainly evident to every one that the person is totally ignorant of the rules and etiquette of golf, they are respectfully asked to take their fee back and go to the south course and get an idea of the game.

Nobody should resent this, but as there are evidently those who do, the right thinking public should back up these efficient public officials.

H. A. DEANE,
President, Lincoln Park Golf club.

MR. GARNER.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—THE TRIBUNE of Thursday quotes Speaker John Garner in a press dispatch as saying, "We have got the election won." If the honorable gentleman is so sure of success, why is he a candidate for two offices, the vice presidency and representative to congress from the 15th district of Texas? The general assumption would be if he failed to receive the higher honor he would, without question, receive the congressional preference. However, the writer remembers that the speaker's efforts during the last session of congress have been associated with the pork barrel. Hence the porcine greediness.

A REPUBLICAN.

MR. CHAPPLE'S INDIVIDUALISM.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—Inasmuch as you are so zealous in championing the cause of Mr. Chapple, why do you not inform the public that as late as 1927 Mr. Chapple was a communist?

You might also inform your readers of the reason for Mr. Chapple's conversion to "individualism."

FILIPINOS LAUNCH FIGHT TO REPEAL PRESS GAG LAW

Code Seeks to Ban Facts Aired in Court.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA, Aug. 23.—A movement for repeal of the Philippine "gag" law, otherwise known as section 357 of the new penal code, which may lead to a thorough revision of the libel law in the Philippines, has been launched in the Philippine legislature as a result of a recent clash on the floor of the house of representatives in which freedom of the press was the bone of contention.

Following a bitter denunciation of the press in general on the floor of the house by Representative Marcelo Ramirez of Bohol province as a result of an editorial in a Manila paper denouncing members of the legislature for starting a "raid on the treasury," Representative José Domingo of Tarlac, introduced a bill seeking repeal of the "gag" law. Domingo's answer to the attacks of Ramirez caused a division of opinion in the house, with supporters of the rights of the press in the majority.

Newspapers Fight Gag.

Taking its cue from Representative Domingo, the Gridiron club of Manila, composed of editors of the different papers and foreign correspondents in Manila, renewed its campaign for repeal of the "gag" law which had been abandoned some time ago chiefly on the opinion of the secretary of justice that the new law in effect was no stronger than the old libel law. Section 357 of the new penal code, which practically repealed the old libel law, reads:

"The penalty of imprisonment of a fine of from 200 to 2,000 pesos, or both, shall be imposed upon any reporter, editor or manager of a newspaper, daily or magazine, who shall publish facts connected with the private life of another and offensive to the honor, virtue and reputation of said person, even though said publication be made in connection with or under the pretext that it is necessary in the narration of any judicial or administrative proceedings wherein such facts have been mentioned."

Seek to Make Code Clearer.

This provision caused no little stir in newspaper circles and the excitement was allayed only when the secretary of justice and other legal lights opined that when taken together with a previous provision of the same code, which enumerated matters which could be used in the newspapers, the much-abused section was no harsher in effect than the old libel law. Since the new code went into effect on Jan. 1 of this year, not a single case has been taken to court under the "gag" law, although a move was started to take a case to court as a test case for the newspapers of Manila.

Representative Domingo's bill, however, has started a move to make the new code clearer and more explicit by removing provisions which may be subject to many interpretations. Supporting Domingo's move, the Gridiron club has gone further and publicly announced its intention to work for a general revision of all statutes covering press publications, with a view to securing the approval of a more liberal libel law.

Reveal Jokers in Law.

The Gridiron club brought to light other provisions of the new code which increased the penalties provided for in the old libel law. For instance, the new code has abolished the clause in the old libel law declaring that "malice shall not be implied from the mere fact of publication," and has increased the fine from $2,000 to $3,000 and imprisonment from one to four years.

The club has also called public attention to the fact that even during the military régime, 30 years ago, the old libel law, known as Act 277, was considered sufficient to protect the virtue and reputation of individuals.

While no official pronouncement has been forthcoming from Gov. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt on the "gag" law, on the ground that the matter has not been officially brought to his attention, local newspapers feel confident that the move to repeal the law has the governor general's sympathy.

CITY EMPLOYE KILLED BY ERROR, SAYS CAFE OWNER

An inquest into the "mistake" killing of James Madden, 40 years old, city sidewalk inspector, whom two Negroes shot to death late Monday night while Madden was riding with two policemen, was opened yesterday at St. Luke's hospital. After routine testimony the inquest was continued to Sept. 8 to allow police further time to investigate.

Madden's companions, Patrolmen Louis Starr and Patrick McInerney, testified that the three had attended an American Legion meeting at 174 West Washington street and were returning home with Starr at the wheel when another machine narrowly missed colliding with theirs at Archer avenue and Dearborn street.

Suspecting the other motorists to be hoodlums, Starr gave chase, he said, and was overtaking the other car at 22d and Dearborn streets when there came a burst of gunfire. The other car sped on, he said, and the police later discovered that the shots were fired by Crawford Wilson, 40 year old Negro proprietor of a restaurant at 30 West 22d street, and his 17 year old son, Frank Wilson.

Father and son told the police they had mistaken Madden's car for one from which a shot had been fired at another Negro a few minutes earlier, but did not take the stand to repeat the story. Both are held.

ACCUSES HUSBAND

Mrs. Mitzi Novak Downs, who accuses her husband, Victor Downs, of slaying Frank Tuthill, corn doctor of Quogue, L. I., to get $5,000 in cash.

WIFE SAYS HER HUSBAND SLEW ECCENTRIC "DOC"

New York, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—A woman accused her husband today of having shot and killed Frank Tuthill, corn doctor of Quogue, L. I., for the $5,000 or more that the eccentric character usually carried on his person.

Mrs. Mitzi Novak Downs, it was revealed at the office of the Suffolk county district attorney, charged that her husband, Victor Downs, had murdered the itinerant corn doctor in their bungalow on the Dune road in the eastern part of Quogue.

The woman made a detailed statement but police say it is filled with discrepancies. Briefly her story was that she had lured the corn doctor to the bungalow so the husband could fleece him of his money. But he showed fight, she said, and drew a pistol, so her husband shot him.

But police say Tuthill was killed with one of his own revolvers. They doubt there was any fight because the corn doctor was an expert shot and Downs would not have stood a chance with him in a pistol exchange. They think he was hit on the back of the head and then shot.

Julian Green Writes Novel of a Coward

"Strange River" Another Excellent Book.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Strange River," by Julian Green [Harpers], published today.

JULIAN GREEN at the age of 31 (he will not be 32 until September) has a literary position probably unique in our day. The author of three novels consistently and without exception lauded for their genius, he is at the same time counted a great novelist in America and in France, judged and found excellent by the standards of two entirely divergent literary standards.

JULIAN GREEN.

He is, as you know, an American in every fact except the one of his birth in Paris, his father being a member of an old Virginia family. His early education was entirely French, except for two years—from the ages of 19 to 21—at the University of Virginia. He writes in French and his books are translated for readers of English, not by himself, although he speaks the most perfect "American" (with, however, more of an English than a southern accent).

To the French his genius in "Avarice House"—his first novel—was supreme and Gallic. To Americans his genius in "Avarice House" was supreme and comparable to his fellow Virginian, Edgar Allan Poe. His preoccupation with the macabre was exactly in the Poe tradition, although his interest was more in the psychology than in the physical facts of horrors. In his French there is a definite preoccupation with the exactness of words— le mot juste—which has been the essence of the finest French literature for generations.

"The Strange River," published today, is, like "Avarice House," "The Closed Garden," and "The Dark Journey," a tale of the deeper washes of the human mind, although even more contemplative than the previous books, even less a record of action. Nothing, literally nothing, happens in "The Strange River" other than the hero's hearing in a walk beside the Seine a woman's cry for help and his sudden involuntary flight from the exigence of that cry.

With the hero's realization that he is at heart a coward, the whole book is concerned. He is a coward, he finds, about his wife, who is having an affair with another man which he cannot bring himself to notice. He is a coward about the love of his sister-in-law which he accepts and resents at the same time. He is a coward about his child whom he dislikes, but of whom he makes a companion. He is a coward about his business which he disposes of so that he will not have to face the board of directors who consider him, he is certain, but a lay figure in their drama of affairs.

The obsession drives him so he must know whether the woman who called to him was harmed by the man who so obviously was bent on harming her. It drives him to strange explorations of the strange river.

The mind of the wife is no concern of the author's, but the sister-in-law's passionate devotion to the hero, despite her understanding of his character, is gone into with a scalpel by Julian Green. Whatever of drama there is in the book is the drama between those two. But even that is a passive, mental thing never expressed in any active emotion or deed except a sudden flight for a week of the sister-in-law which causes no real change in their mutual relations.

Dealing as it does with an emotion so much less primitive than the previous books—which had primary passions for their raisons d'etre—"The Strange River" has an intellectual rather than fictional appeal to the reader. His interest is in the manner in which the author has managed to crystallize a difficult theme rather than in the theme itself. In the earlier books there was a definite, tense interest in the theme itself, as well as in the author's method. . . .

Julian Green is, oddly enough, as deeply Gallic and as deeply Poe-esque as a person as he is as a writer. Not at all unlike the young Poe in feature, he is intensely shy at the same time that he is intensely the young southern gentleman. And, in some strange fashion he is also the typical, intelligent Frenchman of his class, sensitive, mentally alert, with Gallic fingertips taking the pulse of life.

I have talked with him but once—for an hour or so in his apartment in Paris—but I came away understanding perfectly why French was his natural literary language, despite his perfect English for conversation. In all of the creative reaches of his mind he is actually French. "The Strange River" is infinitely more French than American, and it is the first of his novels to be definitely, preponderantly Gallic.

It is a phenomenon that Julian Green and Anne Green, authors, respectively, of as macabre and as lighthearted fiction as we have today, should be brother and sister. Anne Green was born in Savannah, Ga., six months before her Georgian mother and her Virginian father sailed for France, where a year later her brother first saw the light of day.

Tiers and Capes Parisian Thought for the Debutante

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—If you're very young and very slim, Paris reserves tiers and capes for your special benefit this season. The style makers of France are getting fed up with the close and undeviatingly fitted frock which came in this spring under the name of Directoire. The newest dresses both for day and evening have a tendency toward wider skirts, and when they are designed for the young girls the skirt is likely to be tiered as is the Jean Patou frock shown in our sketch today.

This is a dress of dark Patou blue crêpe de chine, and is intended to wear for afternoon from 5 on until midnight. The bodice, shown in the small sketch, has cape sleeves with scalloped borders, and a trick neckline, bateau in front, with straps across the extreme points of the décolleté on the shoulders. These straps are crossed at the back of the neck and are attached to the sides of the blouse back, which is cut down in a narrow V, below them, to the waistline.

The skirt has three tiers, split in front, and scalloped to the hems. A sash of crêpe de chine is tied in a bow at the center front.

The wrap that accompanies this frock is made of the same material and is a small double cape, cut circular, and fitted around the shoulders. The edges are scalloped. It has a small standing collar.

Benefit Card Party.

A card party to benefit the Martha Washington Home for Crippled Children will be given this evening on the roof garden of the Hotel Sherry.

This Season a Happy One for Juniors

Get Fashionable Clothes at Chicago Shops.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

PROBABLY the juniors and subdebs are for once in their misunderstood lives, speechless with surprise and satisfaction. Very little has been said about the new fall clothes designed especially for them, but the new models are disappearing fast and that is all even the most optimistic parent or designer could ask.

There is no sniff so derisive as the sniff of a knowing young junior as she spurns a frock she considers too infantile for consideration, or no, "No," so disgustingly final as the same young person refusing clothes that are as uninteresting as they are dull and dreary!

So, some bright young designing person with a memory filled with the funny frocks and funnier hats and coats of her childhood has accomplished wonders with simple wearable materials and practical but bright colors.

Even a repeatedly disappointed subdeb will thrill over the clever new sports models. Kasha colored diagonal wool fashions one particularly sophisticated model . . . big sleeves that taper into a snug deep cuff below the elbow . . . kick pleat in front . . . well fitted hip line, tailored collar and revers, and a bright green leather flower to match the belt. That is all any demanding young clothes hound could ask. The same dress is available with red accents. The low price tag will certainly surprise the maternal half of the shopping expedition.

Another sports outfit that will make a phlegmatic junior wriggle with delight is a three piece angora cloth costume consisting of a striped sweater blouse with long sleeves . . . a simple flared skirt and robin-hood green sort of a jaunty jacket without sleeves. The jacket and skirt are of forest green with striped trim to match the sweater blouse . . . the jacket buttons snugly to the high neckline and has very short cap sleeves.

What a grand surprise a real afternoon dress will be to a slightly pessimistic youngster! A new model of satin back silk crêpe will provide the thrill of a life time to such a weary shopper. It is fashioned as skillfully and as distinctively as an Paris original, with the dull brown of the crêpe contrasted with fashionable full sleeves, bias cut insets over the hips and bows of gleaming brown satin.

For the color-mad young thing, try the guimp model, a fetching new affair of bright wool crepe with a wild red and white printed cotton guimp. Big puffed sleeves in the flaming red guimp will flag any wandering attention.

And for dress parade who could resist a picture frock of black velveteen slashed across the shoulders that can be pushed high or low above the elbow . . . and a round neckline edged with robin's egg blue and the high waistline sash also boasts this same lovely color contrast.

A slinky black crêpe party gown in a very small size will cause a panic . . . sub-debs and small proportioned adults looking for a suitably designed dress for evening will be very much impressed with its high front neckline, the discreetly low backline, the sophisticated brilliant clips and the long slender clinging contours of the entire costume.

A bright and glamorous fashion future is about to dawn for all juniors sub-debs and small sized shoppers with all these delightful new collections now on display.

Eye Shadows Coming Into Popular Use

Shades Vary for Day and Evening.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Whether it was the back-on-the-head hat that called for eye cosmetics, or whether it was the cosmetic business pouncing down at a psychological moment with eye-beautifying wares, I don't know. But the places of eye shadow and eye cosmetics in general have taken on an amazing stride in the last year.

Eyelids and lashes are being colored that never before knew a cosmetic. And from all the signs we're only just beginning to look at eye cosmetics as a means to a flattering end. Pretty soon, one might forecast, the American girl will be like her French sister. She'd sooner think of going out to shop without her frock on than without her eye cosmetics.

In case you might be wondering what shades you could choose from if you took it into your head today to dress up your eyelid—there is a purple shade that is said to be most seductive for night wear. The blues are on a gray-blue order, a deeper shade, and a very young, soft blue that is charming on the right person.

Grays there are, too, lending depth to gray eyes and on certain of the green eyed giving just that touch of mystery that spells disaster for the poor male who stops to look. But what I really started out to say was that there isn't much conquest in store for eyelids that have become flabby and wrinkled, though they may be loaded with cosmetics.

Most women when they oil the face with creams and preservative lotions shy clear of the eyelid region. The skin there needs nourishment and tonic just as well as that of the rest of the face. The attention being paid to eye cosmetics naturally will bring about a reform in general eyelid condition. Women will become more conscious of its state and that's about all a smart woman has to do to correct it.

Miss Bennett a New Person in This Movie

Reviewer Believes Love Caused Change.

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

It must be love!

If it isn't love—what is it that has kindled warmth, humor and quick intuitiveness in Constance Bennett?

The girl always could act, but not until her last two pictures was I able to forget that she WAS acting. Now—she lives her rôles. [It MUST be love. Remember how Ruth Chatterton limbered up in "The Rich Are Always with Us" when she had George Brent—whom she's just married—as her leading man?] Congratulations, Marquise de la Falaise, and to you, Marquis, our gratitude!

The lady is far superior to the libretto in "Two Against the World." She does a grand piece of work, supported ably by a cast that knows its way about, and with no particular assistance from the director. Judging from signs, this gentleman was a bit befuddled by the fast occurring and not particularly likely complications of the scenario—albeit the last purports to have been founded on a real life tragedy of recent date.

As screened this movie is just another drawing room melodrama singing huskily and a bit off key of happenings in the life of an improperly rearer daughter of the rich. Dell discovers in the school of hard experience, that life is real and life is earnest.

In her disillusioning contacts with a world jagged with shocks and bewilderments, she is safeguarded and, if you must know, adored by a most noble young attorney. This rock of Gibraltar is engagingly portrayed by Mr. Nell Hamilton. We leave these two, at the last, supremely happy over a repast of beans and catsup. They have lived and they have learned. No more, you are sure, will Dell park her auto in front of fire plugs, speak before counting ten, or, unreckoning cast her dollars to the winds.

The picture is replete with a murder, a courtroom scene, stagings and dialogue that spell luxury, opportunities for the good little girl to be a bad little girl and vice versa. If you become a bit confused as the piece reels on, just close your eyes and don't worry. Because, really, you've seen all there is to see innumerable times before—

—EXCEPTING this new and delightful Miss Bennett!

A Debut Puts School Girl on Party List

That's Why Students Make Their Bows.

BY JUDITH CASS.

DID you ever wonder why it is that so many girls who still are in college want to make their debuts, even though they are not at home to indulge in all the good times the "debbies" who are here have?

It is because when the lists are made up for those to be invited to the debutante parties only those girls who have "come out" or who are on the season's list of debutants are included, and unless a girl has signified her intention of making a formal bow to society she still belongs to the schoolgirl set and she is not invited to the parties for the "debs."

If a girl elects not to make a formal debut she is invited to parties given by her intimate friends but she is not included in those given by acquaintances and she hasn't a chance of being invited to the big balls, unless she belongs to an outstanding family, and then, of course, she is showered with invitations even by people who know her only by name.

If a girl's father and mother are prominent enough it doesn't make much difference whether she makes a debut or not, but if they are fairly quiet people without great social prominence it just makes it easier for the girl to be included in all the debutante festivities if she is introduced formally in some way.

Some of Chicago society's most popular girls have not been debutantes, but for years it has been the custom for girls who are finished with their education and ready to take their positions in the social world to which their parents' position entitles them to be introduced to society, and most of the daughters of Chicago's "400" have been debutantes.

Custom of Recent Years.

It is only within the last few years that girls who are not finished with their schooling have "come out" and it is because of these debutante lists that are made up by social secretaries and passed from one mother to another that it has become the custom for girls to be presented early in the fall and then go away to college and not be here for any of the debutante parties until the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays. Of course, in days gone by there weren't so many girls who went to college, either, and most young women were finished with their schooling by the time they were 18 or 19, and those who did go to college were serious minded and not at all inclined to care for the frivolous life of a social bud.

But going to college nowadays doesn't mean that if a girl waited until she had received her sheepskin at college to take part in the social whirl at home she would be too old to be a debutante.

Most of the September debutantes are returning to college and some of those who are to "come out" during the Christmas holidays are to be in college this winter, too. Lucy Fairbank, daughter of Mrs. Dexter Fairbank, and her cousin, Frances Bell, daughter of the Laird Bells, who are to have a joint debut tea on Saturday, Sept. 10, at the Bells' Hubbard Woods residence, are both leaving later in the month for eastern colleges, Lucy for Bryn Mawr and Frances for Smith.

Miss Marie Swift, the Gustavus F. Swifts' daughter, is to make her debut during the Christmas holidays, for she is entering Bryn Mawr this year, having been at Miss Nixon's in Florence last year. Her cousin, Miss Lydia Swift, the Alden B. Swifts' daughter, who also was at Miss Nixon's last year, will be at home this winter and will have a debut party some time in the autumn, although her mother tells me no date has been set yet. Another cousin of Marie Swift's, Elizabeth Baum, daughter of the James E. Baums, also was at Miss Nixon's last winter and is to stay at home this season and to be a debutante, but no date has been set.

Horse Show at Berkshires

The annual Great Barrington horse show in the Berkshires will be held on Sept. 1, and Miss Eleanor and Miss Alice Coonley are taking an active part in arrangements for it, as they have in previous years.

Miss Alice is a member of the committee and Miss Eleanor has donated one of the prizes. They are the daughters of the Prentiss L. Coonleys of New York, formerly of Chicago. Alice Coonley came to Lake Forest two seasons ago to make her debut at a joint party given for her and her cousin, Miss Constance Hasler.

Mrs. Henry B. Stimson and her daughters, Polly and Alice, aged 11 and 12, arrived yesterday from New York for a fortnight's visit with Mrs. Stimson's mother, Mrs. Hugh J. McBirney, at her Lake Forest residence, the House of Four Winds. Mrs. Stimson is the former Isabelle McBirney.

Mrs. Stone Busy With Grandchild

There isn't much use in trying to reach Mrs. John Sheppard Stone on the telephone in her own apartment at 1240 Astor street these days for she spends most of her time up at the Grant hospital with her first grandchild and namesake, tiny Mary Dana Goss, who was born last Saturday morning. Mary's daddy, Eliot P. Goss, is in town this week with the Stones but he has to return to Racine, where the Gosses have been living since spring, next week.

Mrs. Goss, the former Lucy Stone, and the baby will spend a week or ten days with the Stones after they leave the hospital, so it will be several weeks before they travel north to Racine.

WOTTA LIFE! WOTTA LIFE!

The Death Watch

By Edgar Wallace

SYNOPSIS.

Peter Dunn of Scotland Yard is in pursuit of a band of thieves who some years before had robbed the Canadian Bank of Commerce in London. The robbers spent nine years in jail for the theft, but the loot was never found trace of. Peter's buddy, Inspector Sam Allerway, was dismissed in disgrace, accused of taking a bribe from the head thief, and killed himself. Peter, the only baronet in the service, kept right on working after he came into his title and fortune. It was his form of fun and he wanted to vindicate Allerway. The year after the robbers were released Peter is on a vacation, cruising on the Thames.

INSTALLMENT III.

A WOMAN'S SCREAM.

Peter was trying to read a German work on criminal practice, but found it difficult to keep his eyes open. At nine o'clock he got into his pajamas, extinguished the little reading lamp and slipped into bed.

He was not a heavy sleeper, but certain notes woke him more quickly than others. He could sleep through the heavy rumble of traffic and the sound of deep throated klaxon horns, but a shrill note amidst the noise would wake him instantly.

He was awake before he realized he had been asleep. It was a woman's scream; there was no doubt about it. He heard it repeated, and tumbled out of his bunk, listening. It was a scream of terror—somebody was in horrible fear.

He pulled a waterproof coat over his pajamas, pushed open the door of the cabin and came out to the little well deck. Somebody was crashing through the undergrowth. He heard a woman's sobs.

"Who's there?" he called.

Going into the cabin, he found his hand torch and sent a powerful beam into the darkness.

The girl who was found by the light stood, terrified, staring toward him. She was in her nightdress and an old, discolored robe. Her hair was awry. The round, moon-like face was distorted with fear.

"It's all right," said Peter.

Evidently something in his voice reassured her, for she came scrambling down the steep bank.

"Don't come any farther. I'll pull my boat in. What is the matter?"

She did not answer until he had grabbed the mooring rope and drawn the stern of the boat into the bank. The hand he took was deadly cold, and she was shivering from head to foot.

Her hair was awry, the moon-like face distorted with fear.

"Get me away out of here—get me away quickly!" she sobbed. "That horrible thing! . . . . I wouldn't stay another night. . . . I heard the death watch, too, and I told Mr. Hannay and he only laughed."

"You've seen something disagreeable, have you?" said Peter.

He had taken her to his cabin and put a rug around her. An unprepossessing young woman, he classified her without difficulty, and when she told him later that she was a housemaid he was rather surprised that she had attained even to that position.

He had some hot coffee in a thermos flask, which he had put away against his early morning breakfast. He gave her this, and she became more coherent.

"I work in Mr. Hannay's house, sir . . . it used to be one of Diggin's Follies. You know the place."

"No, I don't know the place," said Peter. "Who is Mr. Hannay?"

She was very vague about Mr. Hannay, except that he was a rich gentleman "in the drapery."

Apparently it was the death watch that worried her. She had heard it again and again. Two other servants had left, because, when the death watch sounded, something always happened. She had heard the click-click-click of it in the wall.

"I know the superstition," said Peter with a smile. "It's a little beetle, and he's quite harmless."

She shook her head.

"Not here, sir." She was very serious. "When you hear the death watch at Chesterford something always happens."

Peter heard a voice hailing the boat from the bank, and went outside. He saw a tall, thin man who carried a torch in his hand.

"Have you seen a girl?" asked a booming voice.

"I've got her here—yes," said Peter.

"I'm Mr. Hannay of Chesterford." The voice had a certain pomposity and self-importance. "One of those stupid servants has been making a fuss because she heard the death watch and thought she saw something. She ran out of the house before I could stop her."

"If you please, sir"—the girl had come out of the cabin and stood behind Peter—"I was so frightened, sir."

"Come back to the house immediately," said Hannay's voice. "Really, it is too absurd of you, making me ridiculous and making yourself ridiculous. Ghosts! Who heard of ghosts?"

"I saw it, sir."

"Rubbish!" said Mr. Hannay. "Come along, I'll take you back to the house."

Peter was a little relieved. He had no particular desire to accommodate a young lady for the remainder of the night. His little clock told him it was just after midnight, and he did not relish the prospect of sitting up all night with a companion whose only topic of conversation was ghosts and death watches. He helped the girl to the shore.

"Thank you very much, Mr.—um——?"

Peter did not oblige him with his name. He was glad when the girl had gone, but for an hour he lay, turning from side to side in his bunk, speculating upon this strange little adventure. Death watch? Ghosts? He smiled.

He was just dozing off when there came another interruption. He got out of bed and again went out of the cabin, not in too good a temper. The man on the bank had no lantern.

"Excuse me, sir, are you the gentleman that gave shelter to Lile?"

For a reason best known to himself Peter went suddenly cold.

"Yes," he said quietly.

"She took away your rug. Mr. Hannay asked me to return it to you."

All Peter's irritation was gone now. Dimly he could see the man on the bank. He had left his lantern in the cabin, but evidently the man on the bank could see him.

"Will you catch, sir?"

Something was thrown at him; the soft mass of the rug struck him in the chest.

"Have you got it? Good night, sir."

The man went scrambling up the steep path to the invisible house. Peter stood for a long time, the rain pattering on the shoulders of his waterproof.

"Good Lord!" he said softly.

He went back to the cabin, switched on the light and sat down.

"Who the dickens was Diggin?" he asked aloud at the end of an hour of thought. "And what was his peculiar brand of folly?"

He left his mooring just after daybreak, stopped at Marlow and went ashore, and at that unearthly hour engaged a room at the "Red Lion," where he finished his interrupted sleep. At ten o'clock his boat was still moored at the big boathouse, and Peter was pursuing inquiries.

Diggin was a builder, long since dead. He had conceived the idea of building two villas on the crests of two identical hills. They were not good villas, but they were very precious in the sight of Mr. Diggin, who had been both the architect and the builder. They suffered from this disadvantage, that they were near no main road, were indeed almost unapproachable, since in the days when they were built the motor car was an unknown method of transport. They were red brick villas, with bow windows and slate roofs, altogether unlovely, and they were called "Diggin's Follies" because nobody wanted to buy them or hire them. Even the advent of the motor car did not make them any more desirable.

The week before his death Mr. Diggin had sold one and the land on which it stood to a man who intended starting a poultry farm. He had never started it. The second, and more important, sale was conducted by Mr. Diggin's executor, and the purchaser was Mr. Hannay, who had so built on to this villa that it had lost its native ugliness and had attained the dignity of a country house.

Dessert Served First at Real Chinese Dinner

And Bird's Nest Soup Is Second Course.

BY MARY MEADE.

China, for thousands of years mysterious, inscrutable, aloof, today has taken up a new job—that of counselor and inspiring genius in many of America's swankiest cuisines.

Just one thing the Oriental artists ask of their enthusiastic American disciples—that they go the whole way with them and don't, for lack of immediate materials, let a Chinese inspiration become "Americanized" in the making. For—and this is not prejudice but fact—it is not so much the method of making as the peculiar flavor of distinctive Chinese foods which gives the native dishes their charm and mystery. And while these foods are not to be found in the average market, nearly all good sized cities have their Chinese merchants who will carry them or be able to secure them for us.

The foods? First there are Chinese potatoes—really roots of water plants which have the flavor of sugar cane when raw and keep their pleasant crispness when cooked. They are best boiled, peeled, and sliced thin. They combine with chop sueys or are served alone as a vegetable.

Chinese mushrooms are to be found on the market dried, needing merely a few minutes' boiling or steaming to prepare them. They are darker than most of ours and have a delicious, distinctive flavor.

The Chinese water bean supplies the sprouts used in so many characteristically oriental dishes. These sprouts may be bought ready to use or grown from the beans by treating them with tepid water at intervals for four or five days.

Bamboo shoots are imported in cans from China, as are also the flavorful Chinese pineapples, lichee nuts for desserts, and the popular preserved kumquats, ginger, and other delicacies.

Miow, an oil like our peanut oil, seow, a black salty sauce, and queow, a thick, black, molassesslike flavoring sauce, are one or all found in most chow meins, chop sueys and war meins. And with these aids, a few recipes and a bit of experimenting, a wide repertoire of dishes may be developed right in our own occidental kitchens which are as truly oriental as if they were created by deft Foo Yong in his own immaculate kitchen thousands of miles away.

First, if we would intrigue our friends by serving a truly Chinese dinner, we will find ourselves reversing the usual order and serving the dessert first. This may consist of a fruit chow chow, kumquats, or ginger preserved in rich sirup. With these we serve thin rice cakes, nuts, and much Chinese tea.

BIRD'S NEST SOUP.

If we would be thoroughly Chinese, the second course would be bird's nest soup! A great delicacy in China, it is made from the nest of a cliff dwelling swallow that uses seaweed and a secretion of its own to build the nest. These nests are gathered, dried, and sold by the ounce. They should be soaked in water and all traces of feathers removed. A good, rich soup stock, seasoned lightly and flavored with a touch of onion, is the soup base. In this, the soaked nest should be boiled for about twenty minutes, slivers of white chicken meat added, and the whole served in small, deep bowls. Four ounces of nest are sufficient for six bowls of soup.

The main course, served always with its bowls of dry, fluffy rice, may be a highly seasoned chop suey, a chow mein with crisp fried noodles, or some other combination of chopped meats, native potato, vegetables, and sauces. Chicken, veal, lamb, beef, duck—any of these meats may be used.

CHOP SUEY WITH PINEAPPLE.

For this native favorite, cut ¾ pound of pork in small pieces and brown in miow [peanut oil]. Add 1 teaspoon minced onion, 2 cups of white chicken meat cut fine, 2-3 cup finely cooked sliced Chinese potato, 2-3 cup chopped celery hearts, and 1½ cups of chicken broth. Let the mixture simmer fifteen minutes, then stir in enough seow or seasoning sauce to flavor, and sufficient rice flour or other flour to thicken. When done, add 2-3 cup of minced Chinese pineapple, reheat, and serve.

CHOW MEIN, ET AL.

Chow meins, war meins, and gai meins all may be made with the chop suey foundation, served over crisp fried noodles. A delicious war mein omits the pineapple, adds a cup of sliced Chinese mushrooms which have been soaked two hours, and simmers until meat and vegetables are tender. Serve over fried noodles in a large dish. Over the top at one end place fine green strips of onion tops, at the other shreds of green lettuce, and in the center thin strips of egg which has been beaten thoroughly and then fried.

Egg Foo Yong and much more tea will finish up the typical Chinese meal, but since most of us might not enjoy quite such a topsy-turvy dinner, we may stretch a point and serve our preserved fruit desserts or fruit salad and rice cakes at the close of the meal if desired.

Beauty Trade Tells How to Defeat Slump

The beauty business, thriving and optimistic despite the depression, revealed a few secrets of success at the second convention day of the American Cosmeticians' association yesterday. While two to three thousand shop owners and operators from coast to coast and from Canada to the gulf jammed the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman and the lecture hall experts recited a few reasons why business continues to be good.

"The value on cosmetics and toilet preparations of $15 manufacturers is $190,000,000 for this year in this country, a drop of only three millions below 1929," declared Mrs. M. B. McGavran of Kansas City, president of the association. "Fifty per cent of those articles go directly to the retailer. Beauty shops are holding their business by adopting more modern methods of advertising and using more display advertising in the newspapers."

A hair dyeing expert and a marcel wave operator both reported increased interest in their beauty lines, not to mention the toupee artist, who declared that good salesmanship along toupee lines will increase a shop's clientele.

"Increased hair dyeing has added to beauty shop income," reported Emil Rohde of Chicago. "Several years ago women who dyed their hair might have been considered 'fast,' but not these days. It is just as easy as putting on rouge and powder.

"And as for glazed hair for an evening only," Mr. Rohde continued, "that is the easiest of all. By the use of powder I can match in half an hour any gown, whether it be silver, blue, gold, or mother-of-pearl. But I am very careful to glaze the hair after administering the powder, or it might rub off on her escort's shoulder."

The new marcel wave, its creator, Mrs. Ella L. Tracy, explained, is obtained by a kind of zig-zag twist to the iron. The result is hair that lies flat to the head and is similar to a finger wave. There is an increased demand for marcels, Mrs. Tracy said. Many women have learned, she added, that a marcel wave isn't only for women with straight hair, but is as satisfactory when used with permanent waves.

As for the toupee, Miss F. Tobey declared that there is a steady increase in he demand for toupees. Then she demonstrated before an interested assembly, mostly women, how one is made. With a bald-headed man for a model, she cleverly fitted a cloth foundation the size of the bald spot, then attached the hair which had been matched with that of the model. She deftly pulled the wig into place on the bald spot, gave it a tug to show how firmly it fitted, and presto—there was a head of chestnut hair you couldn't tell from the real thing.

The convention will continue through today and will close this evening with a mock marriage and period styles in coiffures and gowns. Character analysis, the value of advertising, and the cosmetic sales tax will claim the attention of the delegates during the day.

William McClelland Drake will depart today to join Mrs. Drake and their daughter, Susan, at the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Keyes at Elkhart, Ill. Mrs. Drake and little Susan have been at Elkhart for about ten days and they'll return to Chicago with Mr. Drake the early part of next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth G. Smith are cruising in northern waters on their yacht, the Kenkora, the principal object of their trip being to reach a climate free from hay fever, from which Mrs. Smith suffers during the latter part of August.

Mrs Ralph Rigg Kimball of Hinsdale and her son, Charles Henry Gallway Kimball, and his fiancée, Miss Eleanor Fay Cushman of Winnetka, have gone to Maple City, Mich, for a two weeks holiday Miss Cushman's and Mr. Kimball's engagement was announced last December and their wedding will probably take place this fall.

William A. Bond of the Webster hotel returned on Monday from Annapolis, where he visited his son-in-law and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. Ralston Holmes, who recently opened their residence at the Naval academy after a tour of the New England states. The captain recently completed a term of service with the Pacific fleet.

Mrs. William A. Ryan will open Whitewood, her beautiful new residence in Wheaton, today from 10 to 5 o'clock for a sale by the Vocational Society for Shut-Ins. Hoffman, Mrs. Joseph M. Bricker, Mrs. John A. Muldoon, and Miss Elizabeth Brown.

Reception at Art Institute

Mrs. Ralph T. Winston sent word to this department yesterday of a reception to be given at the Art institute at 4 o'clock this afternoon for M. Pierre Lyautey, nephew of the famous Marshal Louis Hubert Lyautey of France. The affair is being held under the auspices of the French national order of the Legion of Honor, and John Hay McGibbons is in charge.

Prenuptial parties for Miss Dorothy Darling, who is to be married to Lieut. George V. Holloman on Saturday, Sept. 10, started last Saturday with a luncheon and bridge party at the Glen View club at which Miss Jane Theurer was hostess.

Tomorrow Mrs. Leroy Woodland will give a kitchen shower at her residence in Kenilworth; Friday Miss Darling's sister, Mrs. Leland Danforth, will entertain at a luncheon and bridge party, and next Tuesday Mrs. Burt Crowe and her daughter, Mrs. Laurence Knott of New York, will give a breakfast and bridge at Mrs. Crowe's Kenilworth residence.

Numerous parties are being planned for Miss Darling and her fiancé, who will arrive from Dayton, where he is stationed, early in September, but the only one for which the date is definite is one that Miss Georgianna Fowler will give at the Drake on the evening of Sept. 7. The bridal dinner will be given by Miss Darling's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira C. Darling, at their residence in Kenilworth on Friday, Sept. 9.

Free Ice Fund Gets $1 from Working Girl

"I am one of those hard working girls but this dollar was yelling to be spent."

The "hard working girl" who wrote that lives downstate. She read about the need for ice among the needy families of Chicago and she sent that yelling dollar to do a little work for sickly youngsters in the tenements.

In the same mail were two letters from the same address in Chicago, but they bore different initials, "H. B. W." and "F. B. W." Each contained $20 with the instructions to divide it between the ice fund and the Camp Algonquin fund.

Every summer there are many such contributors who prefer that their names be not mentioned. Every gift thus sent is gratefully received and the editor of the two funds takes this means of thanking these anonymous friends for their interest in the underprivileged.

Nearly a month remains of the Camp Algonquin season. The ice fund will be distributed as long as the weather remains warm. The probable deficit facing both funds is a continued cause of worry among those administering the funds, but it is hoped that more people who have sent their gifts for many years past, will remember the funds before it is too late this year. Yesterday's contributions are as follows:

Sally Issues Last Call for Party Letters

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Last call for letters, boys and girls, if you want to see that thrilling mystery picture, "Seventy Thousand Witnesses," at the Oriental theater with me on Sept. 1. It's an exciting film with thrilling shots of a big football game and a baffling mystery that takes several reels for its solution, and all sorts of things that go to make a good picture.

You will be sure to enjoy it if you win an invitation to the party we're planning to have at the Oriental and all you have to do to be included in that lucky group of one hundred boys and girls is write me a letter. It must be one, however, that will convince me you'd have a good time and that it's the sort of picture you like. You see, I want to have as my guests those of you who will have the best time. And all the letters must reach me by tomorrow morning so that I may read them and make the selections.

There will be a splendid stage show at the Oriental next week, too, which is really a whole party in itself. An orchestra, comedians, singers, and a lot of other features are being planned for the bill, and if you're ever seen one of these massive productions you know what to expect.

But you'd better concern yourself with that letter writing now if you haven't already done so. Remember, every boy and girl who likes a good time is eligible to compete for an invitation and it's well to bear in mind that your letter should include your age, your name and address written plainly and a lot of good reasons for wanting to attend the party.

Legion to Make Annual Trip to Orphans' Home

A concert, military activities and a baseball game have been arranged by Ralph Spafford, commanding officer of the home. Many of the posts will distribute toys and clothing to the children.

Eugenists Ask Special Clinics on Marriage

Defend Their Views at N. Y. Meeting.

New York, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—"Marriage clinics"—where engaged couples, newlyweds and the veterans may learn the secrets of married life—were advocated by eugenists attending the third international eugenics congress today.

At the same time the 200 delegates, headed by President Charles B. Davenport and Robert Cook, editor of the Journal of Heredity, denounced their detractors who have gibed: "Eugenics is good for cows but not for humans."

"The stock breeder's technique, intended to produce a uniform type, is not our ideal," Mr. Cook said. "An ideal of a uniform 'superman' is not at present either racially or socially desirable." He termed absurd the popular accusation that eugenics is "half-baked."

In urging new social agencies throughout the United States where married and engaged couples may be advised eugenically, Paul Popence, general director of the Los Angeles Institute of Family Relations, declared that sexual maladjustment, bad home making and failure to use leisure time constructively were found present in every unhappy marriage.

"At least in the educated part of the population a serious sexual maladjustment exists in 25 per cent or more of all marriages," Mr. Popence told the congress. "Some of these are solved by the persons affected; some are unsolved, but simply tolerated indefiniteley; others lead sooner or later to antagonisms and conflicts which break up the home.

"The sexual difficulties which underlie every family maladjustment either are due to distorted emotional attitudes toward sex, carried over from before marriage, or to mere ignorance of the differences between the sexes, physiologically and psychologically, which any boy or girl of fourteen should have learned in high school."

Mr. Popence scoffed at the theory that fear of child bearing on the part of women is a chief cause of family disharmony. He has found few such cases in Los Angeles county which possesses one-fourth of all the birth control clinics in the United States.

DEFENDS CLINICS

To charges that "birth control as now practiced is distinctly bad" made by speakers at the third international congress of eugenics, Dr. Rachelle S. Yarros, director of the new premarital and preparental clinic at 9 East Huron street, replied yesterday in an interview.

Prof. Henry Fairfield Osborn, one of the speakers at the congress, also said that the ablest and most intelligent persons practiced birth control and the least fit did not, and that "the female intelligentsia marrying have only one-third as many children as other classes."

"Those eugenics people," said Dr. Yarros, "believe that heredity is everything, whereas it's something we know little about and can do less about. You can't make people marry because they would produce offspring desirable to the state. If they love each other, they will marry. If they don't, the fact that their ancestors were upstanding, healthy persons won't affect the situation.

"Those speakers at the eugenics congress, according to THE TRIBUNE of yesterday, also seem to believe that only rich and intelligent women should have children. As if genius didn't spring economically inferior families as well as from the intelligentsia. And as if there weren't as much ordinary decency among the uneducated as the educated.

"The point they seem to miss is that a woman is not going to have children, or stop having them, for the sake of the state. It's up to the woman and her husband and no one else.

"They are absolutely wrong if they think birth control doesn't work among the uneducated. The Illinois Social Hygiene league has eight birth control clinics in the Chicago area and the larger part of 10,000 patients we've had since 1924 are among the poor, uneducated, and foreign born. It is just as successful as it is among the educated and wealthy.

"Aside from birth control there exists another situation among the highly civilized groups. As their degree of civilization and the number of generations of artificially civilized life advance, their productivity naturally falls off."

Sees Longer Youth by Eating Foods with Vitamin G

Denver, Aug. 23.—(AP)—A longer youth for the human race brought about by the food factor in vitamin G, fresh conquests in disease and a general advance in health of the world's population were forecast before the American Chemical society here today.

Prof. Henry C. Sherman of Columbia university, told the convention of recent discoveries in the science of nutrition.

"That vitamin G is needed to prevent the development of deficiency diseases like pellagra is only the beginning of the story," he said.

"More inspiring is the fact now established that, even when we start with an average normal condition, an enrichment of our diet tends to the enhancement of 'positive' or 'buoyant' health to the preservation of the characteristics of youth, and the prolongation of the prime of life."

Boy Friend Says That Vacation Changed Girl

Claims She No Longer Cares for Him.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The girl went on a vacation not far from her own home town and that of the boy friend. Before she left she said she would have the b. f. come up while she was there. Instead of the invitation he was waiting for, he received a "cold" letter with not even a p. s. wishing he were there.

They have been keeping steady company for nearly a year.

"I was very kind to her," the young man writes. "I took her to restaurants, to friends' homes and to shows. I was crazy about her and she knows it. But I'm all busted up over this vacation snub. What would you do when she comes back—give her the gate or what?—JACK."

Have a vacation heart, "Jack!" Let the girl have her fling, whatever she's up to. Maybe it's nothing. Maybe you camped on her trail too actively. Maybe she just wants a little free time to do some thinking!

Sure you didn't invite yourself up there? Sure you didn't make it difficult for her not to assent to having you come?

You see, girls are funny that way. If you dog their footsteps incessantly, they get rebellious. They may have nothing more against you than just that. You're too ready, too willing, too omnipresent.

When the girl gets back, let her worry about hearing from you. Wait until she shows some sign of wanting to see you. But don't go demanding explanations of why you weren't called upon for vacation-squiring. Let her tell what she wants to tell. If you're not too inquisitive you may find out in time why you weren't invited. If you're not too dictatorial you may find out you were missed.

Anyway, remember that a vacation is a good thing where there is doubt in the minds of one or the other, or both.

FAILURE TO SEND JURYMEN DELAYS NUDE PHOTO TRIAL

Judge Orders Special Panel to Report Today.

Failure of court officials to send sufficient veniremen to complete a jury caused another delay yesterday in the trial of Harvey Raymond Spencer, 31 years old, alleged specialist in obscene art, before Judge Justin F. McCarthy in the Jury court.

H. R. SPENCER.

Spencer is charged with contributing to the delinquency of a 16 year old girl, one of more than 100 girls who, it is said, he tried to induce to pose in the nude when they applied to him for jobs as models in his apartment at 5510 Harper avenue.

Attorneys Norman A. Beck and Charles H. Craig for the defense questioned 14 veniremen on Monday and accepted eight as jurors. This exhausted the panel. When court convened yesterday jury commissioners reported there were no veniremen on hand. It was then discovered that the Circuit and Superior courts had failed to send any new veniremen to the Jury court. The court then asked the defense attorneys if they would consent to go to trial with the eight jurors they had accepted. They refused.

Police Sergeant Protests.

"May I address the court?" spoke up Sergt. Michael P. Naughton, in charge of the Scotland Yards police detail. "I'm the police officer in this case, on which I've worked since July 23. I have 16 or more witnesses I'm having difficulty in holding. They have come to court four times on this case. I had to send after one of them in a squad car today.

"The first time this case was continued because the defendant demanded a jury trial and because his lawyer had not been paid. It was stipulated by Judge Thomas A. Green in the Morals court then that the case go to trial on Aug. 17. I was scheduled to go on my vacation today. I wish to state that I'll stay here six months if necessary to testify against Spencer, but that I can't be responsible for my witnesses if there are many more delays."

To Resume Trial Today.

"It is the intention of the court to proceed," said Judge McCarthy. "Let a special venire of 30 men be summoned to appear in court at 11 a. m. Wednesday."

Constance Selbach, who posed as Spencer's secretary in the nude photography racket, will go to trial on a statutory charge when Spencer's case is disposed of. Police say she lived with him in the Harper avenue address. He is married.

ALFONSO'S PET GENERAL ON TRIAL FOR LIFE TODAY

Ask Firing Squad for Spanish Rebel.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Aug. 23.—Gen. José Sanjurjo, that flamboyant Spanish warrior of former King Alfonso's school of political generals who rose against the republic ten days ago and occupied Seville for eighteen hours until the populace discovered what he was up to, will go on trial for his life tomorrow.

The prosecutor for the republic is demanding a firing squad for the general who, coddled by the monarchy and republic alike, chose to rise "publicly and in open hostility against the legitimate government of the republic," and it is difficult to see tonight how the military section of the Supreme court can avoid responding to it.

Trial to Start Early.

The trial will begin at 8 o'clock before the heat sets in and will continue until a verdict is reached. Then it will be up to Premier Manuel Azana and his ministers to decide whether they want to give the Spanish republic its first official baptism of blood by breaking the old custom that generals are never shot.

Breaking a triumphal tour of the Basque country, President Alcala Zamora hurried back to Madrid today to be here in case there is trouble, or he is called upon to sign a commutation of sentence should the government decide that by sparing Gen. Sanjurjo they will not arouse the popular wrath to a new pitch where anything could happen.

The rebellion has not been forgotten. When the "black Maria" left an overcrowded military prison in Madrid this morning to transfer a dozen officers implicated in the movement to another prison, a furious crowd broke the police lines and were on the point of massacring the prisoners when police reinforcements arrived.

Son Also Goes on Trial.

Gen. Sanjurjo will be tried with his son, Capt. Justi Sanjurjo, and two other officers who were closest to him in Seville.

This is the first time in Spanish history that military men will be tried by civilians. One of the judges appointed to sit in judgment on the Sanjurjos is the father of a girl young Sanjurjo was to have married. The judge requested to be relieved.

Spain is in a fever. The monarchists, whose only crime is that they are monarchists, are being arrested hourly. Because of a lack of facilities they are being crowded into sweltering cells to wait for days before they are even questioned.

A monarchist dog fancier was thrown in jail because he gave his pets names of the ministers of the republic. Women clad in red and yellow, old monarchist colors, are fined.

Third Victim Identifies Prisoner as a Rapist

A third victim identified William Molden, 24 years old, colored, yesterday as the rapist who has frightened Hyde Park residents in the last few weeks. Jennie Webb, 12 years old, 5346 Maryland avenue, identified Molden as the man who broke into her bedroom one night two weeks ago and attacked her. A 9 year old girl and a woman also have identified Molden as the man who broke into their homes and attempted to attack them. Molden is held in a south side police station.

48 HOUR BATTLE IN BRAZIL; MANY REPORTED SLAIN

Government Claims Rebel Stronghold Is Taken.

[Copyright, 1932, By the New York Times.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 23.—A battle between federal troops and rebels of the state of Sao Paulo, which is said to have been the biggest in Brazilian history, ended yesterday on the southern front, a government communique said today. Preparations for the battle began days ago, but the federals were awaiting reinforcements before launching an offensive, the communique said.

The battle began two miles beyond Bury City, Sao Paulo, and soon extended on a front seven miles long. The battle was fought, the communique said, following the technique of modern warfare helped by modern war implements. It began with land and air bombardments against the Paulistans, who held vantage points in the hills and forests, well protected by modern trenches, wire entanglements, ample artillery and airplanes.

Battle Lasts 48 Hours.

The engagement is said to have lasted forty-eight hours before the federals dislodged the Paulistans from their positions. The federal infantry advanced slowly on account of the heavy terrain and artificial difficulties. The infantry advance was followed by a cavalry charge after the Paulistans had been dislodged from the hills.

The government says the victory advanced the federal lines nine miles, taking the Carmillo station of the Sorocaba railway. The federals are now 24 miles from Itapetininga and 108 miles from Sao Paulo city. The federal troops, the government says, were personally commanded by Gen. Waldemiro Lima, while the Paulistans were commanded by Col. Klingerhofer.

The government estimates that 10,000 troops were engaged around Bury City and says the casualties were heavy.

Son of Ex-President Captured.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Federal forces operating against the rebels of Sao Paulo reported today that among the prisoners taken yesterday was a son of former President Washington Luis. This city, disturbed yesterday by a bomb explosion, was quiet and orderly today.

De La Torre Guaranteed Rights.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Aug. 23.—(AP)—The Peruvian government informed the Argentine chamber of deputies today that Haya De La Torre, leader of Peru's Aprista party, will have every legal protection during his trial for political offenses. The Argentine chamber, acknowledging rumors that De La Torre had been executed or was in danger of execution, had asked the Peruvian authorities to spare his life and grant his liberty.

Petersburg Boy Adjudged Nearest Perfect at Fair

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Dean Edson Augapurger, 4 years old, of Petersburg, Ill., today was adjudged the most nearly perfect child at the second day's competition in the State Fair Better Babies conference. He had a rating of 99.9. Second was Jean Mildred Loetterle, 3 years old, of Decatur, with 99.7.

Swept by Cholera

Chinese Sprinkle Lime to Check Disease.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Cholera is more virulent throughout China this summer than at any time in recent years, and numerous foreigners, living where sanitary conditions are good and clean food is obtainable, have been stricken.

The disease continues unabated throughout the Yangtze valley provinces despite cooling weather, which usually quickly puts an end to it.

Hundreds are dying daily in Hoan, Anhwei, Hupeh, and Shensi, the provinces which are hardest hit. The disease is sweeping towns, villages, and the countryside alike.

Cover Streets with Lime.

In Sian, in Shensi province, a city of 1,000,000 inhabitants, which Marco Polo visited centuries ago, an average of 100 persons die each day. The city's streets are blanketed with powdered lime which has been spread about in an effort to check the disease.

The cholera has made great inroads in Manchuria, following floods which have caused heavy casualties.

The exact number of deaths never will be known, as no facilities exist in China for gathering statistics. Only the larger towns are capable of reporting what is going on within their limits, and they are only vaguely aware of the extent of the scourge about them.

Travelers and mission workers have brought in sufficient information to reveal that a terrible epidemic is going on. A pitiful and typical picture of conditions in rural sections of the country comes from Shaoking, in Chekiang, about 100 miles south of Shanghai.

Boys Bathe in Filth.

"The city is in pitiful condition," a missionary visiting Shaoking writes. "Six weeks of drought dried up many canals and the water remaining in the others is filthy, stagnant and unfit for use, but the people still wash their rice in it and boys seek relief from the heat by bathing frequently in this unwholesome fluid.

"It is no wonder that cholera is taking a heavy toll. It is impossible to investigate this disease, but what is happening within these densely crowded streets and lanes would make a sorry tale.

"Emergency hospitals have been opened, but a high percentage of the cases there end fatally because these ignorant people resort to this measure only as a last recourse and are beyond hope when rushed to a doctor whose skill could have saved them had they come earlier.

LEHMAN'S RECORD 137 WINS WESTERN GOLF MEDAL

OLYMPIA FIELDS STAR CARDS 66 ON SECOND 18

Martin Is Runnerup with 140.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Scores on page 19.]

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 23.—Olympia Fields' Johnny Lehman came marching home with the qualifying medal today in the 33d annual amateur tournament of the Western Golf association at the Rockford Country club. Johnny, who won the western title in 1930 and the Big Ten crown in 1928 as captain of the Purdue team, made his move on the double quick, for he came home with a card of 71-66—137, breaking the old record of 139 for the tournament, set by Dexter Cummings of Onwentsia at Detroit in 1925. He struck par 71 yesterday and then broke the local course up into very small pieces today with that startling 66.

Right in step with Lehman was Dick Martin of Sunset Valley, the new Chicago district champion, another former Big Ten captain and title holder, having held those honors at Illinois. The bespectacled blonde really set the pace for Lehman today by shooting a 68, which, added to his 72 of yesterday, gave him a 140 qualifying score.

Answer Northwest's Boast.

Martin was in with his card before Lehman had reached the ninth hole. Between them they answered the boast of the Pacific northwest that the Western Amateur has become the property of that section.

Lehman and Martin were the leaders of a record field of 188 who started play in the tournament yesterday. They lead the 31 qualifiers who will join Don Moe of Portland, Ore., the defending champion, who was exempt from the trial rounds, in the opening of the match play bracket tomorrow, which will consist of two 18 hole rounds. The third round Thursday, the semi-finals Friday and the final on Saturday all will be over the 36 hole distance.

The qualifying score today was 151, with nine 152 scorers going into an extra inning playoff for the last two places in the championship bracket. The sixteen low scorers following the championship elect were rerouted into a first flight bracket.

Sjostrom, Holm Win Play-Off.

The winners of the play-off, which was transacted in semi-darkness, were Bengt Sjostrom and A. J. Holm, both from Rockford. The nine who started in the extra play were Holm, Sjostrom, Tom Schacht of Moline, Art Sweet of Ridgemoor, Russell Martin and Jimmy Garard of Flossmoor, C. M. Fish Jr. of Rockford, Jim Woods Jr. of Lincoln Park, and Ralph Harmon of Des Moines.

Martin, Sweet and Garard were eliminated with sixes on the first hole, while Sjostrom took one of the two places with a birdie four. The others accomplished the second in par four, but Holm and Woods were the only survivors after the third, on which Schacht, Harmon, and Fish took fives, one over par. Holm lost a chance to win on the fourth when he missed a three foot putt for a birdie three. He won it on the fifth with a par three, when Woods, who had been in trouble all the way, missed an eight foot putt for a half by inches.

The cards for Lehman and Martin follow:

ATHLETICS' FIVE HOME RUNS SINK WHITE SOX, 15-7

Cochrane Leads Attack on Three Pitchers.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelpria, Pa., Aug. 23.—The members of the White Sox baseball school went on a sight seeing expedition today, with the champion Athletics in the rôle of tour conductors. What the Chicagoans saw included five home runs, two doubles, and seven singles, not to mention eleven bases on balls appropriated by their hosts. With things going on in such fashion the Pale Hose naturally ended their season's performance here with the eighth defeat in eleven battles staged. The score was 15 to 7.

The Sox will move over to Boston tomorrow morning for a four day visit, their last of the season with the improved Red Sox. Ted Lyons will be Manager Fonseca's pitching choice, while Boston is expected to start Bob Kline, the fat boy.

Mickey Thrills the Folks.

In the matter of shaping homers for the edification of the assembled 3,000, Mickey Cochrane was the pace setter. He got one with the bases empty while Chamberlain was southpawing in the third. He did the same against the same left hander with two on in the fifth, thereby bringing Lester Bartholomew, another southpaw, into action.

The Athletics began blasting in the second in appropriate fashion. McNair hit the front of the upper left field deck with his homer. A moment later Miller banged a home run to the same sector. Dykes walked, Mahaffey sacrificed and Dykes slid into third ahead of Gaston's throw on Bishop's roller in front of the plate. Dykes came home when Haas crashed a single to left. Cochrane sent a single to right, Bishop scoring and Gaston vanishing.

Chamberlain tossed one ball to Simmons and the Milwaukee notable sent it right up onto the roof of the left field pavilion, Haas and Cochrane preceding him across the plate. Before young Chamberlain could regain his balance he handed a pass to Foxx, which probably was a wise thing, even though not intentional. McNair's second smash was a double which put Foxx on third and he dashed over the plate on Miller's fly to Funk.

Sox Get Pair in Fourth.

The Sox weren't able to come up with a hit off Leroy Mahaffey in the first two innings, but in the third produced a pair of them behind a pass and a run resulted. The pass went to Chamberlain after two were out. Funk singled to right and Hayes aimed a hit to left, Chamberlain scoring. Then, in the home third after two were out, Cochrane broke into the party again with his first homer over the right field wall.

In the fourth the Sox sent two runs across the plate. Sullivan started it by coaxing a pass from Mahaffey. Appling whacked a single over short. Selph doubled along the right field line, Sullivan scoring and Appling halting at third. Appling scored while Kress was being thrown out.

Chamberlain had no trouble in the fourth, but Cochrane's second home run scored three in the fifth.

Foxx Helps Out Sox.

Foxx did the Sox a good turn in the eighth by letting them have two runs instead of one. After Seeds had fanned, Sullivan got a single because Simmons and McNair couldn't decide which of them should grab a popup. Appling lined a double over first, putting Sullivan on third. Selph bounced to Dykes, who threw to first, but Foxx let the ball get away and did'nt recover it until both runners had scored.

After two and one-third innings of hitless pitching, Bartholomew saw his string snap when McNair led off in the home eighth with a single. Miller punched a double past Hayes on a hit and run play, McNair stopping at third. Dykes fouled out, but Mahaffey's pop fell in short center for a single, McNair scoring. Two men walked, forcing McNair to score. Cochrane rolled to Hayes, but he threw wild to Appling, scoring Mahaffey.

As a consolation prize the Sox picked up two runs in the ninth on singles by Hayes, Seeds, and Sullivan.

Glad to Leave

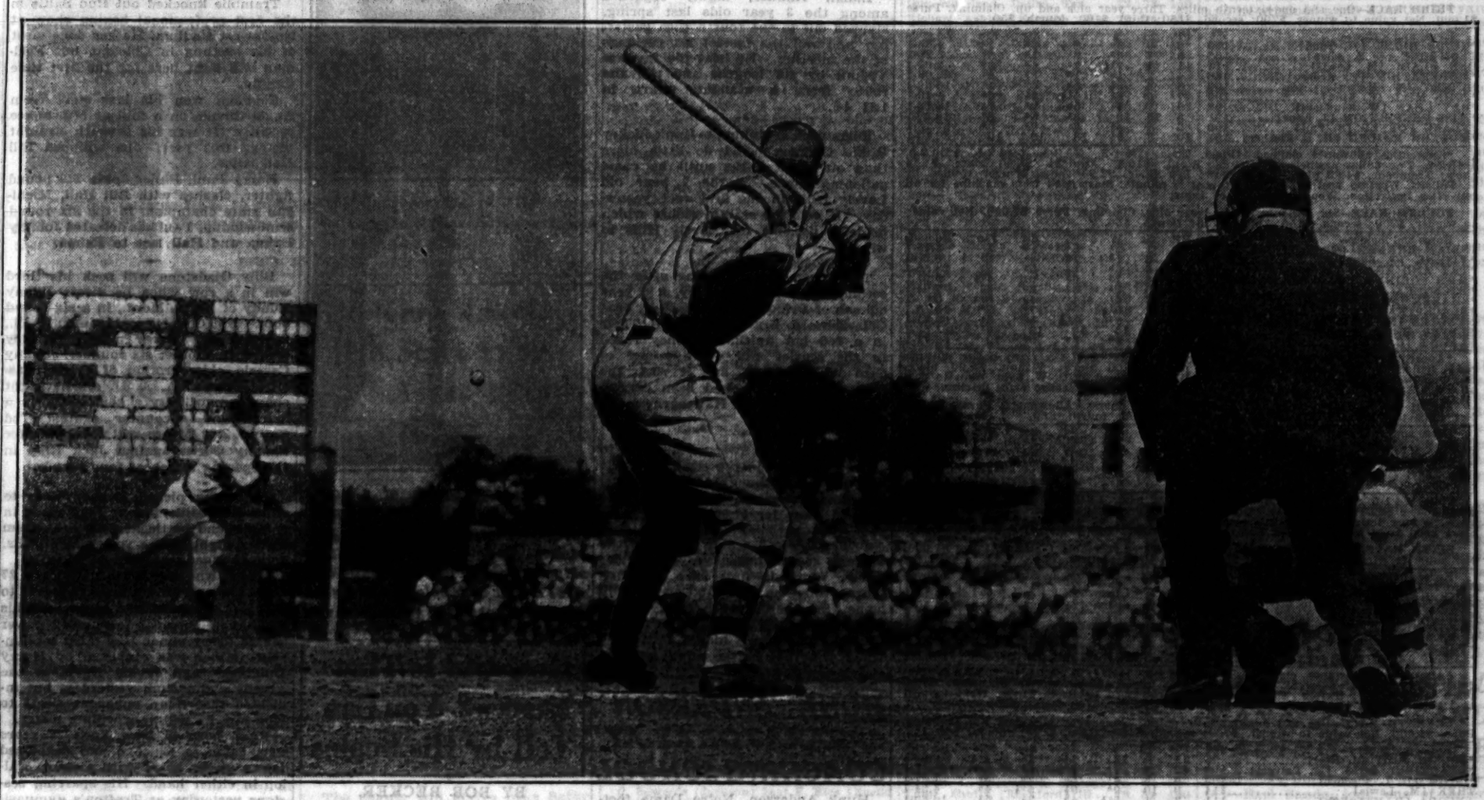
SEE THE BALL? THAT'S MORE THAN SLUGGING PHILLIES COULD DO



Pat Malone sails a strike toward the plate in the first inning. G. Davis, Philly outfielder, waits confidently, but missed the ball a fraction of a second later to become the first of eight strikeout victims. Hartnett is catching and Barr is the umpire. In addition to yielding only six hits, Pat scored the Cubs' first run and drove in two others with a double in yesterday's 5 to 1 success.

How About a Ball Club or a College for Ad Campaign?

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 23.—This would be a good time for a number of enterprising advertisers in the national field to pick up major league baseball franchises and even fairly good minor league football colleges for advertising purposes. The first cost would be comparatively light and the advertising value of the properties thereafter would depend largely upon the success of the teams whose members would act as glorified sandwich men for the commodities concerned.

The idea is not new, having been exploited in a small way by many local politicians in various cities for many years. The politician sets apart a certain portion of his graft to establish a social club in his district, and purchases a set of uniforms and a few dozen balls and gloves. His name is embroidered on the blouses of the baseball suits, and if the team is any good, publicity naturally ensues and the statesman acquires a reputation as a friend of youth and a lover of clean, manly sport.

Certain to Make Team Good.

If the ball team is not any good it can be made good by hiring enough ringers to enable it to win ball games for the glory of the fine old sportsman and philanthropist who has subsidized it out of the money which he has stolen from the citizens through his contracts for the construction of schoolhouses, roads to nowhere in particular, courthouses, and the like.

The sporting disguise of the Alderman Edward (Square Eddie) Which's Colts serves to preclude suspicion as to the character of the rendezvous, and sport is made to cover a multitude of felonious practices and perpetuate the generous patron in office.

Certain proud universities have been similarly exploited, although not so intensively, through their football teams and coaches in the last few years by literary junk dealers who conduct rackets known as newspaper syndicates, and by manufacturers who select the most successful teams and their coaches upon whom to hang their advertising matter at very little cost.

Almost a Trained Seal.

One of the most successful football teams came to be so tightly bound to one of the leading literary junk dealers that whenever the coach went traveling the football reporters wherever he stopped were formally invited to interview him, not as the representative of the great university in question, but as the trained seal of the syndicate. The syndicate was known to the profession, incidentally, as the haunted house, an allusion to the large number of ghosts who were retained to write essays in the names of the world series heroes, ragpole sitters, jockeys, and the like who were members of the literary lineup.

Ghosting is a specialized profession. The good ghost is one who can write dumb, simple subjects in dumb, simple language most nearly resembling the topics and the language which the principal would be likely to use if he could write at all.

University Reclaimed in Time.

I believe that in this particular case the university was reclaimed from the syndicate just in time to prevent the changing of its name to that of the syndicate proprietor. He went too

Charley Grimm will continue as manager of the Chicago Cubs next season. The first baseman, who piloted the Cubs from second place in the National league to the top with a 3½ game margin in three weeks, signed a contract for 1933 yesterday. President William Veeck did not disclose the amount Grimm will receive, but said the contract included a substantial boost in salary.

The Cubs, under the leadership of Grimm, who was appointed manager when Rogers Hornsby was dismissed on Aug. 2, have won 16 out of 21 games.

This record was lauded by President Veeck. The consistent and sensational playing of the club since Grimm was appointed manager has shown that they are the best "fighters in the National league," he said.

"We are well satisfied with the way Grimm has handled the team. The club has played consistent baseball and we believe Grimm should be retained as manager for the 1933 season," Veeck added.

If Mr. Veeck had waited till tomorrow the appointment could have gone as a birthday present. Charley was born Aug. 25, 1899.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

THE fellow who originated the expression "figures don't lie" obviously had not seen the National league batting averages for 1932.

Philadelphia	.299	St. Louis	.275
Pittsburgh	.284	Chicago	.273
Brooklyn	.283	Cincinnati	.266
New York	.276	Boston	.259

Here you find the Cubs, league leaders, in sixth place. Of course, batting alone does not decide championships, but few deny it is the most important factor.

How then have the Cubs, who according to "figures that don't lie" are a weak hitting team, maintained their position as front runners?

We have just completed a survey of hitting records for all games the Cubs have played this season up to last Monday. It disclosed that while the Cubs rank sixth in team batting, only two clubs actually have outhit them. Some of the teams wield heavy sticks against other clubs but fail to keep up that pace against Chicago.

Let's take the teams as they stood in last Sunday's team batting average. Philadelphia led the league with an average of .299. The Cubs up to last Monday had been at bat 622 times against the Phillies and had made 206 hits for an average of .331. The Phillies had made 188 hits in 621 times at bat against the Cubs, giving them a mark of .303.

There you have the Cubs with a higher batting average than the league leaders.

The Cubs have sent 664 batters to the plate in their games this season with the Pirates and 195 hit safely for an average of .293. The best Pittsburgh could do against the Cub pitching was 175 hits in 641 times at bat for an average of .273.

So we now have the Cubs outhitting both the first and second place leaders.

Then we encounter trouble in attempting to prove figures lie. The third place team is Brooklyn with an average of .283. The Dodgers have a season mark of .258 against the Cubs, while the north siders have been hitting at .246 against Max Carey's pitchers. Maybe the current series will straighten out this matter.

The next club in team batting is New York whose average is .276. The Giants have been unable to reach that level against the Cubs, their season record being .258. Meanwhile the Cubs have been clouting the Giants for .270.

Thus three of the first four clubs in team batting have been outhit by the Cubs. The only team besides Brooklyn that has shown greater strength at the plate in games with the Cubs is Cincinnati. The Reds have an average of .363 as compared to the Cubs' .245.

	Ab.	H.	Av.		Ab.	H.	Av.
Chgo.	636	164	.260	vs. Boston	655	152	.232
Chgo.	562	138	.246	vs. Bklyn.	551	143	.258
Chgo.	437	118	.270	vs. N. Y.	446	115	.258
Chgo.	599	147	.245	vs. Cincin.	608	160	.263
Chgo.	585	150	.256	vs. St. L'is	606	154	.256
Chgo.	664	195	.293	vs. Pittsb'h.	641	175	.273
Chgo.	622	206	.331	vs. Phila.	621	188	.303

These figures prove only one thing—the Cubs have the best pitching staff in the league. If you didn't know it before, you must believe it now, because figures don't lie—sometimes.

C. Boberg, 3030 N. Lowell avenue, writes in to inquire why somebody hasn't had the initiative to suggest a "Riggs Stephenson" day at Wrigley field in honor of one of baseball's greatest outfielders. His letter in part:

"Isn't it about time that somebody recognized the fact that Riggs Stephenson is the most valuable offensive player on the Cubs' team? He also is about the most valuable on defense. Hasn't he led the club in batting every year except 1929 when Hornsby was a regular?

"To get down to brass tacks, why not a day for Stevie. Where are our red blooded sports who help promote big days in players' honor?

"The boy is getting old, but he still can knock that old apple down the foul line for doubles. Who is the most dangerous Cub batter in a pinch? Who is the most unassuming player on the squad? What does a fellow have to do to earn the honors Stephenson should have received?"

We'll bite, what does a fellow have to do?

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Pat Malone yesterday lived up to his habit of alternating his good games with his bad ones by coming up with a handsome six hit performance to win the Cubs' final game with the Phillies, 5 to 1, and sweep the four game series. The slugging visitors' lone run was a homer by Hal Lee with two out in the seventh.

A shutout was not the only thing that Mr. Lee spoiled, for his grounder with one out in the ninth deprived the Cubs of the pleasure of setting a world record for paucity of assists. Until Koenig threw out Lee on that ninth inning grounder not a Cub fielder had made an assist. As it was, the single assist established a new National league record and tied the American league mark, twice set in Chicago-Boston games, once by the White Sox in 1917 and again by the Red Sox in 1924.

Celebrate Grimm's Signing.

Yesterday's triumph, which was hailed as a celebration of Charley Grimm's formal appointment as manager for 1933, put the Cubs 3½ games ahead of the second place Brooklyn Dodgers, who will open a most important three game series here this afternoon. The league leaders remained 4½ games ahead of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and the saddened Phillies left town nine games out of first place—a shocking drop from the five game margin which separated them from first place when they arrived in this wonderful metropolis last Saturday morning.

No matter what happens in the series opening today, the aspiring Dodgers will be obliged to leave town in second place Friday night. Even if they sweep the series, which is quite unthinkable, what with Root pitching today, Bush tomorrow, and Warneke Friday, the Dodgers will go away from here a half game in second place. The Cubs, however, have a notion that they may depart 6½ games out of the lead, whereupon the carpenters will be called to Wrigley field to figure on the world series stands over Sheffield and Waveland avenues.

Stop Klein Again.

The series just closed seemed to be a further exemplification of the slogan carrying the thought that "If you stop Klein you stop the Phillies." The last time Chuck was here he made one hit in the entire series, which was swept by the Cubs. He made three hits in the series which ended yesterday, one in the first inning of each game, except Monday's, in which Tinning held him helpless.

The game yesterday was kept so well in hand by Malone that it was devoid of thrills. As reflected by the almost complete absence of assists, Pat had most of the boys popping the ball into the air. Their hitting record

BY FRENCH LANE.

There were alarming reports yesterday at Hewthorne about Equipoise and his chances of starting in the $25,000 Hawthorne Gold cup on Saturday.

He was reported to be running a fever of 104 at Saratoga on Monday. The old champion has cracked—has surrendered to the most trying training ordeal any horse ever attempted—if the reports from Saratoga are true.

There is just one possibility that Equipoise will be here for the Gold cup. According to the eastern advices he will be taken out on the track at Saratoga this morning. If the fever was just the result of a bilious attack or a summer complaint and has subsided, Equipoise will board a palatial express car late this afternoon and start for Hawthorne.

It's Been Tough Grind.

If he arrives in good condition, he will go after the Gold cup, probably sad and crying like Alexander the Great because there will be no more worlds for him to conquer if he beats Faireno, Mate, Gusto, Plucky Play, My Dandy, St. Brideaux, Valenciennes, Evergold and the others who will oppose him.

Equipoise has been in steady training since last March and he wasn't considered a sound horse when he started. Yet he has gone along, winning 10 races in 11 starts, and beating every good horse in the country. Under the circumstances it wouldn't surprise if something snapped and he would have to be put on the shelf, for a time at least.

Hawthorne officials last night were hopeful that Equipoise will be here. The house, as far as reserved seats are concerned, has been sold out for some time. Lots of folks are planning to visit Hawthorne just to see Equipoise run.

Mate Will Be Here.

Yet if he stays away from the Gold Cup, it may make the event a more interesting and a much better wagering contest. With Equipoise missing every horse in the country that has shown a half way good race this year will try for the rich prize. Faireno will be the favorite in this case.

The rich Bostwicks, who own Mate, think this colt, which won an American Derby and the Arlington Classic last year, will find his racing legs Saturday and win the Gold Cup. He was second to Sun Beau last year and encountered a lot of bad luck.

Jockey Earl Steffen, the contract rider for the Mrs. John Hertz stable, was engaged yesterday to ride Mate. Tommy Malley is coming from New York to ride Faireno and if Gusto makes the trip, S. Coucci will be here to pilot him.

Clockers made reports yesterday of a sensational workout by Plucky Play. He is said to have covered over a mile under much weight in near track record time. Jockey George Woolf will ride Plucky Play. He was up on the far western colt when Plucky Play beat Equipoise in the Arlington handicap. That was the only defeat Equipoise has suffered this season.

Faireno Second Choice.

Faireno arrived at Hawthorne yesterday and immediately Gold cup talk took up nearly all the interest of the crowd of 12,000 at the old Cicero track.

All speculation centered around the prospect of Equipoise getting to the post. If he runs he's going to be an odds on favorite. If he doesn't run, it will be a wild scramble. Faireno might win with 117 pounds up. He won the Hawthorne handicap worth $25,000 with 110 pounds in the saddle.

He's a front runner, but there will be lots of early speed in the race if Equipoise doesn't start. A field of a dozen may go to the post if Equipoise is missing. If he gets here, not more than a half dozen may seek the cup.

Little America Scores Again at Hawthorne

Little America is just about the most consistent sprinter in America. She won the Maple Crest purse at Hawthorne yesterday without much trouble. It was her fifth victory in her last six Chicago starts.

Willie Travers, an old time jockey, trains Little America for Mrs V. M. Duncan. Down in Florida last winter the trainer and owner stood to win $19,000 off fairly small bets on Little America. She won the race and then was disqualified. It has taken most of those five wins in six starts to put them back in a good humor.

Indian Runner, highly regarded among the 3 year olds last spring, stepped out in the fourth race yesterday and ran the fastest six furlongs of the meeting. He beat the favorite Vishnu by six lengths and ran the route from a standing start in 1:11 4-5.

Folks were beginning to think Jockey Willie Chidgey could do little more than sit on a horse until he came galloping home on the 2 year old Lovely Hills in the first race yesterday. It was his skillful riding which made it possible for Lovely Hills to win.

There was great cheering after the second race, when Cheaney, a 3 year old son of Prince Pal-Apple Dear, beat Col. Edward Bradley's Bengal Tiger in a red hot finish. Chesney raced in the scarlet and white jacket of Otto W. Lehmann, and it was the first time his silks had been carried to victory during the Hawthorne meeting.

Easy, a son of Sweep On, raced to an easy victory in the sixth race. It was too easy, thought Lieut. Whitehill, a far western turfman, so he claimed Easy for $1,500.

Jockey J. Neel, a star earlier in the Chicago season but a very bad rider lately, won his first race at Hawthorne when he brought Cousin Judy home in the seventh race. Chum might have been the best, but Jockey H. L. Fischer gave him a weak ride when the real battle came off midway down the stretch.

PIRATES DEFEAT GIANTS, 4-3, ON SUHR'S DOUBLE

3d Inning Hit with Bases Full Brings Victory.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Gus Suhr's lusty hitting and Larry French's tight pitching in the pinches combined to give the pirates a decision over the Giants today, 4 to 3.

Suhr supplied the winning punch in the third inning, a double off the right field wall that scored three runners and drove Carl Hubbell from the mound. Three succeeding Giant pitchers yielded only four hits, but French was able to protect his lead. Score:

Why Not Ball Club, College for Ad Drive?

far one evening when he showed up at the alumni banquet and attempted to take full charge of the proceedings at the speakers' table, but, anyway, he will never be locked up for not trying. His worst trouble was that he was not even an alumnus.

Another cheap and fairly effective means of advertising through sports is to offer a cup for the national football championship, the same to be played for perpetually, which obviates the necessity of having to offer another cup some time in the future. Cups are not at all expensive by comparison with the advertising value which they possess, and for further expense there is only the temporary hire of a genial press agent to inform the public and the colleges that there is such a cup.

Those Gold Trophies.

Sir Thomas Lipton, who won many cups, once decided to boil down a gold cup which he had received from the kaiser for winning a yacht race and donate the gold to the British Red Cross. But he discovered on sawing the cup in half for boiling that it was made of a low grade of lead and only coated with gilt like a courthouse dome.

That being the case, perhaps it would be just as well if nobody ever nicked the skin of any of the famous horse race trophies which are presented so ceremoniously by governors or other politicians to the winning owners at the conclusion of various celebrated races. Some owners do not take the trouble to appear in the official stands to receive these trophies, with appropriate remarks, but send their family coachmen, butlers, or valets to represent them. Possibly this is due not so much to the pressure of more important business elsewhere as to a suspicion of the true assay value of the trophies.

Changing Name No Precedent.

It would not establish a precedent to change the name of a college with a good football team to that of some commercial commodity. The name of Duke university was adopted in compliance with the terms of an endowment from a manufacturer of cigaret tobacco, but an unfortunate situation arose there. It would hardly do to nickname a successful football team the cigaret fiends, although C. C. Pyle, when he was exploiting Red Grange, was not embarrassed by any such qualms. Mr. Pyle sold Red Grange's indorsement of a brand of cigarets for $1,000 on the same day that Red was telling the New York reporters that he had never smoked a cigaret in his life.

This faux pas on the part of his young man ruffled Mr. Pyle for a moment, but he reached for his pen and wrote out, on behalf of Red Grange, "I think your cigarets are excellent. I have never smoked any other brand."

A small college in need of funds could make good terms with a manufacturer with a million dollar advertising appropriation. The players could wear sandwich boards advertising the product on the shirt fronts and backs, and billboard space might even be found on their pants legs. Of course, there would have to be a winning team but talent was never as cheap as it is this year.

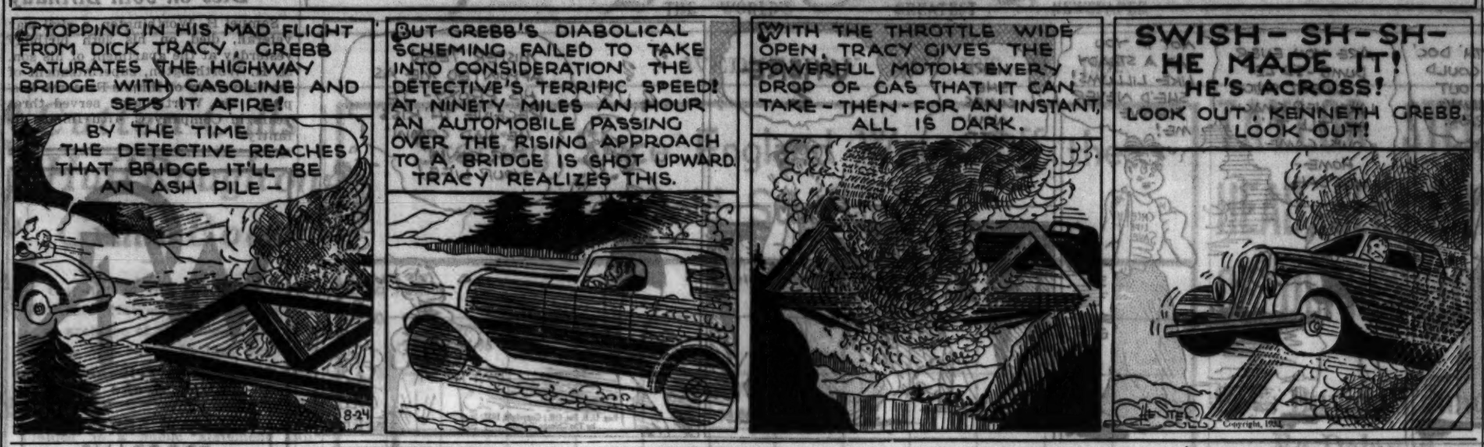
DICK TRACY—Through Flame



Senators Beat Indians, 5-4, in 13 Innings

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—(AP)—The Washington Senators pounded three Cleveland pitchers for 14 hits today, but were forced to go 13 innings to win, 5 to 4.

A single by Rice scored Manush for the winning run with only one out. The victory gave Washington three out of the five game series and 10 out of the 19 games played between the two teams this season.

Crowder started for the Senators, but gave way to Bill McAfee in the ninth when Cleveland tied the score. McAfee, a former Boston Brave, got credit for his second victory in as many starts for the Senators.

YANKS BEAT BROWNS, 8-7.

New York, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Tony Lazzeri and Lou Gehrig took the cause of the Yankees in hand today and hammered out an 8 to 7 victory over the St. Louis Browns.

Gehrig hit his 27th home run of the season with Babe Ruth on first in the fifth to put the Yanks back in the ball game and tie the score after George Pipgras had yielded the Browns a pair of runs in the first and two more in the fifth.

In the seventh, after the Browns had driven Pipgras to cover and were leading, 7 to 4, Lazzeri tripled with two out to score Babe Ruth and Earle Combs. Then in the ninth he hit another triple to center with one out to drive home the last two runs the Yanks needed to win. Score:

KING FOR ANOTHER YEAR

Charley Grimm signs to manage the Cubs for the 1933 season as President William Veeck looks on. At the same time both reiterated that the Cubs are certain to win the pennant this year. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Malone Hurls Cubs to Sweep of Phil Series

up till the seventh inning was two singles, one by Klein with two out in the first inning and the other by V. Davis with two out in the second inning. Lee's homer in the seventh was hit No. 3 for the Phils and immediately was followed by V. Davis' first double.

Malone drove in the Cubs' third and fourth runs with a double and this, combined with the fact he had scored the Cubs' first run in the third, caused him to snatch a little rest in the last two innings, in which the Phils drew two walks and added a couple of hits to their total. One of the hits, at that, was a spurious affair, due to the confusion of those picturesque umpiring lads, Moran, Donnelly and Barr.

The Cubs scored one in the third on three Philly errors and a single by Cuyler; picked up another in the sixth on a walk to Jurges and Moore's double; added two in the seventh on singles by Grimm and Koenig and Malone's double and finished up the day's production in the eighth on Cuyler's double, an error by G. Davis and a fly by Stephenson.

Three Errors Lead to Run.

It took three errors and a single to get the Cubs' first run home. Koenig grounded to Hurst to start the third inning and was safe when Holley dropped Don's throw. Malone also grounded to Hurst, who threw to Bartell to force Koenig, but dropped Bartell's return. Herman's easy grounder got through Hurst and he was so provoked that he threw his glove high into the air. Malone stopped at second while the self criticism tableau was being staged. Jurges fouled to Hurst, but Cuyler singled to center, Malone scoring and Herman taking third. Stephenson filed to Lee.

Jurges drew Holley's first pass to start the sixth, and advanced to second on Cuyler's sacrifice. Whitney made a neat play to throw out Stephenson, Jurges taking third. Moore then lined a drive to right, scoring Jurges, but was out trying to make third on the hit.

Lee Hits One Out of Park.

Lee's homer came in the seventh after Hurst had filed to Herman and Whitney had fanned. The drive hit the top of the left field wall and bounded against an apartment building across Waveland avenue. V. Davis followed with the fourth hit off Malone, a double to right, but Delker fanned.

Malone personally saw to it that his lead was made more comfortable in the seventh. Grimm opened with his second hit, a single to center after which Hartnett was called out on strikes. Koenig singled to center, putting Grimm on third. Malone then doubled to left center, scoring Grimm and Koenig.

Cuyler doubled to start the eighth and went on to third when G. Davis threw the ball away. He scored on Stephenson's fly to Lee.

Two Players Get One Double.

The Philly ninth developed an unusual play. After Whitney had popped to Koenig and Mark had thrown out Lee to spoil that world assist record, V. Davis hit a ball past third that apparently was foul, so much so that V. Davis didn't run until the umpires had shouted it was fair. The ball went to the Cubs' bullpen and was returned, an incident that the confused umpires did not notice until a belated protest by the Phils.

Brickell went to first to run for Davis and eventually was waved to second after the umpires had interviewed witnesses as to what had happened. So, in effect, V. Davis and Brickell jointly accomplished one double. McCurdy, batting for Delker, walked. Then Todd, batting for Collins, fanned to end the contest.

Dodgers Likely to Start Vance Against Cubs

Dazzy Vance is expected to be the Dodgers' choice to furnish the pitching opposition to Charley Root in the Brooklyn opener against the Cubs this afternoon.

Malone had his fire ball working yesterday. He fanned G. Davis, the first man up, and he fanned Todd to end the game. Eight Phils fanned during the contest.

	AB.	R.	H.	2B.	3B.	HR.	RBI.
First series	17	5	6	0	1	3	7
Second series	12	0	1	0	0	0	0
Third series	14	2	3	1	0	0	0

Some fadeout after a good start.

The Giants will arrive next Saturday and will plunge into a double header that afternoon. Many folks will attend, the advance sale indicates.

Charley Grimm wasn't surprised to get his 1933 managerial contract, but just the same he celebrated by knocking three singles, one to each outfield.

The National league record for few assists before yesterday was 2, set by Pittsburgh in 1908, and tied several times since then.

Capt. Woody English will be back at third this afternoon. Mark Koenig will continue at short and Jurges will rest, according to the announcement of Manager Grimm.

White Sox Battle Improved Red Sox at Boston Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 23.—The White Sox got out their passports tonight so that there would be no trouble crossing the border into effete Boston in the morning for their final series of the season in the home of the Red Sox.

A pass to Haas and Cochrane's single, which bounced off Sullivan's glove, put two Macks on base with one out in the first inning. Grube then picked Cochrane off first but the latter knocked the ball from Sullivan's hands when he slid back into the bag.

Those eight Mack runs in the second made it obvious to Fonseca that the day was lost so he moved Sullivan from first base to the catching job to give the young man experience in what eventually may be his regular position.

Charley English batted for Bartholomew to open the ninth and singled. He ran past second on Funk's fly to center and then retraced his steps without retouching the bag. He went back to attend to this detail and then had no chance to get to first before being doubled. After the double play the Sox scored a pair of runs.

MRS. ABBY FERRY, 81, LONG A SOCIAL LEADER, IS DEAD

Prominent Figure in Early History of Chicago.

Mrs. Abby Farwell Ferry, for more than half a century actively prominent in Chicago and north shore society, died yesterday in Alice Home hospital in Lake Forest. She was 81 years old, and resided at Beach Brow, 925 North Lake road, Lake Forest.

Born in Chicago, Mrs. Ferry was the daughter of the late John V. Farwell Sr. Her family was actively identified with the early days of Chicago, and she grew up amidst the early social activities. Her debut was attended by Gen. William T. Sherman, famous civil war hero. Incidentally, she herself attended the debut of her granddaughter, Phyllis Ferry, last January.

Throughout her life Mrs. Ferry interested herself in educational work and was active in many women's clubs and organizations. Among these was the Daughters of the American Revolution, of which she was a former president.

In recent years Mrs. Ferry was an invalid and moved about in a wheel chair. She took advantage of the physical leisure this incapacitation imposed by writing. In 1928 her book, "Reminiscences of John V. Farwell by His Eldest Daughter," was published. Recently she completed another book, "When I Was at Farmington," a story reminiscent of days she spent in the famous girls' school.

Mrs. Ferry was the widow of William Henry Ferry. She is survived by three sons, the Rev. Horace Ferry, Montague Ferry, and Frank Ferry. Funeral arrangements will be announced today.

THIRTEENTH MAN IS ARRESTED IN IOWA KIDNAPING

Charles City, Ia., Aug. 23.—(AP)—The thirteenth arrest was made today in connection with the abduction of Miss Marion Stull, Floyd county overseer of the poor, from her office yesterday by a group of workers on unemployment relief projects.

The last man arrested was Robert Downs. Twelve others were picked up yesterday a short time after Miss Stull had been released near New Hampton with a warning to her to stay out of Charles City.

County Attorney E. C. Hardwig announced the men would be given no preliminary hearing unless they demanded it. The county grand jury will convene in two weeks to consider the incident.

It was disclosed that the board of supervisors, administrator of the unemployment relief funds, had asked Miss Stull to resign several weeks ago. She refused on the grounds that her contract was for a year.

Funeral services for William E. Gary, president of the Gary-Wheaton bank and a cousin of the late Elbert H. Gary, steel magnate, will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Gary Memorial church in Wheaton. He was 64 years old.

Mr. Gary was found shot to death on Monday night on the porch of his home at 618 North Cross street, Wheaton. Born at Gary Mills, in Winfield township just west of Wheaton, Mr. Gary was the son of pioneer settlers. His father was William A. Gary of Pomfret, Conn., and his mother was Elizabeth White of Wiscasset, Me. Mr. Gary started to work for the bank 44 years ago under Judge Gary and served in various positions until becoming president five years ago.

Mr. Gary was married to Jennie Rudd in 1900. She and their son, Robert, 23 years old, survive him.

HAS CASH TO PAY BUT CAN'T FIND BONDHOLDERS

A case wherein an equity owner is hunting bond holders to pay interest due them, reversing the usual procedure of bond holders trying to get cash out of equity owners, was disclosed yesterday by Frank G. Marshall of Marshall & Marshall, attorneys.

Mr. Marshall states that Mrs. Ella La Court owner of the Oak Manor apartments, 925-27 Ontario street, Oak Park, is ready to take care of all current interest requirements upon proper application of any bondholder at the offices of Marshall & Marshall, 10 South La Salle street. Interest on the bonds, of which there are now $38,000 outstanding, formerly was paid through the Madison Square State bank which is now being liquidated. The bank held the list of bondholders.

A heading over an item regarding the purchase of certain assets of the Ravenswood National company, investment subsidiary of the Ravenswood National bank, by the E. E. Stults Realty company, stated that the bank building had been bought. The heading should have read "Stults buys Ravenswood bank subsidiary."

Vernon Hotel Plan.

Avery Brundage, chairman of a protective committee for first mortgage bonds sold through H. O. Stone & Co., yesterday announced a plan for the reorganization of the Vernon hotel, 758 Jackson boulevard. He says the committee has an agreement signed by the owners to do the things set forth in the plan and that a foreclosure action has been filed by the committee's counsel.

In the plan it is pointed out that there is around $28,000 due for taxes covering the period 1928 to 1931. The foreclosure action was filed on Aug. 1, and it is stated that this will be dropped if sufficient bonds are deposited. Under the plan when title is cleared it is proposed to vest title to the property in a new building corporation, which is to execute a new bond issue dated July 1, 1932, and maturing July 1, 1939.

The management will remain the same under the new plan. All income derived from the property after July 1, 1932, is to be used in the following order: 1. Payment of operating expenses. 2 Payment of the remainder of the fees of the committee, its counsel, and its depositary. 3. The payment of interest, if earned, at the rate aof 3 per cent. 4. The net surplus, if any, will be used to retire bonds. The depositary is the Chicago Title and Trust company.

To Auction Properties.

The same committee also announces that the following properties on which bond issues were underwritten by H. O. Stone & Co., are to be sold at public auction.

Plymouth parage, 701-17 Plymouth court, 11 a. m., Sept. 12, Chicago Real Estate Board, 19th floor, 32 West Randolph street.

Lardd building, southeast corner 79th street and Manistee avenue, 11 a. m., Sept. 13, Chicago Real Estate Board, 19th floor, 32 West Randolph street.

The protective committee is to be represented at each sale and will seek to bid in the properties for the benefit of the bondholders.

RAW SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was unchanged today with refiners still inclined to hold aloof, although believed willing to pay 3.16c for sugars in position to suit. Holders were asking 3.18c. The only sale reported was 16,000 bags of Cuban for prompt shipment to an operator at 1.07½c f. o. b. Cuba, equal to about 3.18c delivered here. Trading in futures was comprised principally of September liquidation or of exchanging from that delivery to later months, and after some irregularity early prices firmed up and closed at net gains of 1 to 2 points. Prices follow:

Refined sugar was unchanged with refiners at 4.25c, but second hands available at 4.12½c. There were fair withdrawals on old contracts, but new business was light and supplied through second hands.

S. J. T. STRAUS DENIES CHARGES OF NEW YORK ATTORNEY GENERAL

New York, Aug. 23.—(AP)—S. W. Straus & Co., described by the attorney general's office as the oldest real estate bond house in the country, was called upon today to show cause why it should not be restrained from selling securities, except under conditions laid down by the attorney general.

One of the conditions would require the company to make complete disclosures to its clients of the true value of the properties against which it sells bonds. The attorney general's office, in applying for an injunction, alleged this had not been done in the past. The order, returnable tomorrow, also directs the company to show cause why the company be placed in receivership.

S. J. T. Straus, chairman of the board, issued a statement declaring the material allegations in the attorney general's petition were not true.

The company was charged in the petition with having sold bonds against properties on which taxes and interest had not been paid and on which there had been no amortization of principal.

Straus, in his statement, said:

"The company's officials are confident that after a full and fair day in court it will be found that the company's course of business deserves credit rather than censure and that the restrictions upon its future business suggested in the petition are both impracticable and unnecessary and would be seriously detrimental to the interests of the company's customers."

WILDES TELLS CENTRAL PUBLIC SERVICE PLAN

Takes Step to Change Financial Setup.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Central Public Service corporation, $357,000,000 public utility organization whose operating properties are scattered from Oregon to Maine and from the Philippines to the Canaries, yesterday announced the adoption of a comprehensive plan for the voluntary adjustment of its corporate and financial structure.

The plan is as new as it is far reaching. Under it bank loans that have menaced the corporation's financial position are, in effect, extended for three years to enable the corporation to tide itself over to better times. Other early maturing obligations are similarly extended.

Wildes Makes Announcement.

Announcement of these changes was officially made yesterday afternoon at the office of Central Public Service corporation, 224 South Michigan avenue, by W. H. Wildes, executive vice president of Consolidated Electric and Gas company, a newly organized corporation in the Central group.

More than 100,000 security holders are interested in the plan as set up by the company. Eight and one-half tons of letters last night went out to these people explaining the alterations in the corporate structure of their companies.

Under the plan two new companies have been formed and have acquired certain assets of the existing system. This enables the corporation to scale down fixed charges and at the same time take care of its major financial problems for several years.

Features of Plan.

Officials of the system said that it would not be necessary to ask for the approval of security holders. In fact, they explained that the changes had already been made and that under the new arrangement it had been possible to meet Aug. 1 maturities.

The salient features of the plan were summarized yesterday by officials of the corporation, as follows:

Central Public Utility corporation [Delaware], one of the new corporations formed under the plan, is the new holding company, and will own the entire authorized and outstanding common stock of Central Public Service corporation [Maryland], and also of the second new company formed—Consolidated Electric and Gas company [Delaware].

Through such stock ownership Central Public Utility corporation owns the equity in the entire Central Public Service corporation as heretofore constituted. It has no debts or obligations other than 43 million dollars of twenty year 6½ per cent income bonds.

Consolidated Electric and Gas company has acquired a substantial majority of the operating companies from Central Public Service corporation.

Subsidiary Companies.

Central Public Service corporation will be a subsidiary holding company of the new Central Public Utility corporation. The subsidiary companies which are controlled by Central Public Service corporation are:

Pacific Northwest Public Service company, which controls Portland General Electric company, Seattle Gas company and various other operating subsidiaries.

Central Public Utility corporation [Maryland].

Central Gas and Electric company.

Southern Cities Public Utility company.

The first named two companies under Central Public Service corporation are holding companies for operating units. The last three are virtually investment companies. Most of their assets have been exchanged for securities of Consolidated Electric and Gas company.

Incorporated July 29.

Consolidated Electric and Gas company, incorporated in Delaware July 29, 1932, owns companies operating electric power and light, gas, water, heating, ice, and transportation properties in twenty states of the Union, two Canadian provinces, Philippine Islands, Porto Rico, Haiti, Santo Domingo, and the island of Mallorca. Subsidiaries of this company serve a combined population of approximately 4,200,000 in 587 communities. Among the important cities served are Atlanta and Macon, Ga.; Manila, Philippine Islands; Rockford and Freeport, Ill.; Mobile and Montgomery, Ala.; Roanoke and Lynchburg, Va.; Muncie, Marion and Anderson, Ind.; Charleston, S. C., and Durham, Asheville and Raleigh, N. C.

The basis of exchange of the various securities, under the terms of the plan, is as follows:

For each $1,000 debenture or five year gold note of Central Public Service corporation there is offered in exchange (a) an equal principal amount of Central Public Utility corporation 20 year 5½ per cent income bonds and (b) voting trust certificates representing 20 shares of common stock of Central Public Utility.

For each share of $7 cumulative preferred stock of Central Public Service, 1¾ shares of $4 preferred stock of Central Public Utility.

$6 Preferred Stock.

For each $6 cumulative preferred share of Central Public Service—1½ shares of $4 preferred stock of Central Public Utility.

For each $4 cumulative preferred share of Central Public Service—1

Cutten Calls Huff Rough on Grain Board

Clarence E. Huff, president of the Farmers' National Grain corporation and arch foe of the Chicago Board of Trade, was taken to task yesterday by Arthur W. Cutten, grain and stock trader.

Mr. Cutten's arraignment of the grain corporation's head was contained in a public statement captioned: "From Pulpit to Grain Pit or The Rev. Huff Gets Rough."

The statement which bore the signature of Mr. Cutten said in part: "The Rev. Clarence E. Huff, as a follower of the Prince of Peace comports himself atrociously and would do well to strip himself of all insignia of his former Master, because when Huff gets rough the title of Rev. becomes nothing less than sacrilegious, losing entirely its caste and significance.

Cites Recent Attack.

"This is predicated on his latest unprovoked tirade against the grain exchange system of pit trading for future delivery as upheld by the Supreme court of the United States. He therein presents to the public through the press the staggering statement that the grain pits are not needed, and that the closing of the Board of Trade would work no hardship."

"This statement in itself is entitled to the prize for ignorance, being a direct reflection on the action of congress ten years ago when the grain futures act passed, with its licensing system, in order to perpetuate the activity of the Board of Trade and especially the contracts for future delivery.

"Is Huff Monopolist?"

"Economists have held that the elimination of future delivery trading for any commodity of yearly production creates a monopoly. Can it be that Rev. Huff has dropped his 'mantle of charity' or 'brotherhood of love,' or has he abandoned the Golden Rule itself, with monopoly as his ultimate goal. We must not overlook his repeated statements that on money borrowed from the farm board his corporation was already handling 25 per cent of the grain business of the country."

5 Paper Container Makers Merge Plants Next Month

The merger of four paper boxboard firms was announced in Rockford, Ill., yesterday by Ray Wantz, president of Rockford Fibre Container company. The new organization will have paid up capital of $6,500,000 and working capital of $1,500,000.

The consolidation becomes effective Sept. 15.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 23.—Great Britain, according to London reports, will pay off this Saturday the final $50,000,000 due in the United States and France on the $400,000,000 loan contracted a year ago in a futile attempt to maintain the gold standard.

As far as can be ascertained, the British treasury owes to the American banking syndicate, headed by J. P. Morgan & Co., which supplied half the original loan, nothing but a commission for keeping open $50,000,000 of credit since last April.

Paid American Bankers.

On April 5, the British government paid off the last installment of the credit extended by American bankers but, as the credit had a year to run from last August, left $50,000,000 uncancelled.

The amount due to the French is understood to be around $35,000,000 with interest, being the unpaid part of $100,000,000 one year notes sold to the French public. Of that total about $65,000,000 had been bought by the British government in the open market some months ago.

Payment of $50,000,000 will write "finish" to one of the most remarkable incidents in international finance. Altogether the British government and the Bank of England borrowed in America and France last September, $850,000,000 to save the pound from "disaster." Within six months all of it, with the exception of about $35,000,000 in notes held by the French public was repaid, an achievement that surprised the world of finance.

Bankers Still Puzzled.

New York, Aug. 23.—(AP)—A number of leading Wall street bankers today said they had received no word from Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, who now is at Bar Harbor, Me., for a vacation, as to whether he plans to visit New York and Washington before returning home. Some bankers wonder if he will discuss the reported desire of the British government to act with the United into the mills.

PACKERS TO HELP FARMERS TO GET FEEDER CATTLE

Armour & Co. and the Cudahy Packing company, through their joint cattle loan company, have launched a plan by which they hope to help solve the financing problem of stock breeders and feeders.

Through the loan company the two packing firms will undertake the placement of cattle of the companies' clients in the feed lots of farmers in central Illinois who might otherwise be unable to get feeder cattle. The company will advance money necessary to transport the cattle from the pastures through the stockyards at Kansas City and St. Louis to the Illinois farms.

Sun Oil Company Reports Net Income of $2,030,918

Report of the Sun Oil company and subsidiaries for the first half of 1932 showed net income of $2,030,918 and gross operating income of $30,820,930. Current assets were $24,322,522 and current liabilities $7,724,060, against $24,162,430 and $10,832,722, respectively, a year ago.

PENNSYLVANIA ROAD DELAYS START OF ITS DOOR TO DOOR SERVICE

New York, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—The start of store door service by railroads in New York City has been deferred indefinitely pending further determination of the test case brought against the Pennsylvania railroad. This was learned today.

A suit for an injunction to restrain the Pennsylvania from putting pickup and delivery service into effect was dismissed by Judge George A. Welsh in the federal District court at Philadelphia last week. The plaintiffs, New York Dock Railway, Bush Terminal Railroad, Brooklyn Eastern District Terminal, and Jay Street Terminal, alleged that the service would constitute an extension of existing railroad lines and require a certificate of necessity from the interstate commerce commission.

TAYLOR, STEEL HEAD, SEES END OF DEPRESSION

Says Buying Cannot Be Delayed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 23.—Officials of the United States Steel corporation, industrial giant of the world, are confident the depression has come to the point where they can plan with safety for better times ahead.

This was indicated today when Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the board of directors of "Big Steel," announced the corporation would immediately spend 5 million dollars for replacements and new equipment.

Buying Cannot Be Delayed.

The significant section of Mr. Taylor's statement, at least as far as Wall street was concerned, was this:

"It would seem the buying movement cannot be long delayed."

The expenditures are to be made in United States Steel plants located in Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Alabama, and Pennsylvania.

Outlining steps taken during the depression to keep as many men at work by distributing available occupation, Mr. Taylor said:

"The major portion of the normal force is occupied some part of the week under this plan. If no employment is available, the employés and their families, if in need, are assisted by direct relief and credits extended by the corporation.

Creating a Vacuum.

"While the war created a great vacuum due to the destruction of physical property, it was followed by all communities engaging in replacing same for a period after its close. The stoppage of production due to the depression, the consumption of supplies and the wear and tear from use of all materials and equipment, added to that natural obsolescence which takes place in all industry, are creating a similar vacuum which, is due course, will have to be filled.

"Then, too, in periods such as the one through which we are now passing, competition necessitates the use of the most modern equipment. One might look upon this as a time for a thorough house cleaning, and it will be the reason for replacement on a large scale when the productive facilities of the country are again called into substantial use. It would seem the buying movement cannot be long delayed."

Bradstreet's Failure Index Continues to Drop

During the week ended Aug. 18 the failures index as compiled by Bradstreet's continued to decline in spite of the fact that the actual number of failures rose from 511 to 543. The gain of 6.3 per cent was considerably less than the increase normally expected.

U.S. to Float Billion Loan Next Month

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 23.—Financial requirements of the government for the third quarter of the year, which will necessitate the flotation on Sept. 15 of about $1,000,000,000 of securities for refinancing and other purposes, were discussed at length today at a meeting in the federal reserve board by Ogden L. Mills, secretary of the treasury; officials of the federal reserve system, leading bankers, and government bond dealers. They talked about the general condition of the market for government bonds and the prospects for changes in the next three weeks.

Reason for New Issue.

The financing on Sept. 15 will have to provide for the refunding of $712,000,000 of maturing issues comprising $314,000,000 of 1¼ per cent certificates of indebtedness and $398,000,000 of 3 per cent certificates. In addition, it is expected, at least $300,000,000 of new money will be wanted for the use of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and for other governmental expenditures not covered by the quarter's tax payments.

The treasury also has before it the problem whether to undertake the conversion into a lower coupon issue of $536,000,000 of First Liberty Loan 4¼s, which will become callable on Dec. 15. If the issue is to be redeemed, it will be necessary to give notice of that intention by Sept. 15.

Causes an Argument.

Opinion in government bond circles is divided as to the wisdom of the move. The bonds have until June 15, 1947, to run and are securely held so that they are not likely to come on the market. To call them at this time would greatly swell the total of financing to be done on Dec. 15, when $600,000,000 of 3¼ per cent notes will fall due.

New York, Aug. 23.—Prices were carried forward to new high ground for the recovery, in many cases for the year, in a fresh outburst of buying on the New York stock exchange today.

In the afternoon, however, the list ran into heavy selling and early gains were whittled down to an average of 1 to 2 points on the leaders and a mere fraction for some of the less active trading mediums.

The session was one of the most active of the year, the turnover totaling approximately 4,600,000 shares. Brokers reported evidence of increasing public participation, brokerage house customers' rooms being crowded all day with eager tape watchers.

Large Investment Buyers.

While most of the current buying is admittedly for speculative account, a large sharge of it is plainly of an investment nature as is shown by the steady demand which keeps boosting preferred stocks to new highs for the movement from day to day—even when the list in general is having one of its occasional "technical setbacks."

Observers agree that sentiment is more cheerful in the street now than at any time since the advance got under way. Those bullishly inclined apparently are growing more and more confident as session after session goes by without bringing the reaction which doubting Thomases have been foreseeing as "inevitable" ever since things began to have anway back early in July.

The market started off like a house afire today. Speculative interests had been keyed to a high pitch by the market's demonstration of strength yesterday, then virtually all groups had succeeded in breaking through their previous highs in the face of popular expectations of a reaction. Orders to buy came piling in at such a rate as to distance the ticker for as much as eight minutes at one time in the first two hours of trading. Up to around noon the ticker was running on an average of one to three minutes behind floor operations.

Big Pressure on Ticker.

CLOSING RALLY BOOSTS WHEAT; GAIN IN BUYING

Day's Results Slightly Below the Top.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat made a rather feeble response to the strength in stocks yesterday. Buying in small lots and short covering lifted the December 1¼c over Monday's finish at the extreme to 55⅝c. The trade was not broad enough, however, to absorb the profit taking and selling against offers which developed above 55c, and a reaction followed which carried prices off 1¼c from the high point. The close was on a fair rally with net gains of ½@⅝c. September closed at 50⅞@51c; December, 54⅛@54⅝c and May, 59⅛@59¼c.

Spreading operations between the September and December deliveries furnished part of the trade in wheat with hedges being turned over into the distant position. Houses with eastern connections were fair buyers early, but the advantage gained was not followed up, and many of the locals who bought in expectation of further operations on the bull side went out of their holdings on the way down. There was some buying during the day which was attributed to foreign account.

Eastern Buying at Winnipeg.

Persistent buying of wheat futures at Winnipeg by houses with eastern connections more than offset hedging pressure in the Canadian market and it closed ⅝@¾c higher with December at 57⅝c in Canadian funds. According to reports from that market the selling by cash houses was persistent, but there were also indications of a good export business passing. Total sales of Manitobas were estimated around 700,000 bu for the day with intimations that the business of late has been in excess of the quantities reported. Liverpool was again affected by the limited stocks of cash grain and closed ⅝@1c per bu higher with December 57c.

A fairly steady increase in the open interest in wheat in the local market despite the erratic fluctuations is puzzling the trade. According to pit gossip there has been no concentrated buying of late, and many of the eastern longs went out of their holdings late last week. In the face of this the open interest at the close on Monday was 142,691,000 bu, an increase of 557,000 bu as compared with Saturday, and is the largest since January, 1931.

With harvesting of spring wheat in the American northwest completed, and well under way in the prairie provinces the trade has started to pay more attention to the demand for the new grain. As yet there has been no evidence of foreign interest of consequence, but hard winter, the business going largely to Canada owing to high quality and relatively lower price. It is regarded as too early in the season for the outlook for the crop in the southern hemisphere to be a market factor of consequence.

Corn Has Narrow Range.

Buying of September and selling of December corn at 1⅜c difference to change over hedges furnished a good part of the trade in that grain yesterday. Prices held within a range of ¼@⅝c with the close ⅛@¼c higher, largely in sympathy with wheat. September was 30⅝c at the last with December 32⅜c, and May, 36⅞c. Country offerings were generally held ⅛@1c above buyers views with purchases of 40,000 bu made by local handlers.

Two Western Railroads Report Traffic Upturn

Increase last week in freight traffic were reported yesterday by both the Illinois Central and the Chicago and North Western railroads.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 8,000; hogs, 18,000; sheep, 18,000.

Hogs continued their sluggish pace into lower price channels yesterday. Aggregate supplies were shorter. This excited some demand for top grades of light and medium weight butchers which are expected to outsell light hogs shortly and they held steady. But the bulk of selling was done on a 5@15c lower basis, with the close as low as any time of the day.

However, the average still is 28 per cent above the year's bottom, while the peak price at $4.80 stands 45 per cent above the low point. Fancy 223 lb butchers topped the market, the rank and file of 170@200 lb winter and early spring pigs selling at $4.60 @4.70, while $4.00@4.50 bought the majority of 240@310 lb averages. Prime 400 lb hogs were sold at $3.75. Chicago receipts continue moderate, but other points reported substantial decreases again.

During the first two days of this week the eleven eastern and western markets handled 142,000 hogs, this total being 50,000 head or 26 per cent smaller than the total for the corresponding two days in 1931. Regardless of the slow movement of supplies yesterday, there was a fairly good clearance made before the finish.

Estimates placed the holdover at Chicago at 5,000 last night, including about 2,000 pen holders. Barring Saturday, this is the smallest holdover in 12 days.

All But Best Lower.

The quality of cattle proved to be a stumbling block for the general market yesterday, but also created additional competition for the scant supply of top classes offered to buyers.

All but the best grades of steers fell 10@25c in value, sales of $5.00@8.00 kinds showing losses of 25@35c for the first two days of the week. The scarcity of highly finished 1,200@1,500 lb beeves made these almost immune to price slashing. A few feeble attempts were made to prod the tops off their high perch, but in the main buyers are more interested in getting the right quality of beef than they are in any concessions in top grades.

A representative of an eastern packer paid $9.85, the top, for a shipment of 50 averaging 1,485 lbs. Few others were good enough to pass $9.00. Numerous shipments of grassy and short fed steers sold at $6.00@7.00. Not many of the strictly grass cattle were in killer flesh. Country buyers took a few shipments out at $4.00@ 6.00. One string of Montana range cattle was valued at $5.00@6.00. Native grassers sold to stocker and feeder dealers at $4.00@5.25. Occasional sales of inferior grades, undesirable from either a killer or feeder standpoint, sold below the $4.00 line. Butcher stock was peddled out at Monday's decline, some heifers selling at additional loss late in the day. Calves were steady. The supply of stockers and feeders was larger and country buyers had things more their own way. Numerous instances of 25c decline were cited in this division on late rounds.

LARD PRICES HIGHER

There was a strong tone in lard, but trade was light and there was no pressure. Buying of January lard and selling of cottonseed oil at almost the same prices while the latter recently was at 10c premium furnished the bulk of the business. At the close prices were up 2½ to 12½c, distant futures being the stronger.
